The stout man on the scales was eagerly watched by two small boys. The man dropped in his cent, but the machine was out of order and registered only 75 pounds. "Good Night, Bill," gasped one of the youngsters in amazement, "he's hollow!"

Wife: "Oh, you needn't think you're so wonderful. The night you promised to live you looked absolutely silly!"

Husband: "A coincidence. The fact is, I was absolutely silly!"

The Boss: "That's all right I haven't done it yet."

AT THE THEATERS

Spirit of West Features Film At The Star

Magnificent scenic backgrounds, spectacular dashes of Indian horses, a swiftly moving story, in which the spirit of the west of ninety years ago has been caught, are the outstanding features of Fred Thompson's Paramount special, "The Spirit of West," which opened at the Star theater last night.

In the broad sweep of the narrative has been woven the threads of two love stories which figured in the life of the famous trapper and scout—that of an Indian girl (for Kit Carson, played by the western star, and that of Kit Carson for a beautiful Spanish girl. It has its beautiful moments too, with a series of old time trappers at play, Silver King, Mr. Thompson's famous white horse, contributes his share both to the drama and the laughter.

The cast is exceptionally strong. Daniel Paul, as the French-Canadian trapper and rival of Kit, gives a most distinguished performance. Nora Lane, who registered so heavily in other Thompson productions, adds to her talents also in the picture. Dorothy Jants, a newcomer, gives promise. William Courtwright, gives his customary lovable characterization.

The film was taken in its entirety on the Navajo Indian reservation in Arizona and a great deal of research work was undergone by Mr. Thompson in giving the picture an authentic touch. Few pictures can compare with this production for scenic picture beauty, but the directors, Alfred Werker and Lloyd Ingraham, didn't allow their fondness for background to interfere with the development of their story.

"The Little Buckaroo," which opens tonight at the Colonial theater, with thirteen-year-old Ruth Hutton in the starring role, is a fast moving drama of western life which should provide plenty of entertainment for everyone.

The film studios certainly secured a big success when they decided to star little Ruth in Westerns, for the youngster in the short time that he has appeared on the screen has won his way into the hearts of a lot of people. Unlike many stars of his age, Ruth does not appear alone to the youngsters but to their parents as well. He is a wonderful father and a fine actor.

Written and adapted by Frank Howard Clark, the story of "The Little Buckaroo" deals with the adventures of a young boy who is a trapper's son and a fine actor.
