Everything In The Store To GO!

we must clear the decks

This is my last event. Circumstances have arisen which make it advisable for me to retire from the mercantile business. Much as I regret this action, it is imperative. Only one thing remains: I must close out my entire stock, not for what it is worth—but for what it will bring. Men, never have you had such an opportunity for extraordinary savings, and probably you never will again. This is my last sale—my final effort to wind up this business and retire from the mercantile field.

This sale is far and away beyond anything I have ever attempted. Cost means nothing; an absolute reduction of everything is the only thing that matters. To make the complete close-out certain, I have taken enormous reductions on everything in the store. This big advertisement shows you something of the savings, showing the same tremendous reductions. Be wise—come early to this, the greatest Retiring From Business Sale in the history of La Grande.
