SUGAR MAKES EATING A JOY

Why eat unflavored, unappetizing foods?

A change is coming over the well-informed eating ideas of this country. For a time, food fastidists tried to make us believe that we had to eat all kinds of things we didn't like in order to be healthy. Good sense is beginning to assert itself and we know that the foods that are good for us may also be the most enjoyable. In fact, if we don't eat the healthful foods we probably won't eat them.

Prominent medical and other scientific authorities are now reminding us that appetizing flavors may be developed and improved by sugar. One well-known scientist, for example, states that "fruit flavors are developed by sugar. Fruit acids are softened by sugar."

The only safe rule for a healthful diet is to eat as large a variety of foods as possible, including healthful cereals, fruits and vegetables made appetizing to the taste by the judicious use of sugar. Sugar is not only nutritious in its least costly form, it is Nature's perfect flavor. Sugar develops the appetizing quality of nearly all fruits. Desserts of fresh or cooked fruits are growing more and more popular. Modern candy containing fruits, nuts and pure sugar is delicious and satisfying at the end of a meal.

No one should expect or underestimate, but everyone, in order to be healthy, should eat plenty of healthful foods and enjoy them. The Sugar Institute.

Uncle John: "Can you tell me what the calendar is for, my boy?"
Nephew: "Yes, uncle, it's to keep us from forgetting Thanksgiving day and Christmas."

"I say, old chap, what's the difference between 'abstract' and 'concrete'?"
"Well, when my wife promises to make a cake, that's abstract; when she makes one, it's concrete."

"Where did you get that stuff?"
"Isn't slang since prohibition."

Character is what you are, reputation is what the neighbors say you are!

Expert observation: If their legs have scars, they're stanchions.

About the only thing a man gets free in this world is criticism.

Drug Store Clerk (excitedly): "Oh, sir, there's a Scotchman out there who wants to buy ten cents' worth of poison to commit suicide. How can I save him?"
The Boss: "Tell him it'll cost twenty cents."

First Yeg: "And when you held up the bank, did you lock all the personnel in the vault?"
Second Yeg: "Now, there wasn't room enough for even of the vice presidents."

And old saying that has about gone out of use: "You can't do that any more than you can fly."

Maxson of Bournemouth and Christchurch, England, recently argued over the question of whether or not it was correct to call flowers "give-a-some light on the value of painting the lily."

John Gilbert as a young Cossack soldier, escorted his "mistress" into the "stankin" post the "boonin" at the crossroads, where he met his father the "stankin" and leaving her at the "stankin" made his way into the "korschna."

One of the heroes of the sinking of the S. S. Vestria was Leland Lessor, diminutive negro undertaker, who took command of a lifeboat and dived overboard 16 times to rescue drowning persons from the boiling sea. He also dived overboard several times to retrieve lost socks. Here he is as he arrived at New York with other survivors on the S. S. American Shipper.

AT THE THEATERS

Kingly Lover In Latest Film

If not the greatest lover from a standpoint of quality, Louis XIV, the grand monarch of France in the latter part of the middle ages, was one of the greatest lovers from a standpoint of quantity.

This fact brought to light by the research department of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, where a staff of trained research workers delved into the private affairs of the greatest king in the history of France.

The data was compiled for use in the screen play, "Forbidden Hours," which A. P. Yoshida wrote as a starring vehicle for Harmon Navarre and which comes to the Star Theater Thursday.

The story suggests many personages of that day, but details chiefly with the love of Louis for Marie Mancini, a beautiful girl of gentle birth and niece of Cardinal Mazarin, Louis' prime minister.

Louis is superbly suggested by Navarre. "Forbidden Hours" is contained in modern dress, liberally containing, who plays the part of the queen-mother, having patterned her clothes after gowns worn by the Queen of Montmartre.

Renée Adoree plays the heroine throughout, a role which gives her more opportunity than any she has had since "The Big Parade." Harry Boardman directed, with a notable cast, including Roy D'Arcy, Alberta Vaughn, Edward Connelly, Maurice Canning, Sherry D'Arcy, Marcelle Corday and others.

Set Out Trees At Summerville Burial Ground

By Mrs. C. M. Hale
(Observer Correspondent)

THE BURIAL GROUND at Summerville, La Grande, was in town Tuesday. It received a shipment of shade and ornamental trees for the Summerville cemetery. The cemetery association set out trees around the new addition of the cemetery last spring. Many of these trees did not live and the trees Mr. Woodell received are to replace those which died.

Mrs. Ida Hendricks spent the greater part of last week visiting at the home of C. C. Welch, Mrs. Hendricks' home is at Port Madisson, Mo., but she is spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Standley of the Iowa district.

Mrs. J. C. Bennett is critically ill at her home in Whitby. Her brother, J. W. Lewis left for Whitby Sunday evening. Relatives here received word Monday that her condition was somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Elmer, of Wallowa and Mrs. George Wisco, of South Mountain, were calling at Father last Monday. They were on their way home from Payette, Idaho, where they had spent several days.

Edward Smith, who is in the Grande Ronde hospital recovering from an appendix operation, expects to be able to come home Wednesday.

George Hardy moved into town.

Be Careful of the Telephone Cord

Probably you don't know it, but your telephone cord is not merely a wire, but a delicate, stranded tinsel, covered with a protection of silk and cotton. It can't stand much twisting without being so seriously impaired that your connection gets cut off or else it works in a broken, haphazard way.

And yet some people let their telephone cord get so badly twisted up that it looks like a nest of angle-worms.

It's an easy matter to keep out the kinks and get better service out of your phone.
