NEW ATTEMPT TO LEGALIZE BOXING MADE

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 23 (AP) — A new attempt to legalize boxing in Washington is to be started today when a bill providing for ten round boxing is introduced into the state senate. Undaunted by repeated defeats of similar proposals in the past, the several senators sponsoring the measure expressed confidence that it would become a law this session.

They pointed to similar laws which they said had been adopted by 35 other states. At present the legal six round bouts are staged throughout the state.

The new proposal would provide for a boxing commission of five members to be appointed by the governor, which would have authority over both amateur and professional fights. Both promoters and fighters would be licensed. Staging "sham" fights would result in cancellation of the promoter's license and suspension of the boxer for three months. A second offense by the boxer would prohibit his fighting again in Washington. The state would receive five per cent of all gross proceeds and commissions would be paid.

Schissler Returns To College Campus

SCHISSLER sports
COVINGTON, La., Jan. 23 (AP) — Paul J. Schissler, head football coach and director of athletics at Oregon State college, returned to the campus today following a months' trip to the east where he attended meetings of coaches and arranged an inter-sectional football game.

The game arranged with Detroit university is expected to be one of the leading post-season clashes of the middle west, as Coach Gus Dorais had an undefeated team in 1928, and loses but one or two men. Detroit has an excellent stadium and is enthusiastic over college athletics, Schissler found.

The Oregon State coach said spring football training will start here next month.

OUTLOOK FOR RED SOX IS UNCERTAIN

Bill Carrigan Expects to Do a Lot of Building During Season

By William R. King
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
BOSTON, Jan. 23 (AP) — Bill Carrigan is going to do a lot of building with the Boston Red Sox.

He has been building for two years and he believes it will take at least two more before he can get a combination of young ball players with a castoff here and there, that will make any kind of an impression in the American league.

He has 37 players on his roster and only 12 of them were with the club last season. He has 12 pitchers, six catchers, 19 infielders and eight outfielders.

He has no idea who is going to play in his infield and doesn't expect to until the squad has been working out at Bradenton, Fla., for a couple of weeks.

Tot's Sure of Sack
Phil Todd, the best fielding first baseman in the league last season, seems to be the only infielder sure of holding his job, but Rothrock will be on hand to succeed him if he fails to hit better than he did last season. Bill Heagan, who has held down second for the past two seasons, must outfight Jerry Standard, late of Brooklyn, and Grant Gilkie, who came from Washington in the Buddy Myers trade, for the job.

There are three outstanding candidates for the short stop berth, Harold Hays, who came from Philadelphia on waivers; Wally Gerber and Bobby Reeves, who held down that position for Washington for two seasons.

Seeks Third Baseman
Carrigan's biggest problem seems to be the finding of an adequate third baseman. His best bet is Buddy Barrett, who is coming up from the Buffalo Internationals and seems about ripe to blossom into a major league star. Barrett was with Brooklyn for a time several years ago but Uncle Willie Robinson thought he took too long a swing with the bat and shipped him to Atlanta in time to help that club win the Southern league pennant.

Of the eight outfielders due to report at Bradenton, four have been seen service with the Red Sox. These are Ira Flaugstad, Ken Williams, Doug Tall and Jack Rothrock, who would rather play first base. The newcomers included Eddie Higley, a Detroit minor league hitter who was part of the Myers trade, and Loop, Dunna and Scarritt, three minor league purchases.

Carrigan knows catchers and he seems to have a strong staff with Alex Gaston, Charlie Berry and John Heving, who have been with the club, and Hob Ashbjornson, recalled from Akron; Eddie Connelly, who played in the Eastern league last season, and a youth from Waterville, Me., named Danny Shanahan, who played ball for Colby college.

Five Holdovers
There will be five right handed holdovers from the 1928 pitching staff: Big Ed Morris, Charles Huffing, Benny MacFadden, Jack Russell and Pat Simmons. Morris is the most effective of the quintet last season, winning 19 and losing 15. The other four functioned below the major league standard.

Among the new box prospects are Milton Gaston, Alex's brother, and Hod Lisenbee, both involved in the Myers trade, Bill Hayne, with Cleveland last season, Frank Bushey, recalled from the Pittsfield Eastern league club and four rookies, John Shea, a former Boston college twirler, Bobby Carroll, Benny Frey and a youth named Durham, who could not escape the nickname "Bull." Hayne and Shea are the only southpaws in the lot.

"MATINEE" PLAN ADOPTED
CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP) — "Matinee baseball" will be given a trial at Columbus Saturday when Chicago plays Ohio State.

If afternoon games prove popular, other schools may follow the Ohio example, western conference officials said.

CYRIL WALKER

Cyril Walker's disqualification for delaying play in the $10,000 Los Angeles open makes him a contender for the title as the world's slowest pro.

By Glenn Allan
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
NEW YORK (AP) — Cyril Walker, former open champion whose deliberate methods of play have hurried tournament officials for years, may play a trifle faster now.

