Guardians Hold Interesting Meet

At the meeting of the Camp Fire Guardians of La Grande, held yesterday afternoon at the Lutheran parsonage, a number of problems and plans were discussed which will have considerable bearing on the improvement of Camp Fire activities in this city throughout the year.

It was voted to extend an invitation to Theodoro A. Harper, of Portland, noted writer, psychologist and lecturer, to speak in La Grande under the auspices of some local organization. "Mr. Harper is a student of child psychology and as national chairman of the Camp Fire movement is able to show how the movement, when rightly conducted, answers the psychological needs of growing girls of the 'teen age'" says Mrs. Leif H. Awes, who presided at the meeting yesterday.

The gaurdians also worked out with the aid of the Camp Fire manual and the suggested activities recommended by psychologists like Moxcey and Gibson, nine requirements must be achieved by any Camp Fire girl who wishes to attend the free camp this summer. To date it will be possible for five girls to attend the camp without cost. The offer for financing this attendance has been made by Dr. A. L. Richardson.

The requirements follow: 1. Attend all Camp Fire meetings unless excused by the guardian. 2 Earn citizenship honor 88. 3. Show good Camp Fire spirit throughout the year by being trustworthy and being willing to give service gladly. 4. Procure and successfully enroll a new member for Camp Fire, or be able to explain the meaning and benefit of Camp Fire to any gathering or to an individual not interested in Camp Fire. 5. Appear neat on all occasions. 6. Avoid the public dance hall. 7. Give ten hours of actual work in voluntary service to organized charities outside of regular employment. 8. Earn citizenship honor 203. 9 a. Earn the fagot finder honor. b. Choose any one of the following honors: home craft 1001, 1002, 1003. Citizenship, 120, 501, 803, 804, 805, 807, 885.

The offices of secretary and treasurer were voted to be combined into one, and as the secretary and treasurer elected for these offices in June have been unable to resume their responsibilities, it was decided to have Mrs. R. F. Tyler continue as she has been all summer, doing the secretary and treasurer work until the next election.

Dr. Lewa Wilkes, chairman of the La Grande Camp Fire board of sponsors, was present at the meeting yesterday when the guardians had their monthly meeting.

Mrs. Richardson Tells Of Music Work In Chicago

Herbert Witherspoon is tall, dignified—charming—with a capacity for expressing his ideas in a clear, clean cut manner so there is ready understanding on the part of the listener. That, in part, was the description of Mr. Witherspoon, the famous vocal instructor who is president of Chicago Musical college, as told by Mrs. A. L. Richardson, of La Grande, who studied with the famous teacher for three weeks this summer.

Mrs. Richardson has just returned from Chicago where hers was the happy lot of studying with the renowned instructor and singer and hearing some of the country's best music.

"Mr. Witherspoon is one of the most scholarly and authoritative vocal masters of the world," Mrs. Richardson said. "He was graduated from Yale university and for ten years was the leading bass for the Metropolitan Opera company in New York City. He has sung in America and Europe and especially in London."

It was a great deal of fun, Mrs. Richardson discovered, to study with the same teacher who trained such famous Metropolitan Opera company stars as Louise Homer, Mabel Garrison, Lambert Murphy, Merle Alcock, Sophie Braslau, Kathleen Howard and Marie Sundelius. Lucy Gates is also a product of his instruction.

The Chicago Musical college occupies a 12-story building in Chicago and the quality of training it gives is on a par with the Leipsic conservatory in Germany, the Paris conservatory, or any other similar world famous institution, she said. While at the conservatory, Mrs. Richardson interspersed her private lessons from Mr. Witherspoon with attendance at some of his classes including those in repertoire, interpretation and in teaching.

Mark Daniels, of Portland, will be remembered in La Grande from three years ago when he and Ella Connell Jesse, of Portland, and Mrs. Richardson, gave a concert here under the auspices of the La Grande Neighborhood club.

