La Grande Praised By Eastern Visitor

"Do you have a winter carnival in La Grande?" It would be a fine place for one," said J. C. Farmer, of South Newbury, N. H., who was in La Grande yesterday. Mr. Farmer, a lecturer for the national grange, comes from New England where the weather last week was about 25 below zero.

Feb. 22 is a gala day in his little town which is 30 miles from Concord. Hundreds of persons come from New Hampshire and Massachusetts cities to engage in the winter sports and witness the outdoor contests staged by the hostess town.

Dog team races, tobogganing and skiing races, sledging, ice skating, and other winter sports are on the program for the affair which makes the town the mecca for outdoor lovers. Such carnivals are common in the New England states, Mr. Farmer says.

"They are good for business, for with the influx of visitors, the hotels are filled and the merchants, especially those specializing in sporting goods and wearing apparel reap a harvest," he declares.

Pupils with colds were barred from schools in Trenton, N. J., during the flu epidemic. What a grand change for a vacation!

When a man finds fault with himself it's a sign he wants you to know about him.

We know of two professors. One was so absent-minded that he threw his cigarette on the bed and himself out of the window.

The other professor we read about in Judge: A professor once spent some time figuring out why professors are absent-minded. He forgot the answer.

Irene Rich In "Craig's Wife" At the Star

This is a screen version of George Kelly's successful Pulitzer prize winning stage play.

The role is said to afford Miss Rich her finest acting opportunity since she played the same part in "Lady Windermere's Fan." The character, Harriet Craig, is that of a managing woman—domestic tyrant and "perfect housekeeper"—who makes a virtue of egotism and has little call of love or sympathy.

Crystal Hearne enacted Mrs. Craig in the New York stage production which ran for a year at the Morosco theater. Hearne and created a sensation. Besides the title role, the production has a number of other strong acting parts including the husband, played by Warner Baxter, the neighbor by Warner Baxter, the neighbor by Warner Baxter, the neighbor by Warner Baxter.

absorbing personality and the charm of her presence provides all the entertainment one needs for one evening. But then there's Gary Cooper. Cooper has "that" which, for men actors, is the same thing as "it" for women actors. He has proved it in many strong parts but, in no one of his pictures, has he excelled so completely as in "The Shopworn Angel."

"The Shopworn Angel" is a tender love story of a boy, shy, bashful, honest, and a girl, gay, gliding, charming and true. It is a pathetic story played against the bright background of Broadway. It is a gripping piece of romanticism, a thrilling tangle of circumstances in which a clean-minded young man and a re-awakened girl are swirled helplessly.

"The Shopworn Angel" has many things to recommend it. It has Nancy Carroll, Gary Cooper, Paul Lukas, that captivating and mysterious person, and an unusual, moving love story in a brilliant setting with a touching and striking climax accompanied by a musical score throughout the picture that is worthy of much praise. It is good entertainment throughout and it is good for thinking people. "The Shopworn Angel" is a picture to see and to talk about.
