1929 Models to be Shown—In sharp contrast with old cars will be 50 or more new 1929 models displayed in the parade by local dealers.

A special effort will be made to show the cars to interested prospects following the parade and later in the day, with dealers holding open house.

agreement was now certain.

There was also less expectation in German circles as to the failure of the conference in view of the fact that unless the experts reach an agreement the Allies will certainly fall back on the Dawes plan which requires greater effort from the Reich than any new arrangement likely to be adopted.

SENATE CONFIRMS NOMINATIONS OF DAWES AND DIXON

succeeding Charles H. Burke, resigned.

Shortly after Rhoads' nomination had been sent to the senate President Hoover announced Mr. Rhoads had accepted and added that this was "another case where a man makes a great sacrifice to render public service."

Message Applauded—President Hoover started congress on the second day of its special session today with a message, delivered by messenger, recommending five pieces of legislation in which favor relief and tariff revision predominated.

In submitting his message in writing Mr. Hoover followed the policy of his predecessor in office, Calvin Coolidge, but departed from the methods of Woodrow Wilson and Warren G. Harding, who adopted the procedure of appearing before congress in person to make known their views on the pending issues of the day.

The house membership followed the message closely and quietly until the clerk neared its end. There was applause, especially from the republican side, as this passage was read.

"In a large sense we have learned that the cheapening of the dollar decreases rather than promotes permanent prosperity because it reduces the consuming power to the people."

Farm Relief Discussed—The brief session of the senate brought forth the first farm relief discussion of the extra session.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, asked chairman McNary, of the agricultural committee, if a farm measure would be ready by Thursday. McNary replied the committee would introduce a bill then and would have a report ready by Monday. He said he expected to make the agricultural relief bill the unfinished business of Monday.

With a smile on his face Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, inquired of McNary if he expected a unanimous report from his committee. The Oregon senator said he did not know because the committee was still busy but he hoped for one.

Today's session lasted less than an hour, the senate adjourning within a few minutes after the gavel fell and the house closing its doors at 12:50 p. m.

PRESIDENT RECOMMENDS FARM BOARD

authority and resources to assist the farmers in their distress problems, each upon its own merits.

"The creation of such an agency," he added, "would at once transfer the agricultural question from the field of politics into the realm of economics and would result in constructive action. The administration is pledged to create an instrumentality that will investigate the causes, find sound remedies, and have the authority and resources to apply those remedies."

The pledged purpose of such a federal farm board is the reorganization of the marketing system on a sounder and more stable and more economic lines. To do this the board will require funds to assist in creating and sustaining farmer-owned and farmer-controlled agencies for a variety of purposes, such as the acquisition of adequate working capital to be advanced against commodities lodged for storage; necessary and prudent advances to corporations created and owned by farmers' marketing organizations for the purchase and orderly marketing of surpluses occasioned by climatic variations or by harvest congestion; to authorize the creation and support of clearing houses, especially for perishable products, through which, under producers' approval, cooperation can be established with distributors and processors to more orderly marketing of commodities and for the elimination of many wastes in distribution; and to provide for licensing of handlers of some perishable products so as to eliminate unfair practices.

"Every penny of waste between farmer and consumer that we can eliminate, whether it arises from methods of distribution or from hoarding or speculation, will be a gain to both farmer and consumer."

"With the creation of a great instrumentality of this character, of a strength and importance equal to that of those which we have created for transportation and banking, we give immediate assurance of the determined purpose of the government to meet the difficulties of which we are now aware, and to create an agency through which constructive action for the future will be assured."

During the forum President Nelson announced the appointment of the better business bureau members, consisting of Chester Thompson, C. D. Putman and W. K. Gilbert.

Committee Report Adopted—Dr. W. P. These recommendations were unanimously adopted.

The chamber also passed a motion to create a fund to provide for the entertainment of all conventions coming to La Grande this year.
