Bebe Daniels Wants Talisman Against Bad Luck

"Every good luck charm all day and keep the hoodlums away" is the newly acquired motto of Bebe Daniels, motion picture star. She has started a nation-wide search for some talisman which will ward off and for all the evil omens which have followed the player for years. Before the Paramount star begins her next production, she promises to have something in her possession which will be potent to tilt Man Misfortune.

Canine Satellite At Star Theater Showing Now

"Dynamic, Universal's wonder dog will further entice himself to lead moviegoers who they see his latest starring vehicle 'Call of the Heart', which comes to the star theater today with Edmund Cobb in the leading human role. Dynamic is said to be at his best in this picture-story of the trials and tribulations of a young girl and her brother, orphans who are trying to carve a homestead out of the wide reaches of the western plains. The story is full of the human interest element and Ross Dickey, the author, has woven into the plot his marvellous understanding of the workings of the canine mind.

Theatrical Idea In Tonight's F & M At Arcade

Fanchon and Marco have signed Will King and his company as the feature of a dazzling new revue, entitled "Theatrical Speaking", which is now playing at the Arcade theater.

A year ago Will King and his merry gang toured the West Coast and played at the Broadway theater of Portland one of the most successful weeks in the theater's history.

Will King with Fanchon and Marco have worked out a novel show for next week, which is a review of bits from every conceivable type of stage art, including drama, comedy, mystery, vaudeville, grand opera and finally ending up with a modern theater production.

Law Dunlap, comedian and character actor, who for the past 10-15 years has been with Will King will be featured opposite June "Coke" Howard, comedienne who made her first tour with the company last season in the show and Don Smith, tenor in this year's addition. Others are the Will King Girls, Helen Thorton, Frances Williams and Allen Lee.

Dress Evolution Will Be Shown In "The Crowd"

The evolution of modern street and business clothes, both for men and women, are to be seen in King Vidor's new production, "The Crowd" a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture coming to the Arcade theater for three days starting Thursday.

While all these costumes will be within the memory of the present generation of adult picture-goers they will go far toward showing that when woman was a girl she had to wear about the most unbecoming wardrobe that woman has had inflicted upon them during the last several centuries.

The bustle of the late eighties, which would have permitted maiden to suit herself upon a cable without getting a scratch, was the ultra of its day and was ex-lauded with pride. Yet today, it looks like something Mrs. Noah wore as she walked down the gangplank of the Ark.

The styles for men weren't quite so different from what they are today but there is enough difference to make the men of that day and today look like inhabitants of different planets. In what manner looked so chic in 1912 would make a good masquerade costume for the dapper of today. Yet today's styles can be traced back to the clothing of 1912. They look like professional cousins. Yet there is a marked relationship.

The styles of the earlier decades appear but, briefly in the opening sequences and soon give way to the styles of 1927, the period in which most of the action takes place.

Kleener Boardman, who appeared with John Gilbert in the latter's "Birds, Bees, and Magnificence" and with Charles Ray in "The Auction Block," has the featured role in "The Crowd." James Murray, formerly an extra man and now a protégé of Director King Vidor, has the leading male role. The cast also includes Bert Roach, Lucy Beaumont, Del Henderson, Daniel Tomlinson and Freddie Frederick.

For Sale

A splendid buy in an apartment house, which is well located for most large apartments, always filled, in large addition to one apartment occupied by over 175 per month. Reason for disposition of property not financial, this property always has been a good investment. A small payment will place you in possession and the income will make the future payments. A small house might be considered as part payment. Here is an opportunity for some thirty wife to invest materially in preparing for the rainy days that are sure to come.
