Document Of Lindsey Film Marriage Today

Four of the most progressive and important independent producers in the films united to make Judge Ben B. Lindsey's internationally discussed work, "Companionate Marriage," into an entertaining dramatic and human motion picture which at the same time gives a true presentation of the famous jurist's much discussed theory of companionate marriage.

Every producing organization in the business tried for a year to induce the noted jurist-sociologist to permit the filming of "Companionate Marriage," but he steadfastly declined until the proposal of the independent producers was made.

Judge Lindsey worked with the film in the translation of the theme to the screen. First National Pictures, Inc. acquired "Companionate Marriage" for distribution and will present it at the Star theater for two days beginning on Sunday.

No expense was spared to make the film an outstanding example of movie production. Harold Shumate supervised the picture from the first to the last.

Don B. Lindsey-Beatrice Van screen story which Erle C. Kenton directed. Heading the brilliant cast are Betty Bronson, Alec B. Francis, Richard Walling, Hedda Hopper, Sarah Padden, June Nash, Edward Martindel, Arthur Rankin and William J. Welsh.

STORMS DELAY LINERS

PLYMOUTH, England, March 9 (AP)—Storms in the Atlantic are delaying several eastbound liners. The steamships Albatross, America and Pennland which are due here tomorrow have reported by radio that they will be unable to reach port until Monday.

The grade pupils last week, Mrs. J. E. Mills was elected leader. Bessie Goley, president; Maxine Towle, vice president; Nellie Meroney, secretary-treasurer. Other members include, Lloyd Mills, Gail Mills and David Arnold.

A cooking club made up of seven girls was formed the week before. Maxine Towle, president; Ada Breshers, vice president; Phyllis Hancock, secretary-treasurer; Velma Richardson, Lena Briscoe, Nellie Meroney, Lena Nelson, with Mrs. Helen Conklin as leader. Two of these girls, Maxine Towle and Nellie Meroney, are members of both clubs.

Mrs. Eva McMan, who has been spending the last month with her daughter Mrs. Pearl Tobin in Pendleton, returned home Tuesday.

L. E. Anderson is having some serious trouble with his foot, which was cut about ten days ago. The first few days after the accident, his foot seemed to be healing nicely, but either infection or some other trouble began and it has become extremely painful. He is still at the post office but is assisted by Mrs. Anderson in the work.

At a meeting of the school board Monday afternoon at K. J. Stackland's office, Mrs. Bessie Fletcher was re-elected to her position of English teacher in the high school.

The woman's club is resuming practice on their play, "The Zand-dump Wedding." They hoped to give this play two months ago, but owing to the cold weather, it was indefinitely postponed. A date is not yet set for its presentation, but it is expected to be in the near future.

About 1100 White Leghorn baby chicks have been ordered from Independence to be delivered April 15. B. S. Constock has ordered 200 of them, T. C. Herby 200, Albert Becker 200, Mrs. Richards 200, W. A. McNeill 100, and Chris Beetsch 120.

COVE, Ore. (Special).—The Rt. Rev. W. P. Remington, of Pendleton, bishop of Eastern Oregon, will visit Cove Palm Sunday, Mar. 24. It is announced. There will be an evening service.

The Rev. H. E. Hamilton, district superintendent of Idaho, was here for service at the Methodist Episcopal church Monday evening. As this was the regular quarterly meeting, the service was well attended.

The Rev. A. E. Hall, of Helix, began revival meetings at the Baptist church Tuesday evening and will continue the services until near Easter time.

The Rev. Mr. Dowle, an evangelist, is a guest at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. W. Platt.

The Ladies Aid and the mission society of the Methodist Episcopal church held their semi-monthly meeting at the church parlors Wednesday afternoon. The two societies are sending a missionary box to a children's home in Portland. There were about 25 women present, and a lunch was served by Mrs. Wesley Smith and Mrs. Robert Paige.

The Ladies Guild of the Ascension Episcopal church will hold an all-day meeting Saturday at the home of Mrs. J. R. Price. There will be a pot-luck dinner at 1 o'clock. The time will be spent sewing.

The Ladies Aid is planning a party for St. Patrick's day. The plans are not completed at this time.

Frank Millard received word yesterday of the death of his father, Edwin Millard at Pendleton. Mr. Millard has been ill since he suffered a stroke of paralysis about two years ago. He was being cared for at the home of his son Frank until a few months ago, when he was removed to the state hospital at Pendleton. His daughter, Mrs. Jessie Porter, of Yakima, expected to arrive yesterday. Funeral services were to be held today.

"Red Lips" At the Arcade Sunday Only

Portraying a new side of collegiate life in vivid colors, but with rare understanding, "Red Lips," starring Charles Rogers and Marjorie Nixon, will open at the Arcade theater Sunday, one day only. Because of its youth and interest, college has been a frequent subject of motion pictures. Universal has chosen to show that glamorous side in "Red Lips" and depicts the romance between a shy youth and an off-camera flapper. Rogers and Miss Nixon, two of Hollywood's youngest stars, are said to portray to perfection the heart of modern youth. An entire college campus was constructed for the picture. It includes a track, dormitory, student's amusement hall and other features of collegiate life. The picture also shows the petting parties and whoopees.

"Red Lips" is from a story by Percy Marks, author of "The Flamingo," a sensational novel of college life. "Red Lips" is equally sensational and similar in theme. Melville Brown adapted the story for the screen. He was then assigned the job of direction.

The supporting cast is reported to be unusually good. Stanley Taylor appears as the room-mate of Rogers. Hugh Trevor, Hayden Stevenson, Andy Devine, Robert Selzer and Earl McCarthy are in the cast, plus a host of Hollywood's snappiest beauties.

James T. O'Donohue wrote the continuity.

There is a letter received by the editor of the "Advice to the Heart-sick" department.

"Dear Miss Lovesalve:

"Six months after my engagement to a young man, I find he has a wooden leg. Should I break it off?"

Bill: "It must be five o'clock. I hear the shuffling of typewriter desks in your outer office."

Phil: "Then it's exactly 4:40 p. m."

Master: "What is your name, my boy?"

New Boy: "Julius Johnson, sir."

Master: "Julius, my boy, not Julius! You shouldn't spell such a noble name as Julius! And what is your name, my boy?"

Next (confused): "Billious Smith, sir."

OFFICE CAT
By Junius

The only fellow who doesn't have to worry about a machine some day taking his place is the fellow who works his brains.

Apparently there were no go-getters in the old days. You never see a bronze statue with its feet on a desk.

"Have you an ear for music?" asked the society maid.

"No," replied the matter-of-fact young grocery clerk. "I use one of my ears for the telephone and the other for a penrack."

Indignant Citizen—"Officer, stop that man."

Officer—"What for?"

Citizen—"Why, he's a bootlegger."

Officer—"Don't ye get so excited, there'll be another along in a minute."

A Scotch aviator did a loop-the-loop and dropped his pocketbook, but he reached the ground first.

The small boy gazed at the stout man sitting opposite him in the train.

"Why are you staring at me?" demanded the man.

"Please, sir," said the boy, "there's nowhere else to look."

"What are they moving the church for?"

"Well, stranger, I'm the mayor of these dignified and I am for law enforcement. We've got an ordinance what says no saloon shall never be nearer than three hundred feet from a church. I give 'em three days to move the church."

Here is a letter received by the editor of the "Advice to the Heart-sick" department.
