HEALTH

PREVENT EYE TROUBLE

By Dr. Frederick Stricker
The eyes are the agents of one of the most important functions of the human body. The eyes are most delicate and sensitive, and their usefulness is easily impaired.

It is estimated that over 50 per cent of impaired eyesight and the attendant discomfort, diseases and dependency can be prevented.

The best artificial lighting system is that nearest to ordinary daylight. The light should come over the left shoulder for right-handed people, and over the right shoulder for left-handed people. In order that a shadow be not cast.

Faulty vision is sometimes due to eye disease, but is also often due to defects of the eyes which prevent the rays of light from being properly focused in the eye.

Properly fitted eyeglasses, properly worn, will remedy the defect. Properly fitted eyeglasses not only enable a person with defective vision to see more clearly, but they may improve the general physical condition.

The proper fitting of eyeglasses demands expert knowledge and great care. Eyeglasses, the lenses of which are not adapted to the eye, or frames that do not hold glasses in correct position, may do great harm.

In the normal eye, by special sense of sight, the images of objects are properly focused and a clear picture thus formed. Myopia, or nearsightedness, is induced by a condition where the distance from the front to the back of the eye ball is too long.

This causes distant objects to be blurred and discomfort, headaches and eyestrain are experienced. Hyperopia, or farsightedness, is induced by a condition where the distance from the front to the back of the eyeball is too short.

This causes close objects to appear blurred, which in turn brings about eyestrain.

Astigmatism is induced by a condition where the rays of light falling upon different parts of the eye are not focused at the same point, with the result that objects are indistinct and eyesight is impaired.

Myopia, hyperopia and astigmatism can be remedied by properly fitted eyeglasses.

The danger signals of eye disturbances are watering, watery eyes, fatigue after continued use of eyes, blurred vision, soreness or redness of eyelids, puffiness of eyelids or under eyes, drooping of lid, mild or severe headaches and aching of eyes.

In every case of failing eyesight.

Christian Church At Elgin Opened By Mr. Swander

By Mrs. Bernad Hug (Observer Correspondent)

ELGIN, (Special)—The Rev. C. P. Swander, of Portland, Ore., dedicated the new Christian church building in Elgin, Sunday, March 10. The Presbyterian church dismissed its morning service and members attended in goodly numbers.

The afternoon meetings were attended by delegations from the churches of La Grande and surrounding towns, as well as the sister churches of Elgin. At the night service J. R. Beem and son, evangelists of Payette, Ida., began a revival meeting.

These meetings are being well attended and much interest is already being manifested. The father and his son leading in this effort are highly recommended by all who know them, especially by Mr. Swander, who in state secretary of the Christian churches of Oregon. Special features of the meetings are strong gospel sermons by Mr. Beem, the father, and appropriate songs by Darrold E. Beem, the son. Darrold possesses a clear, pleasant bass voice. He also leads a chorus choir. A new feature is the "Sunshine Booster Gang" choir. This group consists of all the children in the community who will come, between the ages of 4 and 14 inclusive. They are taught songs, parables and Bible truths. Meetings are held every night at 7:30 except "rest night" which is each Monday night.

Antwerp soon is to have the first policewomen in Belgium.
