Monday Bridge Club Entertained By Mrs. A. T. Hill

Mrs. A. T. Hill was hostess to members of the Monday Bridge club yesterday afternoon at a delightful bridge luncheon at the La Grande hotel. Spring flowers were used for decorations. Mrs. Lela Jones received club prizes and Mrs. E. L. Pouch guest prize.

Mrs. F. R. Appley gave an interesting description of the Huntington art galleries at Los Angeles, Cal., as she saw them on a recent visit there. The talk was given at the meeting of the ladies' art class yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. R. Hunter.

The Mothers' Soft Culture club met at the home of Mrs. Otis Palmer yesterday for a profitable afternoon. R. A. Wilkinson, principal of Greenwood school, spoke on "Cooperation as a Method Learned by Teamwork." Mrs. George Hodgkin read Dr. Berle's letter.

In the April issue of "Oregon Clubwoman," official publication of the Oregon Federation of Women's clubs, the La Grande Neighborhood club has a generous portion of space given to a report of its major activities so far this year. An excerpt from the article is as follows: "The La Grande Neighborhood club is having an interesting year under the able direction of the president, Mrs. F. L. Meyers. Alternating programs of art, music and literature are being enjoyed. Miss Margaret Anson, art chairman; Mrs. George Birnie, chairman of literature, and Mrs. Lynn Wright, music chairman, have been responsible for the delightful afternoons." The article goes on to tell what the program and purpose of the club has been this year.

Camp Fire Girls Planning Banquet

Sixteen Camp Fire girls with their guardian, Mrs. E. P. Tyler and assistant guardian, Mrs. E. Russell Scott, made plans at their meeting last night for the Mother's day banquet they are going to give about May 6. They worked on place cards and favors for the occasion.

The Supreme Forest Woodmen circle met in regular session last night with all officers present. One candidate was initiated. Plans were discussed for making a quilt for the orphans and aged members home at Sherman, Tex. Refreshments were served.

Sanbeam Grove No. 1, auxiliary to S. F. W. C. met at the home of the juvenile supervisor, Daisy D. Newkirk Saturday. Twenty-six juveniles were present and were presented with their lodge emblems. At the close, each one received a prize.

Announcements

The Baker Order of Trainhow for Girls has sent word that they will not be able to come to La Grande Saturday, Apr. 27, as planned, when they were to have been guests of the local assembly.

A text book on aviation has been completed by James G. Woolley, vice president of the Western Air Express. It has been accepted as standard at 20 educational institutions in the west.

Janet Gaynor's "Sunrise" Is Coming Wednesday

Admirers of winsome Janet Gaynor, the twenty-year-old Fox star who made an instantaneous hit as Diane in "7th Heaven" will have another opportunity to see her in a captivating role when "Sunrise," the first picture made in this country by the noted European director, F. W. Murnau, opens at the Star theater for a 2 day run on Wednesday.

"Sunrise" is the most important picture yet released by Fox Films and was produced with an especially selected cast headed by Miss Gaynor and George O'Brien. Great as was her triumph in "7th Heaven," her performance in "Sunrise" has been pronounced superior to anything she has previously done because it calls for a much wider range of histrionic ability and puts her to a test from which less competent stars would have withdrawn.

The acclaim which "Sunrise" received in such large measure in New York, Los Angeles, Berlin and Stockholm when it was first released, was not due entirely, however, to the work of its cast. The dramatic simplicity of the story and the phenomenal photography were equally responsible for the praise it received from the first critics who reviewed it. The theme of "Sunrise" is an original one from the pen of Herman Sudermann, the novelist.

McWade Mix-Up Man In Talkie, "Home Towners"

"A meddler is the very worst kind of trouble maker," says Robert McWade, who portrays a small town business man who disastrously dabbles in other people's affairs in "The Home Towners," Warner Bros. all-talking Vitaphone production which Bryan Foy directed and which is now showing at the Arcade theater.

"When a narrow-minded meddler gets his tongue wagging and starts other people thinking in the same channels as his own one-cylinder brain, many heartaches result," says McWade, who created this same character of P. H. Hancock on the stage in George M. Cohan's footlight success and is seen and heard in the same role on the screen in the Vitaphone adaptation.

"Of course," continues Robert McWade, "there are many very funny situations too, that arise as a result of the meddler's activities. Combined they prove ideal entertainment as depicted in the comedy-drama, 'The Home Towners'."

Robert McWade also created the leading character role in the stage play, "New Brooms," which he reprised for the silent drama. For the first time he is seen and heard on Vitaphone and appears in "The Home Towners" with a cast of prominent stage and screen players including Richard Bennett,

Blue Stars In Railroad Hit On Vitaphone

A roaring passenger train, monarch of the rails, thunders at full speed through Monte Blue's latest Vitaphone production for Warner Brothers, in which he plays the role of a locomotive engineer, and which takes its title from the train itself—"The Greyhound Limited."

This fast-moving melodrama brings to the screen all the strange fascination of railroading, and a story that crashes swiftly from one climax to another. "The Greyhound Limited" tells of a man who was weak and another who thought he was strong—of true love and villainy—of a girl whose worth was revealed under fire—of the wreck of a life and the wreck of a train—and with over all the shadow of the gallows. The cast supporting Monte Blue in this exciting production includes Edna Murphy, Grant Withers, Evelyn Shields, Lew Harvey and Lucy Beaumont, and was directed by Howard Brotherton. The story of "The Greyhound Limited" was written by Albert Hovson, the scenario by Anthony Coldeway. Monte Blue in "The Greyhound Limited" comes to the Arcade theater tomorrow for a run of 2 days.
