Income Tax Pointers

No. 31

The period for filing income tax returns made on the basis of the calendar year 1928 ends at midnight, March 15, 1929. When by reason of illness or absence from home additional time is required, an application for an extension should be addressed to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer files his returns, together with a full recital for the cause for the delay. Except in the case of taxpayers who are abroad, no extension may be granted for more than six months. The request must be made before the return is due.

American citizens residing or traveling abroad, including persons in the military or naval service on duty outside the United States, are granted, without the necessity for filing a request, an extension up to and including the fifteenth day of the sixth month following the close of the taxable year—June 15 if the return is filed on a calendar year basis.

An extension of time for filing returns does not extend the time for payment of the tax, or any installment thereof, unless so specified in the extension. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue may extend the time of payment of the amount determined as the tax by the taxpayer, or any installment thereof, for a period not to exceed six months from the prescribed date.

It is a new sensation.

People are talking about "Three Weeks Ends" as they talked about "It," the first one of the Clara Bow-Klinor-Glyn combinations, and about the second, "Red Hair."

Why spend "Three Weeks" learning about love when "Three Weeks Ends" can teach "It" in one evening? Clara Bow snaps things up in this story of a little East Side girl who gets a job dancing in a cabaret and dances right into the hearts of a rich playboy and a poverty-stricken salesman. She gets away with a lot on the playboy but she just
