BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an established remedy that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and breaks the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creomulsion is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritation. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation. While the creosote goes on to the stomach, it is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and other forms of bronchial irritation, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (ads.)

The Other Fellow's Christmas

Good-blow work was efficient, it cared for by the clubs, the churches and the business men. To give to this work was a pleasure, of course, but not wholly satisfying, because your check was sent with little effort and then you were through.

Invitations Sent Early

She decided to give the idea some thought ahead of time and not be cheated out of sharing a happy Christmas this year. She would start planning right after Thanksgiving and give her invitation early. The idea came the very night of the dinner party. Himself had finished carving and was ready to visit. "Fred is worried about his wife," he said. "She's so tired and needs a rest so badly—the youngsters are good children and help all they can, he insists, but there are six, you know. He rather dreads Christmas, I saw. There are so many things to buy for his lambs and they want to give each other gifts at Christmas naturally."

"He didn't say this, but I saw it just the same. It's his first year in the suburbs, and buying coal and a house is an extra load for him to carry. I thought of asking them to dinner. If it wouldn't be too much work for you, I'd help of course."

Fails to Answer Directly

She did not answer directly. Just the sort of folks one would like to help, she mused. But Joan heard more of a load than just one day, Christmas Day. She's been perfect, by time, bless her heart. "Would you be willing to take a week of R. R. deer-wiping noses, and washing faces and having youngsters under foot, for a week?"

Himself looked at her thoughtfully. "You know perfectly well I would be here mornings and evenings, that is all—you would carry the work. I surely could carry my end, if it wouldn't be too much for you."

She nodded her head. "It's all right. They will help each other. Joan could get away to her mother right after Christmas. And have a week's rest without a chick or child to think about. They'd try hard to go, to feel they were helping her. I'm sure, I'll start them at once!"

"I don't follow you, honey. Start what?"

"Oh, Christmas presents—their, for each other. That will take care of the Saturdays."

Himself looked bewildered.

Presents Made at Home

"Dearie," she said, "they will want to make things for each other, since they can't buy them. So I'll ask them here in stays on Saturdays and help them plan their gifts and get them started. The older ones can go on by themselves, during the week. The Fred and Joan can have Christmas Eve with us and Christmas dinner. The children will all help with that of course. And Joan can leave for her Mother's right afterward. You and Fred can take over the outdoor sports—Why, it won't be so hard to manage."

Letter from Joan to Mother

Mother dear:

Yes, that splash is just what you think it is. It's a tear. But it's a glad tear, so don't worry over it, please. Maybe you can guess that I've needed a rest more than anything else. I hate to feel so cross all the time when I know that a little vacation would fix me up just fine. I haven't hinted this to Fred because there just wasn't any way to arrange it. Then Midge called up and offered to take the six of them off my hands for the holiday week, so I might come to you. Oh splash, there goes another tear! I wouldn't think of it if it were any one else, but she is so sensible and says they are to help each other, and that the men are to take their share and, oh, think what it will mean!

Lovingly and tearfully,
Joan.

P. S. I'm to leave right after dinner Christmas day.

Letter from Jonathan (Eight) to His Grandmother

Dear Grandma—

How are you? We are just fine. We are going to have our Christmas at Aunt Midge's. We are starting to make presents. Oh for you is a surprise.

Hope you are the same.

Your Grandson Jonathan,
Day After Christmas, Letter from Midge to Joan

Dear Girl—

It takes a while to get started to rest, doesn't it? I hope you have made a beginning. How is your Mother? My dear love, to her and greetings for the holidays, and Happy New Year, too.

Yesterday finished quietly. After the romp outdoors the youngsters were ready for supper and all went to bed promptly. Today we are preparing a bulletin to send you.

Tell your mother all about Christmas eve and how dear and funny they were about their presents. Peter on the floor with his wooden duck saying quack for it every time he pulled the string that opened his mouth, is one memory.

Have a good rest, dear.

Love from Midge.

P. S. Here is the Bulletin:

From the House that Jack built, Colors flying, health excellent, dispositions cheerful.

Notations by the writer when the child cannot manage it.

Peter: I love you nanna. (This is the way he wanted his report.)

Josephine: I like the kitten; it plays so cute. (Note: Is this a bulletin?)

Jonathan: Love to Grandma. We are making a bull-head.

Little Joan: Am going to read one of Aunt Midge's About books.

Fred Jr.: The children are behaving very well, thanks to me.

Chris: Say, Mother, look what Fred wrote. It's all thanks to me of course. Tomorrow is the Expedition.
