Colonial Tea To Be Given Friday At Wright Home

One of the most pretentious social events of this season in which the entire community is invited to share is the colonial tea to be given next Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. K. Wright, 1202 Pennsylvania avenue, by the Grand Ronde chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. This tea is an annual event in observation of Washington's birthday and has been in previous years, one in which large companies of local women have been happy to participate. Local daughters will appear in the quaint colonial costumes and will serve and entertain their guests from 2 o'clock until 5 in the afternoon.

The colonial tea has a very worthy object. One of the most important pieces of work done by the Daughters of the American Revolution outside of their actual historical program, such as the restoration and preservation of historical sites, is the encouragement of the study of American history and the institution of genuine patriotism, in the sense in which they offer as an organization to young women seeking a college education. This is done by every chapter and the local chapter, the Grand Ronde, is this year interested especially in the local colleges. By local colleges is meant those smaller institutions, the majority of which are denominational colleges, such as Linfield, Pacific, Willamette, etc., and all situated within the borders of the state of Oregon. The daughters believe that their object is most worthy and they are confident women of the community will give practical assistance.

The Central Parent-Teacher association is planning for an interesting meeting to be held at the Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. H. E. Dixon will speak on "Citizenship." A silver offering will be taken as part of the Founders' Day ceremony.

The children of Miss Frances Ingersoll's first grade room and of Miss Henrietta Hering's second grade will sing "George Washington."

Miss Piper will give the "Doll's House," and the boys of the first and second grade rooms will entertain with a tag drill.

Camp Fire Girls Planning For Hike

The Sacajawea Camp Fire girls met at the home of Mrs. Lief H. Awee yesterday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Four fortune telling stunts were part of the afternoon's entertainment. Another feature was refreshment stunts in charge of Florence Hicks.

The girls made plans for a breakfast hike next Saturday.

A group of five or six Camp Fire girls of the Paluwana group are soon to be ready to take the rank of freemakers and at the meeting of the group held last night in their room at the home of Mrs. L. F. Taylor, they made plans for the planning, budgeting, buying, preparing and serving of a menu, which is one of the requirements for attaining the rank.

The meeting last night was presided over by Lenore Hendley, president. Three visitors were in attendance.

The Women's Relief corps is making plans for the celebration of the birthday of Conrad Shultz, of La Grande, who will be 88 years old in March, and for the celebration of the birthday of the church, which was organized in March in 1852.

The luncheon and meeting will be held Saturday, Mar. 2, it was announced at the meeting held Saturday. The committee in charge of the luncheon includes: Mattie Gooch, Anna Grant, Maggie Herrman, Mary Hale, Evelyn Hicks, Mabel Hummel, Grace Hanson, Adelaide Kitchin, Helokah Kohnenparger, Frances Kennedy, Lillie Kimmel, Winnie Kimmel, Zella Lyon and Minnie Luper.

Mrs. J. E. Stiles entertained the A. O. U. club last night at her home at 2106 Second street. Bridge was played. Mrs. Jim Nelson received first prize and Mrs. Tobin second.

A lovely luncheon was served the menu in keeping with the Washington birthday motif. Individual cakes had tiny rosebud holders with a birthday candle and this salad was decorated with cherries.

Mrs. W. D. McDonald and Mrs. Nelson entertained with a vocal duet.

LUNCHEON—Baked oysters, brown bread and butter sandwich, stuffed prairie salad, rolled oats, cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Braised veal with vegetables, apple and horseradish salad, peach balls, miffi, coffee.

Onions, carrots and potato marbles are cooked with veal to make an appetizing dish for a cold winter evening.

ter's evening. Strained tomato juice is used in place of water and fat salt pork is drawn through the meat to furnish fat and flavor.

Baked Oysters
One pint oysters, 1 pound spinach, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 4 eggs butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons cream, 1 egg, bread crumbs.

Scald half the oysters in their own liquor. Chop remaining oysters without cooking. Wash spinach and drop into boiling water. Cook three minutes and drain. Chop finely and add onion and butter. Cook slowly, closely covered for 15 minutes. Add chopped oysters, salt, pepper and cream and bring to the boiling point. Cook slowly for five minutes and stir in egg. Put scalded whole oysters in a well-buttered baking dish, cover with spinach mixture and sprinkle top with crumbs. Dot with bits of butter and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Serve from baking dish.

