HEALTH
HOW MOTHERS CAN HELP PREVENT THE SPREAD OF CONTAGION IN SCHOOL. By Dr. Frederick Stricker

Whether or not a child is sick enough to go to school, or is sick enough to be kept at home, is a problem that every parent must solve many times during the school life of every child.

The problem is not always one of easy solution. Especially children seem to get home because of the fear of their contracting some contagious disease. With a health department that functions properly and especially with an adequate medical inspection of schools, the danger that a child may contract diphtheria, scarlet fever, or even scarlet fever at school is not very great at any time.

Very often, however, the danger is not so much in the child as in the school. In a school where the children are crowded together, and where the children are crowded together, and where the children are crowded together, the danger is not so much in the child as in the school.

There is a very good reason why this should not be done. Practically all contagious diseases are harder on younger children than on older ones, and this is especially true of whooping-cough and measles. One-half of all the deaths from whooping-cough and measles are more than one would think occur in children under one year of age, and 50 per cent of the deaths from whooping-cough occur in children under five years of age.

The proportion in measles is not quite so high in the very young as in whooping-cough, but, contrary to a very common, though erroneous opinion, the death rate in measles is also very much higher in young children than in older children and adults. Again, contrary to an opinion which is still

What has four legs, no wings, but can jump as high as the Woolworth building?

We have been asked why living is so high. We do not know unless it is because so much of it is being done.

One girl is so dim she thinks for maddness is a new kind of leather.

Mrs. Baker: "Every time you see a pretty girl you forget you're married."

KEEP ON TOOTHING
If you feel your foot tingling—And lay away your horn—Within a week there's not a soul who'll know that you were born.

The fellow who is on the job—A-goins' every day—And keeps forever at it—Here the one who makes it pay.

all too common, measles is not a mild disease; it is a very serious affair, and this disease in combination with its very frequent complication, pneumonia, is still responsible for the loss of many young lives.

With the present methods of individual protection it is hardly too much to say that parents are to blame if their children get mumps, whooping-cough, and colds at school is quite true; but until parents, family doctors, and health and school authorities all do their part in preventing this, these diseases will continue to spread in our schools.

The question naturally arises, why not let the children get whooping-cough and measles before they are old enough to go to school and get them over with? They are sure to have them at some time.

There is a very good reason why this should not be done. Practically all contagious diseases are harder on younger children than on older ones, and this is especially true of whooping-cough and measles. One-half of all the deaths from whooping-cough and measles are more than one would think occur in children under one year of age, and 50 per cent of the deaths from whooping-cough occur in children under five years of age.

AT THE THEATERS

Juvenile Star In Picture At Arcade

The film treatment up to the present time has been told of an outstanding "kid" star. But Cool R. De Mills has again come to the fore and supplied a long-felt want by making a featured juvenile play-off perfectly a star.

Junior was featured in "The Yankee Clipper," "The Country Doctor," "Harp in Hock," and "Slide, Kelly Slide." Heavens! other child players have held the center of the cinema stage, but only by one, they have striven to maintain a continuous, longer-than-Foghorn undisturbed leader in his field.

Under contract to Cecil B. De Mille since he made his motion picture debut in "The Road to Victory," Junior Coghlan has played featured roles with such success that he is now recognized as the screen's best child performer. It is predicted that he will attain an even higher position than ex-actor "Kid" actor, the film has long been "Let 'er Go, Gallagher," a thrilling story of a metropolitan newspaper written by Richard Harding Davis, will be seen at the Arcade theater today. Harrison Ford, Eleanor Fair, Ivan Lottsoff and other noted screen players are seen in the production.

"Women's Wares" Now Showing At the Star

"Women's Wares," a Tiffany production was shown here for the first time yesterday at the Star theater and was rated as one of the best picture entertainments seen here for some time. It is a picture depicting the life of two sales girls who are impressed by the charms of Evelyn Short and Gertrude Short.

The story tells in unbroken continuity of the disillusionment of a pretty young girl who falls in love with a young but poor chap and after going out with his associates on her return home that he was not all she had thought him to be. Heartbroken she determines to play the male sex for all they are worth, taking everything but giving nothing in return. For this purpose she maintains in a fashionable Fifth Avenue modish shop where they come in contact with men of wealth and distinction, including the girl's own and falls in love with a rich youth who seems to be different all then discovers that he is of the same clay as the rest, and her vendition with her first love in the midst of this interesting philosophy.

Evelyn Brent gives a finished performance in her role as the

Several years tests under commercial conditions in Oregon have shown an average increase of seven bushels of corn to the acre when the seed was treated with liquid planter before planting. As little as eight pounds to the acre, costing around 6 cents, is sufficient, says the experiment station. Just one and quarter used in this way is so effective that the results are so positive that general use is recommended.
