Income Tax Pointers

No. 13

Bonuses to employees may be deducted by employers from gross income when such payments are made in good faith as additional compensation for services actually rendered, provided that when added to the stipulated salary the total does not exceed "a reasonable compensation for services rendered."

When the amount of the salary of an officer or employee is paid for a limited time to his widow or heirs in recognition of services rendered by the deceased, such payment may be deducted. Salaries paid an employee absent in military, naval, or other service of the Government, but who intends to return, are allowable deductions.

AT THE THEATERS

William Haines Now Playing At Arcade

"Alias Jimmy Valentine," William Haines' latest starring vehicle, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's first talking picture, is now playing at the Arcade threater. The film is adapted from the famous crook play of Paul Armstrong, which set the standard for productions of its type when it played on Broadway.

An unusually strong supporting cast surrounds the star. Leila Hyams, picked by Henry Clive, the artist, as the most beautiful blonde in Hollywood, has the leading feminine role. Karl Dane and Tully Marshall play the parts of Haines' fellow safe crackers, and Lionel Barrymore is cast as the detective who is always trailing the adventurous trio. This is Haines' first "straight" dramatic role since he has achieved stardom. Usually he is associated with the breezy, wise-cracking type of modern youth, and his plays are usually vehicles of laughter first of all. While "Alias Jimmy Valentine" has comedy scenes and lines, it is the tense story that holds the attention all the way.

The picture tells of the cracksman who finally determines to go straight. He goes to a small town, gets a job in a bank, and gradually wins himself position and the heart of the bank president's daughter. The story reaches a thrilling climax when his sweetheart's young sister is locked in the bank's vault. Haines knows that his sandpapered fingers can open the vault, but he also realizes that the act will reveal him as what his pursuing nemesis, the detective Doyle, has accused him of being—the master cracksman. What he does makes fascinating seeing, and the picture has an unusual ending. It was directed by Jack Conway.

Plenty Of Whoopee In Film at Star

Cocktails, swimming parties and all varieties of that great American pastime, "making whoopee," are on tap in the film version of "A Single Man," adapted from the famous stage hit in which John Drew once starred.

In this new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, which opens Tuesday at the Star theater as a co-starring vehicle for Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle, it would seem that party experts acted as technical advisors during the filming.

Certainly it kept everybody on the jump to interpret all of the "whoopee" sequences that keep this film pepped up with spicy action from the opening flash to the final fadeout.

At the end of the picture we see Cody as a very weary man, tired of the mad chase he has been led by flaming youth. This probably required very little acting. For even appearing in the wild party scenes that preceded is sufficient to tire out any person.

It is little wonder that Miss Pringle, as Cody's discreet secretary, was content to sit back and allow him to plunge on his belated quest for romance. Womanly, she certainly knew that he would come home a sadder but wiser man when the playing was all over.

Harry Beaumont, who directed the feature, is to be credited with another display of fine understanding of the younger generation. He has repeated his triumph of "Our Dancing Daughters" and has proven his right to be known as the film's foremost glorifier of the American boy and girl.

Marceline Day and Edward Nugent head the elaborate supporting cast, which includes Kathlyn Williams and Eileen Manning. F. Hugh Herbert and George O'Hara are responsible for the screen adaptation.

MARKET ROAD FROM MT. GLEN OPEN TO CARS

By Mrs. E. D. Whiting
(Observer Correspondent)

MT. GLEN (Special)—The Mt. Glen-La Grande market road is open now to car travel. The farmers have found it necessary in most cases to shovel trails from their garages to the road. Others living in lanes have found it necessary to haul their cars on bob sleds to the road. Snow is yet three feet deep on the level here.

Matthews, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Zaugg is suffering from an attack of bronchial pneumonia. He is reported to be doing as well as could be expected.

Clarence De Graw is visiting at the J. A. Leak home with his wife and baby. Mrs. De Graw is spending the winter with her mother, Mrs. Leak.

People of the community offer their sympathy to the family of J. A. Felk. Mr. Felk has been a good neighbor and friend and his going will be a great loss to the neighborhood.

Hay is scarce here. A few farmers have found it necessary to buy hay, but most of them will have enough to last the stock if there is an early spring.

Millions of postcards go to the dead letter office because of poor addresses. There ought to be some sort of warning in this for some of the radio announcers.

TRADE MARK REG.

By Junius

Jim Higgins was having his first experience as a "hired man" on the farm. His employer was more than disposed to be thrifty. On the first morning he breakfasted with the family on cold bacon. He proceeded to cut off the rind and placed it on the side of his plate. The farmer noticed this and looking up, remarked: "We eat the rind here." "That's all right," replied Jim. "I'm just getting mine ready for you."

A La Grande man thinks he has discovered something new. His wife declined an invitation to a tacky party because she had nothing to wear.

A girl, inspecting bargains in a department store, picked up a pair of golf gloves.

Examining the left-hand glove, the girl said to the companion: "I wonder why this one is padded in the palm."

"Don't you know?" the other said. "That is a golf glove."

"Oh, I see," was the reply, "and that's the hand you catch the ball with."

"Doctor, I'm sure I'm getting all the exercise I need."

"There's no indication of it."

"No wonder. You have only looked at my tongue. But you just ought to see the soles of my shoes."

* * *

Mrs. Gayboy: "Before we go to the ball, I want you to remember that it's the custom to dance the first dance with your wife."

Gayboy: "Well, wind the phonograph. We'll dance it right here and get it over with."