Mrs. Richardson heard Mr. Daniels in the opera "Martha," this trip to Chicago, when the baritone took the leading part in that famous opera.

"After the concert Dr. Richardson and I sent our card to him and as a result enjoyed a chat with him and Mrs. Daniels," she remarked.

Mrs. Richardson finds that all modern instruction in the technique of voice is striving for the same ends—purity and freedom of tone. The purpose is the same but the technique is different with different teachers. Vocal training is much more scientific now than it used to be, she says.

Draper gave a reading.

Numbers by the girls' quartet concluded the program.

A delightful hallowe'en party took place Monday evening when Miss Helen Johnson and Miss Clora Van Houten, entertained the members of the C. T. club at the home of Miss Johnson, in South Union. Following the card games, luncheon was served at one table, prettily decorated in keeping with the season. The centerpiece was a basket containing each guest's fortune which they read aloud, causing much merriment. Covers were laid for 16.

The Misses Zelpha and Geraldine Bonney were hostesses at a hallowe'en party Tuesday evening when they entertained 30 of their friends at the Sportsmen's club house. The room was attractively decorated in keeping with the halowe'en season. Games and stunts made up the evening's entertainment. Mr. and Mrs. George Puckett and family, who have been living on the W. M. Dobbin ranch for the last several years, moved to Union last week and are now located at the Rollins place where they will make their home.

J. H. Peare, of the republican central committee, Calon R. Eberhard, republican nominee for joint senator of Union and Wallowa counties, Carl G. Helm, district attorney and County Commissioner W. R. Tedlerlee, were visitors at Union Thursday afternoon on political business.

E. H. Cline, who underwent an operation at Hot Lake a week ago, is reported as getting along nicely.

Bridge Pointers

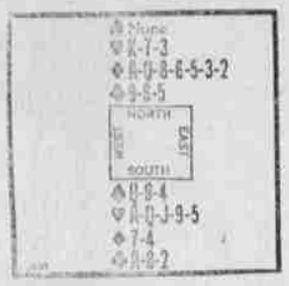
Tomorrow will see the last of our "56 questions," but there will be an "extra" on Thursday. Today we have Deal V and question 19.

Deal V



Score four off South Declarer, contract Hearts.

The bidding: South (Dealer) one Heart; West double; North two Hearts; East Bid.

The play: Trick 1, West, King of Spades; North, Trey of Hearts; East, Five of Spades; South, Four of Spades.

Trick 2 to 4, Declarer exhausts trumps winning the fourth trick in the Closed Hand. Trick 5, Closed Hand leads the Seven of Diamonds; West plays the Ten of Diamonds.

QUESTION NO. 19. Which Diamond should Dummy play on Trick 5?

Answer Blank

19. On trick 5 Dummy should play the ..... of Diamonds.

(Fill the blank before you read the answer that follows).

The Answer

19. Dummy should play the Deuce of Diamonds.

The information: Unable to West make it practically sure that he has the King of Diamonds; possibly King-Ten, more probably King-Jack-Ten. If West has King-Jack-Ten and Dummy should play the Queen of Diamonds on this trick, Declarer would make only two Diamond tricks and probably would fail to go game, losing two Spades and two Clubs; but if Dummy play a small Diamond, Declarer is practically sure of game. The worst that could happen would be that East would overtake with the Jack (which is unlikely) and lead a Spade, in which case the enemy would take three tricks, but leave Declarer with four-odd and game. More likely West will hold the trick and lead the Ace of Spades, in which case Declarer will make five-odd. If West win trick 5 and shift to Clubs hoping to get a Spade lead through Closed Hand, Declarer would make a Small Slam.

If the Diamonds are divided King-Ten in the West hand and Jack-Nine in the East hand, Declarer could make a Grand Slam by playing the Queen of Diamonds on trick 5; but it is unlikely that West would have doubled with only two Diamonds. Even if that division were probable, a sure game should not be risked upon the chance of making a Grand Slam.
