AT THE THEATERS

"Excess Baggage" Now Showing At Arcade

"Excess Baggage," said William Raines, "is a lot of extra baggage that you carry with you and pay for but never get a chance to use."

Thus the star defined his idea of the meaning of his new starring picture of that name which opens today at the Arcade Theater.

According to John McGowan, author of the stage play from which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer adapted the movie production, the term was originally derived from the baggage offices of the railway companies who were accustomed to charge an extra fee for transporting all baggage weighing over 75 pounds per ticket.

As all theatrical people have heavy baggage, they naturally often paid extra fare for the transportation of their belongings. Hence their familiarity with the term.

As used in yesterday's today, "Excess Baggage" means so much "dead weight." In other words a person carried in an act who contributes nothing or practically nothing to his success.

So Raines in the beginning of the picture is thought by his wife, Josephine Dunn, to believe her to be "Excess Baggage." Later on after she has won stardom on the screen, he has the same idea when he believes that he is so much "Excess Baggage" as far as her career is concerned.

James Cruze directed the seven production while the cast includes Ricardo Cortez, Kathleen Clifford, Greta Granstedt, Neely Edwards and others.

"Foreign Legion" Is Showing At the Star

Thrilling adventure, exotic romance, picturesque scenes and characters, and a stirring story of love and revolt were all found in one picture yesterday when Universal's gripping production, "The Foreign Legion," opened at the Star Theater Thursday.

Not for a long time has an audience here seen a picture that equalled "The Foreign Legion" in any of the above features. None will soon forget the horror of the iron discipline, the fearful situations into which the hero is thrown or the remarkable character which causes his downfall—a ravishing beauty-blond, hot-blooded and deadly.

Two of the sequences remain in the mind especially because of their realism and beauty. One of them is the sand storm on the desert, catching the soldiers of the Foreign Legion unawares. The other is the trial scene in the court.

Avoid Those Night Dashes Downstairs

In the still of the night you are awakened from your slumbers by the faint ding of your telephone bell away downstairs in the hall. Half asleep you pull yourself out of bed and dash down a long flight of stairs to answer it. It is so easy and convenient to let an extension telephone bring the calls to you—day or night—saving you all the tiresome stair climbing.

For only a few cents a day you may have an extension telephone. Have one put in and enjoy the comforts it brings.
