AT THE THEATERS

"His Last Haul" At Arcade Wednesday

Representing a triumvirate of motion picture talent in the direction of Marshall Neilan and the acting of Tom Moore and Sena Owen, "His Last Haul," playing at the Arcade theater Wednesday. "His Last Haul," according to reports that have been returned by Hollywood experts, affords a story opportunity that has rarely, if ever, been equalled in his directional career. The FBO production affords many chances for a manifestation of the "Mickey" Neilan humor. Moore is seen as a young man of kindly disposition who lives more by his wits than by the sweat of his brow. Miss Owen is a Salvation Army worker, and the events that transpire when Moore's path crosses hers makes for a picture that it typically "Neilan" in its interest. The FBO feature boasts a sterling supporting cast in Al Roscoe, Charles Mason, Henry Sedley and William Schumacher. Louis A. Secky is the author. W. Scott Darling did the continuity.

Baseball Stars Gather For Latest Dix Picture

Surrounding himself with some of the greatest stars and ex-stars of the diamond, Richard Dix, the Paramount star, put on the spikes and warmed up his pitching arm for the baseball sequences of his new production, "Warming Up," now playing at the Arcade theater. Heading the list of the veterans is Mike Donlin, one of the most colorful figures the game has ever known. Donlin acted in the capacity of baseball technician and, in addition, had a role in the production. Joe Pierson, leader in semi-professional ranks assisted Donlin in lining up the talent. In addition to the latter, such players as Chet Thomas, Bob Murray, Don Rader, Truck Hannah, Gus Sandberg, Wally Hood, Gale Staley, and many others are seen with Dix in the picture. "Beans" Icardon, one time Coast League umpire, now with the National League, and Jimmy Toman were selected to act as the umpires for the screen battles. The games were played daily at Wrigley field, Los Angeles. Fred Newmyer, formerly with the Wichita club, directed.

"Me, Gangster" Equipped With Murderless Plot

When Fox Films "Me, Gangster" comes to the Star theater for an engagement of three days, starting today motion picture fans will have a novel experience, for that picture is a picture of Charles Francis Coe's story of gangsters, one of the most thrilling yet to come to the screen, has been made without the aid of machine guns, murder, hand-to-hand conflicts between gangsters and police or any other ingredient usually associated with pictures of that type. With all of these phases eliminated the picture teems with action and suspense, is superbly acted, check-full of surprise moments and, in the final analysis, despite having a theme of crime, is a picture all the family may and should see. Don Terry, youthful discoverer, plays the lead and gives a mighty fine account of himself, with June Colyer lending her beauty and talent to the feminine lead. The supporting cast consists of seasoned and popular actors such as Anders Randolf, Stella Adams, Burr McIntosh, Arthur Stone, Nigel De Bruiler, Carol Lombard, Joe Brown, Bob Perry and Al Hill.

Canyon Cut by River

It is believed that the Colorado river cut the canyon through which it runs. A vast plain was traversed by the river. Internal forces began to raise the plain. As fast as the plain rose the water cut a bed, so that now it is a mile from the top of the gorge, at about the same level that it has been through geologic ages.

Postal Zones

According to United States postal regulations, the country is divided into units of areas half of a degree square, which unit of area forms a separate center for eight enclosing zones with radii of from 50 to 1,800 miles for the first seven zones, the eighth zone covering the territory beyond the 1,800-mile limit. Parcel post rates are regulated in accordance with these zones.