Library Chats

By Mabel E. Doty, Librarian
Doesn't it give one a satisfactory feeling to know that one is appreciated? The library folk registered a real glow when a letter came from a rural teacher recently to whom a package of children's books had been sent. "Thanks for your selection of juvenile books sent," she wrote. "I wonder if you really know what a God send they are in a glass room where there is a dearth of suitable supplementary material for my pupils?"

How this makes us wish we were a county library and could serve every one throughout the county free of charge. We have a good many county borrowers, however, who are gladly paying the necessary $2.00 a year membership for the privilege of getting an unlimited supply of reading material. Perhaps there are others who would like to avail themselves of this privilege but just haven't known about it.

Saturday night is a good time to pay a visit to the library. Several new books were put into circulation last Saturday evening. The new books of fiction disappeared like dew before the sun. These titles included a new Van Dine mystery story which the men say are almost the best mystery stories ever written; a new Grace Richmond story, "At the South Gate"; "A Lantern in Her Hand," by Hess Streete Aldrich, and others. The library also added the following worth while non-fiction titles: "Fur-Farming for Profit" Frank Ashbrook.

We have had so many calls for up-to-date material on fur farming that we are delighted to offer this splendid new book on this subject. It will be such a demand.

"The Buck in the Snow" Edna St. Vincent Millay

This is a collection of lyrics Miss Millay has written since 1924. It will give lasting pleasure to all who care for real poetry.

"The Ways of Behaviorism" John B. Watson is famous as the exponent of the new psychology that is interesting everyone today. "Behaviorism," says Dr. Watson, "is the scientific study of human conduct." Anyone who wishes to keep up on psychology will want to read this book.

"Your Forces and How to Use Them" C. D. Larson

Do you know that you can do far more with yourself and your life than you have been doing? Mr. Larson says so and he talks as if he might know. Anyway we promise you that you will feel so energetic and enthusiastic after reading this book you will want to turn the world over.

"The Pathway of Roses" C. D. Larson

Another title by the same author. We suggest that you read them both.

MOSCOW (AP)—Out of 7,000 privately owned homes in Moscow 200 are in possession of their former proprietors. These include generals, counts, priests and other anti-soviet elements whom the municipal council plans once more to dispossess.

Boy Scout Circulating Library Plan Is Explained by A. W. Nelson

"This is something which La Grande people can do to help out in the isolated sections of Eastern Oregon," says A. W. Nelson, speaking for the Boy Scouts of this city concerning the new circulating library which the scout organization is sponsoring.

"The idea of a 'traveling' library for this section of the state was conceived by the Eastern Oregon council of which Mr. Nelson is boys' reading chairman, and he is leading its organization. 'In certain out-of-the-way vicinities of this Northeastern section of the state, the winter isolations are long and often the opportunities for getting books and other reading material are scant.'

So to help make life a bit more glamorous for the scouts and other folks in these places the scouts in La Grande will gather together a library of books to be used by these people.

"The library will be composed of books of travel, adventure, wholesome romance and history," Mr. Nelson says. "Any La Grande persons who have books that they wish to give to the library are urged to call the Boy Scout office at once and scouts will go out to collect the books."

The following statements are made by Mr. Nelson:

"For some time the executive board has been feeling that in many localities scouts do not have as much access to good books as they should have. Up to date we have seen the trouble but couldn't do anything to mend it. Now we can, if properly supported. Here it is:

"1. Who can loan. The library will be established at headquarters in La Grande where local scouts will have no loaning rights. Only boys outside La Grande can borrow them, and the only fee attached is the necessary stamps to have them shipped out and back.

"2. Where books come from. These will all be donated books. La Grande is heading off with a generous supply and we are asking

That Good Old Fashioned Flavor

No doubt about it—old-time cooking was delicious. But it may have been our youthful appetites, rather than the quality of the food itself, that gave it that super-flavor we all remember. The good cooks of those days never had a chance to buy such groceries as modern housewives use.

The coffee on your breakfast-table—one of the half-dozen best-known brands advertised today—has a flavor that you could find only at a few famous restaurants, forty years ago. The cake that mother used to make would have been even lighter, fluffier, if she had had modern flour and shortening to work with.

Every day the advertising columns tell you where to buy and how to use cooking materials that are better-tasting, purer, more conveniently put up than ever before in history.

All through your housekeeping the same rule holds good. There are better things nowadays to eat, to wear, to use. Read the advertisements and know what they are. Then ask for them by name.

Make it a habit; reading the advertisements pays YOU.
