California Lumber Mills Are Burned

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19 (AP)—Two lumber mills here were swept by fire last night with total loss estimated at $600,000. Firemen believed both fires were started by incendiaries.

The mills were owned by the J. W. Kruse Lumber company and the Weindler Lumber mill company. The Weindler fire started first, and was controlled with about $100,000 loss.

He: "Why are nicks better than dollars?"
She: "I dunno, why?"
He: "Because many more of them go to church."

"Never despair, behind the clouds the sun is still shining."
"Yeah, and below the sea there's a split bottom, but that doesn't help you any if you fall overboard."

"What's that bump on the top of your head?"
"That's a birth mark."
"I never saw it before, how can it be a birth mark?"
"I tried to stand up in a lower berth."

Mayor Walker includes himself among the only two native New Yorkers who ever amounted to much. You have to compound the young man's modesty in not claiming to be both of them.

"Did you hear the joke about the film actress?"
"No, what was it?"
"Her secretary didn't keep the records straight, and now she finds she has had two more divorces than she's had weddings."

Jack: "I want you to marry me, because, and this is the little girl who's to be my wife."
Carson: "Very glad to mate you."

Byrd's Ship Turns Back To Balboa

PANAMA, Sept. 19 (AP)—Having developed engine trouble shortly after sailing for Honolulu, New Zealand, en route to the Antarctic, the City of New York, supply ship of Commander Richard E. Byrd's South polar expedition, was returning to port today.

The vessel, which cleared from Balboa yesterday morning, wirelessly last night that engine trouble had developed in the neighborhood of Balboa Island. The ship will be examined and repaired at the Balboa docks.

Judging by the increase in grade crossing accidents, motorists are not a superstitious lot—but you'd think there were some signs they would believe in.

"Crimson City" With Myrna Loy Coming Here

Myrna Loy is featured as Nan Toy, a Chinese "Madame Butterfly" in Warner Bros. "The Crimson City" which comes to the Star theater Thursday for a run of three days.

No screen on the screen today can create the same atmosphere of mysterious loveliness as Miss Loy, and she makes much of the character of Nan Toy, the Chinese slave girl who saves an English refugee from self-destruction, nurses him to health, and then, after leaving all dangers for his sake, gives him up to a white girl.

Some of the most famous Oriental character actors appear in "The Crimson City," among them being Soim, Anna May Wong and Matthew Betz. John Miljan plays the renegade. The white girl is splendidly impersonated by Leila Hyams. Anders Randolph plays the part of her father, Richard Tucker is cast as the influential Mr. Hyams, who tries to prevent the white man's exonerated that he may claim the English girl's love.

"The Crimson City" is thrilling and glamorous romance. Anthony Gaidway did the scenario, and Archie Mayo directed. It's a play you oughtn't to miss.

Griffith Drama To Show At The Arcade

No picture of recent years has evoked more spontaneous praise from critics than has "Drums of Love," the epic romance of two brothers in love which D. W. Griffith has fashioned for United Artists and which comes to the Arcade theater Thursday with Mary Pickford, Lillian Haymond, Don Alexander, Filly Marshall and William Austin in the leading roles.

The picture is said to be so far advanced in the realm of sheer beauty and dramatic strength that no comparison can be made with any modern screen production. In this new masterpiece of his, Griffith is said to have achieved the very ultimate in perfection.

It is seldom that Griffith grows enthused. Twenty years of bitter struggles in bringing an infant industry to the plane of an art—more reaching and universal even than the graphic arts—has tempered whatever of self-indulgence he might have possessed. "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance" and "Broken Blossoms" didn't burst on a skeptical public in a flurry of meaningless adjectives of praise. Griffith is not given to meek prophecies. When he says, as he did concerning "Drums of Love," "boys, I think I've got it," the statement carries an implication of pride, that, coming from him, is the best recommendation the picture could get.

Many who have seen the production have been struck to express its great dramatic power and poetic treatment in terms of more words. For the first time, life is vividly portrayed on the screen in all its ramifications. All the joys and the sorrows, the loves and the amours of mankind are paralleled through the medium of a new photography and masterfully woven into a sublime story.

"Sally of The Scandals" Now At Arcade

Professional jealousy, admittedly the most disturbing influence in the show business, is cleverly depicted by Lynn Shores, youthful "P.O. director" in "Sally of The Scandals," the attraction now running at the Arcade theater, with Leslie Love as the featured player.

Sally's intricate rise from the ranks of the chorus girl to the beautiful star of the "Scandals." She tries to disgrace Sally by having her blamed for a jewel robbery. Sally's proving her innocence and ultimate arrival at stardom provide dramatic highlights in the picture.

Leslie Love's performance on the chorus girl is a superb characterization, while Margaret Quimby, formerly of George White's Scandals in New York, makes an ideal "marion." The remainder of the cast includes Allan Forrest, Irene Lambert, Jimmie Phillips, Jack Raymond and Jerry Wiley.
