

Cove Is Host To Eastern Oregon Holiness Meet

Mrs. T. R. Conklin (Observer Correspondent)
COVE, Ore., (Special)—Mrs. Mattie Houston, who is secretary of the Grande Ronde Baptist association, spent last week in Ontario and Burns, attending the meeting which the Baptist people held there.

M. G. Baker, of La Grande, was in Cove on business Monday.

The Eastern Oregon Holiness meeting held in Cove Tuesday was well attended. In the morning, the Rev. R. C. Lee gave a splendid ser was sung. The afternoon service was opened by the business meeting, which was followed by songs and an address by Captain Holland, of the Salvation Army, of La Grande. Supper was served and the Rev. Mr. Knobel, of Baker, gave the evening address.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Blake and son, Bobby, are spending a few days in Baker this week, visiting relatives.

The Alexander boys, Truman and Glenn, left Tuesday for the Catholic Creek summer station, where they expect to spend the next four months trapping.

Mrs. Bernard Oving is visiting her sons, Mrs. Dora Tolson, in Pendleton this week.

The Durcas society met Thursday with Mrs. Alice McClain. After the business meeting the afternoon was spent in work on handkerchiefs. Refreshments were served by the ladies. Owing to the amount of work on hand, the Durcas ladies are meeting every week at present.

THE GARDEN

SHOW TULIPS FOR THE GARDEN

Darwin tulips are the great show of the country tribe of tulips, both in the garden with their tall stems and huge goblets of bloom and in the winter flower shows and florists' windows. They offer a cheap material with which the cultivator can have as fine a display at his door as the millionaire. Coming into bloom in mid-May on stems from two feet to more than 30 inches in a few varieties, they give for two weeks the most gorgeous display that the garden affords.

Since the World war, the tulip industry in Holland has made great strides in the way of recovery and there is now such an abundant supply of tulips that they are cheaper than ever before, and in addition many magnificent new varieties are being developed. While the position of the Darwin as indispensable in the garden has been well maintained for some seasons, other late tulips have forged to the front and taken their place beside the stately Darwins in popular favor. These are the Breeder and Cottage tulips. The former, of the same shape as the Darwin, the Darwin being a selected strain of Breeder, give a series of soft browns, tans, buffs and blends with red and purple that are seldom seen in plants. These two classes also furnish the only yellows among late tulips, there being no true yellow Darwin.

Late tulips should be planted by the hundreds and thousands. No garden is complete without them. They give the most heavily possible display of color for the least expense of any plant in the garden. Planted either in broad masses of single color units, or in groups of from three to a dozen scattered over the flower garden, their effect is magnificent.

The late tulips should be planted five inches apart from the shoulder of the bulb and at least six inches apart. A fine scheme is to space them ten inches apart, leaving room for a carpet planting of forget-me-nots, pansies, or double daisies to bloom at the same time as the tulips. The pink Clara that carries the background of forget-me-nots is a planting hard to beat for a delicate beauty.

The bedding strains or tufted panicles in self colors are fine to carpet tulip beds. The dark purple tulip, such as Velvet King, Zuni and others, waving above pale yellow clouds is a favorite planting.

The very earliest Mr. Furze's Sanderson, carpeted with pink and white double daisies, is another favorite planting. Pink Darwins carpeted with the perennial malis, nepeta Murel, is also a favorite.

"I dub thee C.C.C."

"C. C. C? I suppose that's another mean remark about the coffee."

"Not at all, you're the Countess of the Coffee Cup—a title of distinction."

"Glad you like it, then add M-J-B to my title too."

Many people find that with M-J-B, the strong blend, they use slightly less coffee. But whether you make it strong or weak, M-J-B has a flavor that only the strong blend can give.

Now it comes to you in an improved fraction top key-can available only to M-J-B users, packed by our own vacuum process.

Pepper that is more than stinging dust

There is pepper that is just a stinging dust -- and there is pepper that is rich with aromatic flavor. Which kind you get, depends on you. If you say "Schilling Pepper" to your grocer, you can be sure of having the finer, aromatic kind. There is a difference -- be sure of that! All pepper is not alike -- not by any means +++ Schilling was the first in America to produce pure spices -- and Schilling is still used by pure food experts as the standard by which to judge others +++ Your money back if you don't like Schilling's best!
