OFFICE CAT

The grocer had just put a new boy to work, and among the first instructions was this: "If you don't happen to have what a customer wants, suggest something else as nearly like it as possible."

Soon a woman came into the store and asked the boy: "Have you any fresh green stuff today?" "No, ma'am," answered the boy, "but we have some nice bluing."

A young woman was being cross-examined in court. "How old are you?" asked the judge. She hesitated. "Don't hesitate," he said; "every second unites it worse."

They sat in the swing at midnight. But her love was not to his taste. His reach was but thirty-six inches. While hers was a forty-six waist.

An apple a day may keep the doctor away, but it was an apple that started the dressmaker's business.

To a woman there is more joy in one operation than in ninety and nine just ordinary cases of sickness.

Mother: "Do you want to hear the story about a good little girl?" Modern Daughter (six years old): "What was she good at?"

"I feel awfully anxious about my wife," said Jones to his friend; "she's out in the down-pour of rain."

"Oh, she'll be all right, old man," answered Brown; "she'll find shelter in some store."

"Yes," sighed Black, "that's what makes me anxious. She's got $10 of mine."

SHORT TALK BY A THOUGHTFUL MOTHER
A California (Long Beach) Mother speaks: "Only a mother who has passed through anxious nights of fear of eroup, hearing that hoarse, croupy cough constantly, can appreciate our feeling of gratitude toward Eley's Honey and Tar Compound. It stopped Junior's dreadful cough the first night he took it and it was a great relief to see him drop into a quiet sleep. Good also for whooping cough, measles cough and heavy, wheezy breathing. Sold and recommended everywhere. —Adv.

"Girl on Barge" Now Showing At Arcade

A beautiful and unusual love story has been made by Universal from "The Girl on the Barge," one of Rupert Hughes' most popular novelettes, which ran in a national magazine last November, is now playing at the Arcade with Jean Hersholt in the starring role. Sally O'Neil has the title role, with Malcolm MacGregor sharing the love interest.

The story is set in a novel atmosphere. The greater part of the action takes place on a tug and the barge it tows from New York to Buffalo. There is an inherent feud between the barge and tug folk. An illiterate little girl on the barge falls in love with the pilot of the tug. Her father is furious when the pilot teaches her to read, declaring "Jarin's never did me no good." Then follows one of the sweetest love stories ever filmed capped with a tremendous climax which is the very epitome of drama. The picture was filmed on the Champlain Ship Canal in New York State.

Edward Sloman directed. He's the man who directed "The Fighting Legion," "Surrender," "We Americans," "His People" and other great dramatic successes.

"The Sideshow" Is Attraction At Colonial

"The Sideshow," which is showing at the Colonial theater today and Saturday, is an unusual drama of the lives, loves and adventures of those in the small tent. Colorful backgrounds, the glamor of the circus, the scent of the saw dust, the excitement, the wit of the Barker, and the lure of the canvas entame the breast and awaken the emotions as the story unfolds.

The hopeless love of a dwarf for the prettiest girl on the lot, the tragedy in the big tent, the burning of the pay car and a plot to kill a girl before the audience are a few of the tense and thrilling moments in store for patrons of the Colonial theater. The climax is one of the most awe-inspiring situations ever presented upon the screen.

Among the wonders of the freak show are Martha McGruger, who tips the scales at 336 pounds and is still gaining; Texas Madson, the tallest man alive, measuring seven feet and six inches in his stocking feet; the living skeleton, weighing scant eighty-four pounds and so thin he scarcely casts a shadow; Paul Dumite, the armless wonder performs all the acts of a normal person using his feet as hands; Estaban Clemente, the only man throwing double-headed axes at a living target blindfolded; Jacques Ray, the modern marvel, lives on a diet of fire; Bert Price, whose entire body is an art gallery containing some of the largest samples of the tattooer's skill on record.

In addition to this glowing array of marvels the Al G. Barnes circus, its winter quarters at El Monte, California, and entire road outfit, are used by Columbia. A cast of screen favorites including Marie Prevost, Ralph Graves, Little Billy, Alan Roscoe and Pat Harmon enact the principal roles. The production was made from a story by Howard J. Green, under the direction of Elio C. Kenton.

Alaskan Film Is Feature At the Star

Universal made sure of the proper settings for the "Grip of the Yukon," the great Alaskan epic featuring an all-star cast which is now at the Star theater, for the picture was under the technical supervision of Alaska Jack Gindvold, well known Alaskan guide and adventurer.

Alaska Jack is well known in the theatrical world and for many years traveled on the Pantages and Orpheum circuits, arranging and playing in the prologues of pictures pertaining to the life of his home land. He is one man who knows what is correct in Alaskan settings, having been a government guide and mail carrier before submitting to the lure of the klieg lights and grease paint.

Jack was one of the pioneer gold miners of Northern Alaska and was a prospector for many years. He is also the father of the first white child born in Cape Nome.

Alaska, being one of the original stakers of the town site of the great capital city. It was through his discovery of gold at the base of Mount McKinley at the headwaters of the Cantishna river in 1904 that brought about one of the greatest gold rushes in the history of Alaska.

He has been in pictures for the past fourteen years and has done technical work on many of the screen's foremost productions depicting life and settings in Alaska. He has done bits and parts in many photoplays but prefers technical work to acting.

The all-star cast in "Grip of the Yukon" includes Neil Hamilton, and Francis X. Bushman, who portray the leading roles, Theodore Lorch, Jane Marlowe, James Farley, Otis Harlan, and Burr McIntosh.

"Grip of the Yukon" was made under the direction of Ernst Laemmle.

How Much Butter?

NO! How Good Is It.

When it comes to butter the "goodness" of it is the all-important question. No one person uses a great deal—you always know there will be enough, but you want to know that you are eating good sweet butter—and you do know because the taste tells—you can always be sure of it by ordering Meadow Harvest from your dealer.
