U. S. ACKNOWLEDGES AGRICULTURAL DEBT TO SPANISH EMPIRE

An ingenious wave-making mechanism, above, will add a touch of realism to the miniature scene the department of agriculture is to show at the Thero-American International exposition at Seville, depicting the landing of the first livestock introduced into America by early Spanish explorers. Below is Frank L. Goll, who will have charge of the department's exhibits, and some of the corn he will show.

program of stringent retrenchment will relieve the legislators of the usual urgent demands made upon them for appropriations for new buildings and equipment. No requests for capital outlays are being included in the budget estimates except in the case of the penitentiary. Here congestion has become so acute, with more than 700 prisoners housed in an institution designed to provide accommodations for 500, that remodeling of older boys' training school and construction of a combination garage and dormitory is deemed absolutely necessary, and the board of control has recommended that $50,000 be made available for these improvements.
