Senator Upton's bill providing for 25 per cent reduction in telephone rates in Oregon was killed by vote of 24 of the 30 senators Tuesday afternoon. The battle was over the question whether a report by Upton and Jones as a minority of the committee on railroads and utilities should be substituted for the favorable report of the committee majority. Senator Eberhard and Bell. The minority failed of adoption, and immediately afterward the majority report was adopted, indefinitely postponing the bill. The controversy was hard fought but participated in by few members. Eberhard Takes Part. Senator Eberhard declared that the Upton bill proposed an unreasonable reduction and that it would be unjust by legislative fiat to take away abruptly that amount of income. She plans to record, insofar as she can during the conference, the opinions of local women as to what standard of living could and should prevail on the average Oregon farm. Famous flower gardens and landscaped scenes of the North coast will illustrate a talk by Mrs. E. P. Massman, of La Grande. The same discourse, given recently at the Neighborhood club, proved so entertaining and helpful to a garden-minded audience that she has consented to repeat it for the county women's meeting Tuesday afternoon.

SCORES HURT IN GOTHAM NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (AP)—A train loaded with 900 rush hour commuters caught fire in the Hudson tubes last night, causing a panic in which scores were injured, six seriously, as passengers fought their way out of smoke-filled cars. Fourteen persons remained in hospitals today, recovering from the effects of inhaling smoke or injuries suffered when they were knocked down and trampled in the surging mass of hysterical humanity seeking escape. The accident happened at 6:19 p. m., about 1800 feet west of the Christopher street station and 75 feet under the street level, on the Manhattan side before the tubes dip under the river. Officials of the Hudson and Manhattan railroad, in a statement blamed the fire on a short circuit in a power cable under one of the cars of the seven-car Jersey City local. Saw Flames on Track. Passengers, however, said they saw flames on the track ahead of the train. The first two cars passed safely over the fire, they said, before there came the flash of the short circuit and the train stalled. As the train came to a stop acid smoke of burning insulation rapidly filled the cars. Red flames shot between the second and third cars. The lights went out. A wave of fear swept over the tightly packed passengers caught in the smoke-laden darkness. The first movement was toward the front and rear of the train as passengers nearest the first car scrambled for safety. Several riding in the vestibule of the third car had been burned by the flash of the short circuit. Murmurs of amazement rose to shouts and hysterical cries. Then came the crash of glass as passengers began breaking windows seeking air. Pulley and firemen penetrated the tubes by an emergency exit and began assisting the passengers from the smothered and burning train.

NEW BASKETBALL RULES EXPLAINED (Continued from Page One) when he has the ball and in the judgment of the officials is throwing or attempting to throw for a goal it is not essential that the ball leave the player's hands. A player's arm may be held by an opponent so that he cannot shoot or he may be making every effort to do so. He is thus deprived of his opportunity to score. In this foul the player is entitled to two free throws as compensation. The act of shooting continues after the ball has left the player's hands until he regains his equilibrium and is no longer in a defenseless position. 4. A player shall not tap and catch the ball on the second of two successive jump balls if he tapped and caught it on the first of the two jump balls. Running with the ball is progressing in any direction while holding the ball. For these violations the ball goes to the opponents out of bounds, on the side at the point nearest the spot where the violation was committed. 5. The officials of these basketball games have the right to expect from both players and spectators an appreciation of the fact that he is the man who has been engaged as the official for the game and who is expected to make decisions to the best of his ability and judgment; that this man must use his own judgment and make lightning interpretations, and should be occasionally expected to make a mistake, just as the players do, in the heat of the game. Mr. Rosenbaum, in commenting on sportsmanship, said: "I will say that the superintendents, principals, coaches and faculty are certainly to be complimented on the wonderful showing of good sportsmanship that they have developed in all of our Eastern Oregon schools. Borrowing from others: 'When the Great Scorer comes to write against your name, he writes, not that you won or lost, but how you played the game.'"
