Surplus elk from the National Bison Range are being offered by the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture to anyone who will remove them without cost to the government. TO EAT WITHOUT BECOMING FAT

Avoid Too Much of Any Food —and Too Little Exercise, Say Authorities

Some people seem to think that all they need to do to reduce is to stop eating sugar. That isn't true. As a matter of fact, as a prominent medical authority says, "Every food that has any food value at all is fattening if taken in large enough quantities." "Reducing weight," he goes on to say, "means to eat less, keeping the diet balanced and attractive."

Medical authorities are alarmed at the national "craze for reducing." "The experience of centuries has shown," says a celebrated doctor, "that a poorly nourished body becomes much more quickly subject to such disorders as anemia, tuberculosis, the common cold, or various types of infection, than does one properly upheld." "The craze for thinness is an attempt to modify the process of nature."

How much more wise and sane it is to eat moderately of all foods rather than omit the one ingredient that adds so much to the enjoyment of eating. Sweetness is nature's ideal flavor. And no other food is so pure or so cheap as sugar. Eat plenty of such healthful foods as cereals, apple sauce, grapefruit and fresh and canned fruits and vegetables of all kinds—sweetened to taste. Sweetening makes it easy to eat the healthful foods regularly and daily. Don't overeat, but remember it is unnecessary to undereat. The sugar says in the happy way. The Sugar Institute.
