TRUMPH THROUGH TRIAVAIL—He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied by his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many; for he shall bear their iniquities.—Isa. 53:11.

A good deal of the bad temper of this campaign comes from having to stay up so late to get the radio speeches in some sections.

Neither party has yet got around to the real solution for the farm problem: Make women eat more and wear more. What are they afraid of?

"I think I'll take up surveying," says a high school boy. "With all these business surveys and social surveys and everything they're going in for now, I can see we're going to need a lot more surveyors."

Even prosperity has its handicaps, as Mr. Hoover intimated in his New York speech. When more people have leisure to go fishing, it's longer between bites. What this country needs right now is more and bigger fish, and we're ready to vote for anybody who'll provide 'em.

What does it cost to register Oregon motor vehicles, provide plates for them, register and check all motor vehicle operators, handle traffic and provide traffic and field inspectors? This job comes under the motor vehicle division of the secretary of state's office which collects the auto license fees for the state. The total cost for all this work last year was only $359,000 and the office turned over a total of $6,150,000.00 to the state highway commission and to the counties for highway purposes. Considering that over two hundred thousand is spent for clerical work, number plates, and postage and express charges, the figure is a real tribute to the economical operation of the secretary of state's office.

The Prince of Wales is not the only member of the British royal family with a gift for salesmanship. His father, King George, has started a business boom for the manufacturers of British typewriters. Two years ago, during the British industries fair, King George stopped at an exhibit of typewriters of British make. While there he learned that many British government offices were using foreign typewriters. The king declared that "scandalous" and started an inquiry. The firm at whose booth he made his comments reports that its output has increased by more than 300 per cent since then. Other manufacturers have experienced large increases in their business. If anyone thinks that kings are useless today, let him ponder this situation. They make most effective advertisers.

A BIG MAJORITY FOR JUDGE RAND

The election of Justice Rand as a member of the state supreme court is accepted generally as a matter of course. It's hard to conceive of his being defeated. He is the nominee of both democratic and republican parties, has the respect and endorsement of the great majority of attorneys and citizens of the state acquainted with his integrity and ability.

Judge Rand does not need the endorsement of The Observer to carry this county by a big margin next Tuesday. This comment is not made for that purpose. It is made, however, for the purpose of increasing that margin to the greatest possible point as a rebuke to Senator George Joseph's personal campaign of hate against Judge Rand and as a further testimonial of confidence on the part of Eastern Oregon people.

No one in the state, probably, would be guilty of such extremes of bitterness and poor sportsmanship as has been exhibited in the attacks of Joseph on Judge Rand in this campaign. The charges he makes are absurd on their face and have been proved absolutely without foundation by a competent investigating committee of attorneys. They simply serve to show what a man will do to carry on a personal fight in the attempt to satisfy a personal grudge.

The more charges Joseph makes, the more votes are directed to Judge Rand. In the face of so mean and bitter and unjustified a campaign as we have seen in many a year, Judge Rand goes his quiet and dignified way. By his very conduct he has shown himself superior to the attacks of his enemies, justifying the confidence and respect of the people of Oregon.

On the ballot next Tuesday there will be six candidates listed for justices of the supreme court, with instructions to vote for two. No. 29, John L. Rand, and No. 31, George Rossman, deserve the support of every Union county voter. Put a cross before the names of those two men in the interest of honesty, integrity and ability on the supreme bench—and a rebuke to those who would carry personal hatred and prejudice into government.

HEALTH

By Dr. John P. Koehler, Commissioner of Health, Milwaukee, Wisconsin

Influenza is an acute, infectious, epidemic disease marked by depression, irregular temperature, acute catarrhal inflammation of the nose, throat and bronchi, neuralgic and muscular pains, gastro-intestinal disorder, headache and restlessness. The disease is probably due to the bacillus influenzae. Its duration is from a few days to one or two weeks. According to the organs affected, the disease is said to be respiratory, nervous or gastro-intestinal in form. Complications are frequent, the chief ones being pneumonia and middle-ear infection. The patient is usually left in a weakened condition for some time and subject, therefore, to other diseases.

Influenza, like all other contagious diseases, varies in its virulence. The same germ may cause mild symptoms in one individual and severe symptoms in another. This even when influenza appears in a mild form, it is a very dangerous disease because it is so frequently complicated by pneumonia with fatal results.

As influenza is a very contagious disease, in which most people are susceptible it is obvious that the prevention of influenza is almost impossible unless at least the same measures are used against it as are used against other contagious diseases.

The most certain way to contract influenza and pneumonia is to follow the motto of "Eat, Drink and be Merry" and all that goes with it, during the influenza seasons. Sunshine, outdoor exercise, fresh air, temperance in eating and drinking, plenty of rest and sleep, and a certain amount of recreation, will do a great deal to build up bodily resistance against influenza, typhoid and other virulent bacteria should be avoided. The body should not be exposed to any chilling or overheating. The heavier winter garments should not be discarded too early in the spring. Daily cold showers, baths, both many individuals help resistance against colds. Having epidemic of colds and influenza infections can many times be prevented by the liberal use of limes and sodium bicarbonates.

Because influenza or its grippe is such a common disease, it has been treated entirely too lightly, the result of which has been the unnecessary loss of many lives. When influenza was treated lightly many years ago, the mortality rate was very high due to inadequate treatment. The unusual death rate has been greatly reduced by treating individuals with measles as patients, and requiring them to remain in bed until after the fever, cough and other symptoms have completely subsided.

When people with influenza and colds are treated as patients, put to bed, and kept there until all symptoms have disappeared, our

HUGHES ATTACKS AL'S WET VIEWS

Admits He Is Not Satisfied But Believes Smith Would Make It Worse

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 31 (AP)—Charles K. Hughes told an audience here last night that he believed Governor Smith's election would lead to "a greater demoralization than we have had" in the enforcement of prohibition. Answering a question put to him by Governor Smith in a recent speech as to whether he—Hughes—was satisfied with present conditions under prohibition, he said: "Most decidedly—no. But I must add that I do not wish to see matters made worse and I believe that would be the result of his election." Governor Smith might raise his hand to heaven and swear that he was trying to enforce the prohibition law, he continued, "but the country would not accept any performance by his administration as an adequate test. Without questioning his sincerity—although I do not believe he thinks he would enforce the law—I am quite confident the country would never accept enforcement by a wet as a test of prohibition."

Mr. Hughes retorted that Governor Smith was fighting a "sham battle" over prohibition. "If it is not a sham battle over prohibition why is Governor Smith not asking the people to elect a congress favorable to his liquor program? Why does he state that the Democratic candidates for congress are free to run as drys if they see fit?"

"Turning to farm relief and water power Mr. Hughes said that he had asked Governor Smith 'certain definite questions' to which he had not heard an answer.

"To Governor Smith for the imposition of the equalization tax by the government."

"The Governor Smith in favor of the building by the government of transmission lines and distributing electrical power?"

Mr. Hughes asked his audience to cheer when he declared his belief that the republican nominee "is the man best qualified to assume the responsibilities and to meet the exacting requirements of the greatest office in the world."

Mr. Hughes stated that he was going with it, during the influenza seasons. Sunshine, outdoor exercise, fresh air, temperance in eating and drinking, plenty of rest and sleep, and a certain amount of recreation, will do a great deal to build up bodily resistance against influenza, typhoid and other virulent bacteria should be avoided.
