PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 11—Unexpected happens at the last moment, University of Washington and University of California will be the finalists in the play-off series for the Pacific Coast conference basketball championship.

With the season near completion, Washington in the north and California in the south are the only undefeated quietest. All the rest have lost two or more games.

The Huskies hurled two tough opponents last week in Idaho and Washington State. They defeated the Cougars, 25 to 24, and the Vandals, 28 to 28.

Although it lost to Santa Clara a practice game, 32 to 26, California came back strong against Stanford to down the Cardinals in a hotly contested and close game, 19 to 17. The Bears have to win only one more of their two remaining games to clinch the championship.

The University of Oregon staged a belated comeback. It defeated Montana, 46 to 21, and Oregon State college 28 to 26, after having beaten the Aggies, 30 to 21, the week preceding. The Grapenions, however, are tied with Oregon in the percentage ratings, as they also defeated Montana, 25 to 26, in an uphill game.

Idaho, after walloping Washington State, 56 to 21, lost to Washington, as did the Cougars later in the week.

This week's schedule brings together Washington and Montana at Missoula today. That game will wind up the Huskies' eastern trip. They rest until Saturday, when they face Idaho at Seattle.

THE KID'S DUMB—BUT HE AINT DUMB!

Fred (Windy) Winsor, Bellman's most talkative character, now can do all the talking he wants about a fighter. For Fred (Dumb) Mahan, his new web-tweezer sensation, is a deaf mute. But Mahan is anything but dumb in swimming, and by virtue of one thrilling battle at San Francisco he vaulted right into a match with Young Corbett III to be staged in San Francisco tonight. If he wins, Mahan will be in line for a crack at the title. And Mr. Winsor—who may be remembered as the fellow who discovered Jack Dempsey and brought him along—insists Mahan will win by a knockout.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP)—Horton Smith, 21-year-old Joplin, Mo., professional, today was in at least temporary command of the golfing army touring the south by virtue of his victory yesterday in the greater Pensacola open tournament.

Smith checked off a 274, ten strokes under par for the 72 holes and five strokes better than the score of "Wild Bill" McIlhenn, next in line. In third place came Gene Sarazen, of New York.

HUNT FOR BONES OF ROY VICTIMS

Northcott Again Leads Captors on Fruitless Search for Graves

INVESTIGATIVE, CHIC., Feb. 11 (AP)—Jordan Stewart Northcott, who today is to be sentenced to die on the gallows for murdering three young boys, again had caused sheriff's deputies and newspapermen to search by the light of flares in the dark of before dawn for graves of his victims. Late yesterday led officers to a field a mile from his Wineville chicken ranch, scene of the boy slaying and taken back to his cell. Shortly before midnight Sheriff Clem Sweetser, emerging from a conference with the convicted youth, said he had his deputies and newspapermen for a new search. Sweetser kept to himself any information he had gained from the whimpering condemned youth.

The afternoon search had been inspired by the demands of N. H. Winslow, father of two of Northcott's victims, that the murderer reveal the location of his sons' remains that he might give them a "Christian burial."

Hunt Fruitless

But the hunt, aided by a tractor drawn plow to locate gruesome evidence believed to lay in shallow graves, proved fruitless before Northcott faintly at his reluctant duty, he, as an earlier desert hunt for graves, changed his mind about revealing the location of evidence that would further prove the crimes of which he was convicted last week. His sentence today, which by the jury's verdict must be the death penalty, will be imposed for his conviction upon charges of murdering Nelson and Lewis Winslow, and an unidentified Mexican youth.

The pleading, broken-hearted demands of Winslow were made upon Sheriff Sweetser in the midnight hours of Sunday morning. With him in the jail had gone other Riverside citizens, while about the streets surrounding the jail tumbled half a hundred automobiles. The occupants of many made up a peculiar "mob" described as intent upon adding the bereaved and justice seeking father. Many others of the aimlessly touring motorists were said by the officers to have been but late home-joers attracted to the vicinity out of curiosity. The mob, however, served to frighten the condemned youth, who pleaded with his jailers for protection.

Subsequently, he was moved to another cell, in a state of collapse, but early today was in his more natural defiant mood.

Matsuyama Near Billiard Crisis; Meets Cochran

By Herbert W. Barker (Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Kinrey Matsuyama, the "mighty atom" of billiards, reaches a crisis in his gallant bid for the world's 182 ballline crown tonight. He faces Welker Cochran, of Hollywood, a former champion, in the 12th match of the round robin tournament at the Level club.

These two, with young Jake Schaefer, alone are in the running for the title now held by Eduard Horenans of Belgium. Horenans, Eric Hagenlacher, of Germany, and Felix Grange of France, all have fallen by the wayside.

Has Good Chance

If Matsuyama can down Cochran and follow through with another victory over Schaefer the title will be his without dispute. If he loses one or the other of his two remaining matches he still is assured of a tie no matter what Schaefer and Cochran accomplish. If the little Japanese loses both of his matches he will automatically be eliminated.

Four matches still are to be played in the tournament which is to close on Wednesday night, but only three of them have any bearing on the title hunt. In addition to Matsuyama's contest with Cochran and Schaefer the latter pair must also meet in a final of their own. Thus two victories by any one of the three leaders will carry with them the championship.

One Match Today

But the fact remains that the Japanese who failed to win a single match in the 1927 tournament in Washington, holds the whip hand. He can afford to lose one match. Cochran and Schaefer, with two victories in three starts apiece, will be eliminated if they lose again.

Only the Cochran-Matsuyama match is to be played today and on the result hinges the schedule for the remainder of the tournament.

The existing treasury deficit of $273,000,000 will be wiped out by June 1, according to plans. When you are paying the last of those Christmas bills, think that over.

Winning A Name and A Reputation

Lincoln, whose birthday will be celebrated tomorrow, wasn't a great money maker and couldn't have been ranked as a millionaire even if they had had such things seventy years ago—but he had two great assets that are still sought and possessed by any man who attains greatness. He won the name and the reputation for Honesty.

"Honest Abe" was a name to be envied then as it is today. And its winning indicated traits of character that made a deathless leader—fair dealing, consideration for others, a word that was as good as his bond.

Those same characteristics are primary requirements in this modern day in all individuals and all institutions who seek to render service and to progress. Honesty and thrift go hand in hand with every worthwhile success.