Of he may not, the tiny Englishman is a stubborn chap and his objection by California officials for "delaying the game" in a recent tournament may roll off his back as he wails and profanity of fellow professionals in years gone by.

Walker is unbelievably slow but he considers the agonizing preliminaries an essential part of his game and there the matter "has hung, for the rules say nothing of a contestant's snit in a tournament. The rules are silent but the players have not been and tactful officials have usually pleased Walker at the tail end of the field. Sometimes he has gone out with a marker when a partner objected. And his profanity has found deaf ears in high places.

Walker has always had a great deal of trouble with the galleries. On one occasion he rebuked a group of sight-seers who were not quiet enough and received, in return, a reprimand from tournament officials. In California, he was playing ahead of Macdonald Smith, the apparent winner, and the overflowing gallery had Sir Cyril considerably agitated. So he took steps. He took about 200 steps from his ball to the green and back again. He changed clubs, studied the turf and, in general, managed to hold up the parade until vacant holes stretched out in front and frozen players barked up behind.

The officials stepped in. They ordered Walker to make way for Smith and his partner. The deliberate Cyril refused and was summarily disqualified.

Nor was this the only untoward event of this particular tournament. For the first time in golfing history, an important tiffing was "called on account of darkness."

Tommy Armour found the 18th tee wrapped in the shades of night and was given a reprieve until daylight. He went out next day and finished with second money.

But the elimination of Cyril Walker set the most astonishing precedent which may go far toward

New Angle Seen In Fight About Enoch Bagshaw

The editorial refused to accept the interpretation of the faculty athletic committee that it was a moral question involving the university and declared that the students hired and paid the coach and that therefore it was in their power to fire.

"Student government is an issue involved deeply in the controversy," the editorial writer asserted. "President Spencer is definitely in sympathy with student control of their own affairs. Students want President Spencer's decision. If that decision is withheld, the clear demonstration of confidence of the students in their president is endangered."

After consulting various interested persons yesterday, the president called a meeting with representatives of definite viewpoints last night. Among them was Bagshaw himself. He is expected to review the entire question and as soon as possible, meanwhile there is much conjecture as to the president's action. At a meeting Monday afternoon he refused to accept the resignation of the faculty athletic committee and it was understood yesterday that the body's action was an intervention of Dr. Spencer's attitude on the subject. Bagshaw also refused to consider the question closed until President Spencer had given his decision. With the Husky club, an organization of football players on the campus, taking the action of the faculty committee as final, a move was started yesterday for a revival and unification of campus interests played in the student body organization and in athletics and took upon themselves the task of creating such an interest.

MANDELL WINS FROM DETROIT LIGHTWEIGHT

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 23 (AP) — Fighting with one rib broken, and favoring a knit collarbone that was fractured in a bout last fall, Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, showed all his speed, dash and skill last night in defeating Jack Gillespie of Detroit.

It was Mandell's first fight since his collarbone was fractured at Flint, Mich., in a fight with Jimmy Goodrich last September. In training for last night's fight, the champion suffered a broken rib on his left side, but it did not seem to handicap him or reduce his speed. Gillespie was a willing foe, but was fighting out of his class.

Yankee Players To Be Numbered

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — By their numbers shall the New York Yankees be known this summer.

Setting a major league precedent, the Yankees have decided to have 12-inch numerals sewed on the backs of their players' shirts so that each may be readily identified by fans in the stands.

Under a tentative arrangement, the regulars will be numbered by their position in batting order. Thus a fan who does not know his Yankees can search the field until he finds a player with a huge No. 3 on his back. That will be, of course, the well known home run manufacturer, Babe Ruth. No. 1 will be Earle Combs; No. 4, Lou Gehrig; No. 5, Hot Shamus; and so on. The key to the numbers will be found in the scorecards.

The demand for 4's would exceed the supply if newspapers printed all the news.

SAMMY BAKER DEFEATS LONG IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 23 (AP) — Sergeant Sammy Baker never was in danger at any time last night while his ten round match with Charley Long, Omaha, negro boxer, was in progress. On the other hand, never was a more gamer exhibition witnessed here than that given by Long. Baker played a constant tattoo with rights and lefts on the colored boy's face from the second round until the end of the battle and only once, in the last stanza, did the colored boy fail to come right back for more and then only because his feet temporarily failed him when he was in distress from Baker's punishing blows.

The Ted Rogoway-June Burnell feud ended in a draw after six rounds of fast work.

Mike Brochertson, Walla Walla, stayed six rounds with Hob Marfels although the latter seemingly hid him in a bad way several times. Marfels suffered a broken thumb in the fourth round.

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a regulating screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

The brake construction on the front wheels also is unusual. Here the brakes are enclosed without the use of a leather boot or sliding joint to protect the linkage between the brake rods and the mechanism on the brake plate.
