'HOOVER MARKET' CONTINUES TODAY

Avalanche Buying Sends Wall Street Sales to Shares 5,000,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—The "Hoover Market" which got off to a flying start yesterday, continued to press forward today under an avalanche of buying in the copper, oil, motor, merchandising and food shares. Fears that a technical reaction would follow the initial celebration of the Hoover victory inspired profit-taking in all issues, which dropped two to five points but the general list pointed upward with gains ranging from 1 to 16 points.

The closing was strong. Several of the high priced shares performed rather sensationally in the late trading. Montgomery-Ward leaped to 377 for an overnight gain of 25 points. Wright Aero climbed into the $200 share class as it moved up 17 1/2 points. Coty did nearly as well with a gain of 1 1/2. Healy was up 2 1/2 points and Westinghouse and General Electric 1 1/2 points. Standard Oil of New Jersey reached its highest price since 1922 as it touched 52 1/2. Buying was confident in many quarters despite the lifting of the call money rate to 8 1/2 per cent. Sales were more than 5,000,000 shares.

Develop Western Canada

STANBROOK, Ala. (AP)—Proposed to sell the Alabama government's northern railroad lines to the Canadian Pacific railway for approximately $25,000,000 is being discussed by Canada on forecasting there adequate development of "Canada's Last West." The Edmonton, Vancouver & British Columbia and the Central Canadian lines tap the agricultural Peace River country, while the Alberta & Great Waterways railway runs to McMurray on the Athabasca river. Both are bringing in many settlers.

Now it will be interesting to read the political forecasters tell why they couldn't forecast those "doubtful" states with more accuracy.

Our congratulations to the winners of the numerous local contests in Tuesday's election. Without exception, we believe, they will make good public officials and will serve the community, county, or district conscientiously and well.

For the first time in many years Union county and the districts of which it is a part will be served in the state legislature by an all-republican delegation. Friends of Albert Hunter, whose service as a legislator has been long and faithful, will regret his defeat, but they will also be quick to appreciate the new advantage the district will enjoy by this harmonious delegation made up entirely of republicans. With a republican state administration and a legislature predominantly republican the chances for real accomplishment, in matters of particular interest to this section, are greatly increased. Mr. Eberhard, a former state senator, is experienced and well equipped for very satisfactory service the coming term. Mr. Kiddle is already a leader in the state senate, and Mr. Weatherspoon will enjoy that distinction in the house this winter. Mr. Johnson, a new man in legislative work, is intimately acquainted with the needs and problems of the Wallowa and Union county area. He will be quick to learn and will be equally devoted and energetic in his work for this district. The coming session at Salem promises to be unusually important, especially in its consideration of tax problems. No one can envy the work and study required by a member of the legislature. We can, however, wish the new delegation well and promise them our best co-operation in the promotion of a better and greater Oregon.

A NEW TRIAL FOR PROHIBITION

Already the dry forces of the country are pointing to the Hoover landslide as a great dry victory, saying that the nation wants "not less prohibition, but more—not less but more prohibition enforcement." It is the general interpretation put on the election in Europe and will, without doubt, be responsible for general agitation for a more strict enforcement and observance of the 18th amendment and the Volstead law.

We are not at all convinced that the margin of victory for Hoover is identical with the margin of victory for prohibition. Everyone knows that dries and wets did not vote for the dry and wet candidates accordingly. In the same way, it is generally recognized that many people, feeling dissatisfaction with the present liquor status, did not follow Smith or Hoover, as the case might be, because of their spoken policies on the prohibition issue.

Nevertheless, the success of Hoover in such an overwhelming manner will mean a new trial for national prohibition. And we believe it is the desire of a great many so-called "wets," as well as the dries, that more strict, more severe liquor enforcement is the only direction the country can go now. If the people of the United States do not wish modification sufficiently to show that desire more forcefully than they did Tuesday, it is safe to say, at least, that modification is not paramount in their minds and that they are willing to have a more strict enforcement undertaken with energy, persistency, honesty.

That should be, and we hope will be, one of Mr. Hoover's goals when he undertakes his administration. He admits the present unfeasible liquor situation. He has spoken of the violations and abuses. And it is only fair and just that he should interpret part of his victory as an urge in the direction of more general and more specific prohibition enforcement.

The same attitude should be taken by a big majority of citizens. Prohibition in its present form is to continue. At least until the chance for better enforcement is given a fair trial. And the public that has allowed its vote to be taken in favor of such a trial owes to Mr. Hoover and the federal and local enforcement organizations the support of individual observance. Hoover supporters, consciously or otherwise, have given him an obligation. They no longer have a right to the attitude that prohibition is good for the other fellow but not applicable to themselves.
