Over Same Trail—
Going over the trail his forefather trod is the experience of Dennis Hunt, of Portland, who is in La Grande today. "I was too busy in too much of a hurry to stop and ponder and find out what kind of a sensation it is," Mr. Hunt says. At Tolocaco and at other points along the highway are markers bearing the name of William Price Hunt who in 1813 headed the expedition sponsored by Astor who founded Astoria. That was Dec. 20, 1811, and more than 100 years later the great grandson of William Price Hunt, speeds along the highways of that trail in a high powered automobile.

this third category of problems. Involved Problem. "And it is not one problem. It is several hundred problems. Many of these problems are unknown to us today and will only be developed with experience. The scores of different agricultural commodities, the different localities of their origin, the different markets which they penetrate, their method and means of shipment, processing and distribution, all point to the fact that we must find an agency to which each and all of the problems can be properly presented, considered, and upon which real and positive assistance can be given in solution.

"We have to bear in mind that in their solution we are to a large extent basing new trails, making our own experiences we go. And it therefore has appeared to me that as we cannot foresee in advance the circumstances under which the powers of the board are to be called into action, any attempt to write out too detailed legislative directions would probably serve only to defeat the purpose of the board. That is the heart of the plan and the rest are details."

Secretary Hyde is to appear before the house agriculture committee this afternoon.

Answers McNary.
Asked by Chairman McNary if the bill he introduced last fall which did not contain the controverted McNary-Haugen equalization fee provision would meet the immediate requirements, Secretary Hyde replied that passage of a bill similar in intent to this measure appeared to be the clear mandate of the country.

A strong federal board, he said, was necessary, with authority to loan money to stabilization agencies to take up seasonal surpluses and feed them on the market slowly to maintain a more constant price level.

The secretary was questioned closely by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, as to what he would suggest to take the place of the equalization fee as a means of defraying possible losses in the handling of crop surpluses. Mr. Hyde replied that the federal board should be created with sufficient authority to work out all of the multitude of problems involving the farmers' troubles.

Counterfeit Dollar Passed On April 1

An outcast has been wandering about La Grande. It was learned today. He is the same as a man without a country. He is also ill-tempered. But he presents an ordinary countenance and dons a bold front in an endeavor to "get by" in spite of his many handicaps. Until captured he went where others went and bought the same things which his fellows bought. His dress and trimmings and countenance was much the same anyway, so he fooled people and suffered no qualms, because he is hard.

Maybe because it was April Fool's day, he "squared up" for a meal at a local restaurant by giving himself in pay. He is Mr. Counterfeit Dollar and he wasn't discovered at the restaurant until they were counting up change April Fool's night.

Then they penetrated his masquerade. For his edges were not so clearly and deeply milled as the edges of a real silver dollar manufactured by Uncle Sam. The date, 1922, was indistinct. Mr. Counterfeit Dollar is thicker and when tossed on the table doesn't ring true. He has a tiny, hollow sound. And the feel isn't right. He feels grossy and soft.

But he's pretty good at that for he fooled the waitress who put it into the cash register that day, although it was perhaps during a rush when the dollars flow in so fast that no personal interest is taken in each one.

Uncle Sam says that all such money should be turned into the treasury of the United States or a specified agent of the government. Anyway Mr. Counterfeit Dollar isn't going to see the world again as a traveler. His adventurous days are over.

And officials are urging others to watch out for more of the spurious coin.

Comely Divorcee Cause of Torment

TULSA, Okla., April 2 (AP)—A comely divorcee, Mrs. Annett Abrams, who recently came here from New York City, today was the central figure in the investigation of the death of William S. McCray following her admission that she "tormented" the millionaire oil operator's widow, Mrs. Jeannette McCray, by telephone.

Mrs. Abrams, known as an intimate friend of McCray, admitted yesterday that she was the woman who had been calling Mrs. McCray and suggesting that her husband had been involved "in several affairs." W. S. Coffey, prosecutor said. The divorcee, who first attracted attention when she volunteered to submit to an operation for a blood transfusion to save McCray's life, had denied knowledge of the calls when questioned the day before. The prosecutor said her admission was made after a long grilling.

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP)—College Grove, Tenn., state champions with a team picked from less than 100 students, today eliminated Moorhead, Minn., in the opening game of the second day's play of the national high school basketball tournament at the University of Chicago. The score was 30 to 29.
