The average flock on the commercial poultry farm in Oregon consists of about 50 per cent pullets, 32 per cent yearlings and 18 per cent older hens. Those figures were revealed in a survey by the experiment station of a number of representative poultry farms in different parts of the state.

About 35 per cent of the entire poultry population of Oregon is culled out every year. The practice of replacing half of the poultry flock with new stock each year is well established.

The new chromium plating on Studebaker cars eliminates the old excuse of staying home from church on Sunday to polish the headlights.

NEW HATS must give the effect of being worn on the back of the head. This new line is seen in every type, if not in cut, at least in the effect attained by the handling of the longer edges in the back. The hat sketched is of brown and beige soleil.

AT THE THEATERS

"Tenth Avenue" Theme Is Dramatic

They both loved her, but one was a murderer! Such is the position in which Phyllis Haver finds herself in "Tenth Avenue," a dramatic De Mille Studio production for Pathe which comes to the Star theater Sunday.

Compelled to discover which of her two sweethearts is the killer, Miss Haver resorts to startlingly unusual tactics in this colorful story of New York's Hell's Kitchen. Victor Varconi and Joseph Schildkraut portray the other principal characterizations in "Tenth Avenue," as written for the screen by Douglas Doty from the stage play of the same name. Robert Edeson, Louis Natheaux, Ernie S. Adams, Casson Ferguson and Ethel Wales are in the supporting cast.

Harry Langdon At Arcade In "Heart Trouble"

The thousands of theater-goers who have come to expect something out of the ordinary in a Harry Langdon feature comedy will not be disappointed when they see "Heart Trouble," his latest First National comedy which comes to the Arcade theater Sunday only.

Langdon, who always has unusual and sometimes revolutionary "slants" in his productions, is said to have outdone himself in "Heart Trouble."

In the characterization of his heroine, Doris Dawson, he has introduced a surprisingly lovely and blond new leading woman.

Langdon's genius for comedy-building was never better than in "Heart Trouble." Months were spent by the star in obtaining the new effects and new story angles which are shown for the first time on the screen.

Since his advent into feature-length productions a few years ago, Langdon has made phenomenal strides in picture-making and in public popularity. Besides Miss Dawson, the supporting cast includes Madge Hunt, Lionel Belmore, Nelson McDowell, Jack Pratt and Mark Hamilton among others.

President Gerardo Machado y Morales has received the Spanish Order of Military Merit for devoting himself to the intensification of commerce between the two countries.

Lilyan Tashman Coming to The Colonial

The Gotham picture, "The Woman Who Did Not Care," featuring Lilyan Tashman, which comes to the Colonial theater Sunday is a strong and purposeful story of a modern girl who had no interest whatever in men. It is real drama set in a locale that reaches from New York's slums to the glittering winter colony at Palm Beach.

The patrons of the Colonial theater have a distinct treat in store for them when this drama of a modern girl who fought the world and rose to the pinnacle of social success, plays here Sunday.

Lilyan Tashman heads a superlative cast in this romantic drama of today, with a vivid background of the social whirl in New York and the smart set in Palm Beach.

In the supporting cast will be found many favorites — Arthur Rankin, popular juvenile of dozens of screen dramas, Philo McCullough, veteran picture player, Edward Martindel, well-known character actor, Olive Hasbrouck, fascinating young ingenue and Guinn Williams, heavy.

Phil Rosen directed this brilliant society drama for Gotham and he has spread neither effort nor expense to reproduce the atmosphere of the playboys of the social world.

The action of the plot concerns itself with the plight of a girl left practically penniless at her mother's death who fights her way up the social ladder, despite the fact that she bears a strong antipathy towards all men. But that does not prevent her blonde beauty from winning her a place at the very topmost rung, side by side with a woman hater, who begs her to marry him. And the woman who did not care, accepts.
