MENUS

By Sister Mary

Perhaps there is no time of the year when the appetite is so jaded and in need of healthful stimulants as in the springtime.

The foods which were perfectly legitimate for us to eat when we needed to supply energy for resisting cold should be put aside until cold weather comes again.

Fruits, vegetables, cheese, eggs and fish are ideal for the larger part of the spring diet.

Tart foods such as grapefruit are especially desirable since they have a tendency to whip the appetite into action. Pickles, usually considered indigestible and taboo, are found valuable for their piquancy and appetite provoking qualities.

Lemon sauces, tartar sauces and horseradish sauces whet the appetite and add food value to the meal.

Sorrel Soup

Two cups well washed and sorrel leaves, 3 tablespoons butter, five outside leaves of lettuce, 1 onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 tablespoons flour, 4 cups water, 1 cup diced potato, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg.

Melt butter in kettle. Add sorrel, lettuce leaves cut in shreds, onion thinly sliced, and parsley. Stir and cook over the fire for a few minutes. Add flour and stir until thoroughly blended. Add potatoes and boiling water and cook 20 minutes. Add hot milk, salt, pepper and nutmeg and serve.

Foods rich in iron will do much to overcome spring fever and should be used freely.

Spinach has the highest content of iron of any of the vegetables and of course is rich in vitamins, but there are other spring vegetables that are excellent sources of mineral salts and vitamins.

Dandelion greens, tender young sorrel, mint and asparagus are in season and offer variety.

Radishes and new onions both are valuable raw foods and should be used frequently.

Endive with its slightly bitter taste is relished at this time of year, and cabbage with a lemon dressing is preferred to the rich cream dressing of winter months.

Sorrel soup is a real spring delicacy. The slightly acid flavor makes it particularly acceptable.

RED PIONEERS. Colonel Jacob C. Cooper.

J. C. Cooper, better known in Yamhill county and McMinnville as "Colonel" Cooper, released his latest book, "Red Pioneers" on Thanksgiving day. Colonel Cooper arrived in Oregon soon after the Civil war and during his trip across the plains had many opportunities to study the Indians at close range. His experiences with the Indians were always such as to leave him with the most friendly impressions of them and in this book you feel the friendliness and sympathy. Really the life story of the Oregon Indian woven very appealingly in a most readable novel.

ROAMIN' IN THE GLOAMIN' Sir Harry Lauder.

These reminiscences are enjoyable from start to finish, but especially in the account of his early years beginning as an 11-year-old in the coal mines and emerging as an entertainer in variety halls.

GRAINS OF RICE FOR A CHIL- NISSE BOWL. Ida Belle Lewis.

Those who heard Dr. Ida Belle Lewis in La Grande a few months ago will particularly enjoy this little book which has been presented as a gift to the library.

POSSIBLE WORLDS. J. B. S. Haldane.

Mr. Haldane is one of England's most brilliant and distinguished young scientists. In this new work he takes the world and its future for his province, placing upon a scientific basis such speculations as H. G. Wells treated in fiction. Will delight the serious and imaginative reader.

GRAPHIC BIBLE, FROM GENESIS TO REVELATION. Lewis Browne.

An excellent book for Sunday school pupils or any student of the Bible. It quite fulfills Mr. Browne's purpose of clarifying the flow of the events in the Biblical epic of the Jews. A simple narrative accompanies the animated maps.

THE OLD SAVAGE IN A NEW CIVILIZATION. Raymond Fosdick.

The 19th century has brought us tremendous new problems which Mr. Fosdick treats in this book. Our populations are no longer predominantly rural. They live in huge cities, crowded together in communities such as the world never knew before. The day of individual work for one's own needs is gone. Instead men work in vast factories, engaged on minute contributions to the finished article. A most interesting book.

You've had him long enough - NOW I WANT HIM!

THE girl suddenly faced her hostess. "I can't stand it any longer," she cried—"all this sneaking and lying and deception. Dan and I love each other. He's been your husband long enough. Now I want him!"

The older woman, deathly pale, turned to her husband. "She's right," he said. "There's no use trying to hide it any longer. You are my wife, Jean, and I love you as a companion. But I love Marie—the other way."

So this was her reward for sacrificing the best years of her life to her home and family. First her son, then her daughter—cager for new sensations—were swept headlong to disaster by the modern tide of jazz. And now her husband yields to the siren lure of a girl whose kisses must prove as deadly as a viper's sting! What had she, his wife, to offer against the lure of soft, red lips, against the seductiveness and passion of youth? What should she do?

This woman's story is the most sensational real-life revelation ever published in True Story Magazine. Critics say that if her experience were published in novel form, it would be a best seller over night. Unquestionably, her amazing disclosure will create widespread discussion.
