GEORGIA AND CAROLINA IN STORM PATH

It was believed several of these were fatally hurt.

Red, Whirling Funnel

Residents who watched the twister come out of the northwest three miles yesterday said it resembled a red, whirling funnel in its advance up the main street. They saw it sweep some five blocks from the center of town toward the south, where it descended in full force on a negro settlement known as Happy Hill. This little community, where most of the five deaths occurred, virtually was wiped out.

The tornado followed a path approximately 100 yards wide in that vicinity.

The twisters appeared in two distinct sections. The first struck late in the afternoon near Cochran, Ga., where 17 persons were killed and more than 100 injured in collapsing homes and farm buildings. The wind then descended on Dexter, Ga., killing four and injuring 40. Jumped to Rentz, Ga., where one life was lost and several persons injured, and then swept up the seaboard to reappear at Pelzer and Anderson, S. C. Four were killed at Anderson and two at Pelzer with more than a score injured.

The second tornado struck late last night at Metter, Ga., where 12 were killed and 20 or more injured. A half dozen houses in Metter were wrecked, and 20 of more were destroyed in the nearby rural districts of Candler county. Communication facilities were destroyed at many points and relief parties feared a larger death toll when a complete check had been made.

Many of the rural residents saw the storm approaching, and were able to seek shelter. One farmer, with his wife and five children sought refuge in a drainage ditch. They watched their home blown to pieces, but escaped unharmed.

Others were not so fortunate. A man and his wife near Dexter fled to an open field, where they were struck by the twister. The woman and her six-month-old child were killed and the man seriously injured.

Milton Knight and his family sought shelter in potato bin which was torn to pieces and the family injured by falling brick.

The greatest destruction was wrought in South Georgia, 65 of the reported dead being in that section. The other six in the death list were in South Carolina.

Statesboro Hard Hit

Statesboro, Ga., county seat of Bulloch county, near Savannah, was the heaviest hit. The hospital there reported that more than 30 persons were dead and many others injured.

Meter reported 13 known dead from two tornadoes which were accompanied by hail and a down pour of rain. One struck at 8:10 last night and the second at 11 o'clock.

Cochran, south of Macon, reported five dead and injuries to approximately 50. First reports from Cochran had fixed the death list at a great number but later reports revised these figures.

QUADRUPLETS BORN

SAN FRANCISCO, Apr. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Veto Mauro, wife of a boot-black, gave birth to quadruplets. One of them died. She has had three other children, all born singly.

TOT DROWNED IN TUB

FRESNO, Cal., April 26 (AP)—Albert Ottobadi, 11 months old, fell into a tub of soapy water and drowned. Firemen worked over him for half an hour with an inhalator, without success.

Concrete tanks should be treated on the inside with paraffin when used for storing such liquids as oil or vinegar. It has been found that concrete tanks are not satisfactory for storing vegetable oils or strong acids unless carefully treated with a lining that is inert to the action of the substance to be stored.

When a plain, simple pattern has been carefully altered to fit correctly, it is well to lay it on an expensive cotton material such as unbleached muslin or calico, and cut permanent pattern guide. This will save time in checking other patterns and will give greater assurance in proceeding with the cutting of the material.

Senior Play Is Given At Cove On Wednesday

By Mrs. A. G. Conklin (Observer Correspondent)
COVE, Ore. (Special)—"Crooks for a Month," the three-act play presented by the senior class of the Cove High school Wednesday evening, was well attended and received many favorable comments. The theme of the play was the desire of three college boys to win some easy money. This they accomplished by going in for the occult and doing some "black magic" of mind reading, surrounded by dim lights and weird settings supposed to represent the real abode of the Hindu. The money was easily earned, showing how prone human nature is to fall for the mysterious. The play was very interesting and especially well acted. Edward Bloom as "father" was particularly good in the difficult role he portrayed, but all did exceptionally well. Members of the senior class this year are: Esther Anderson, Lee Ellen Breshears, Edward Bloom, Archer Antles, Dean and DeJ Pucket. The class was assisted by Dorothy Barker, Eloise Witty and Edward Tristor. The Lay orchestra played several numbers before the entertainment and between the acts. Between the second and third acts, Merrill Conley sang two solos, accompanied by his sister, Miss Vina Conley, at the piano.

The Ladies' aid of the Methodist Episcopal church will give a "Dollar social" at the church parlors Friday evening. This social is not named a "Dollar" social because it costs a dollar for entrance, but because each member of the society has earned a dollar, which is to go towards financing the coming bazaar, and at this social she will tell how she has earned it.

Mrs. Don Gale, of Union, came to visit her mother, Mrs. Cora Bloom, and stayed over night to see the senior play as her brother, Edward, had a part in the play.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller will leave the first or second of May for California. They will visit Mr. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller at Arcadia, Cal., who will accompany them on their return trip.
Mr. and Mrs. Okazoff, who have been living at Sunnyvale, Wash., have sold their home there and are at present with Mrs. Okazoff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Harris.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wells, of Alice, came up to Cove Wednesday evening for the senior play.
The boys and girls will go to Enterprise this afternoon, where they will play ball with the Enterprise boys and girls. The boys will play in the afternoon and the girls in the evening. The game played by Cove and Enterprise last Friday was very close, Enterprise winning by only one point.
Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Price were hosts to the senior class at a dinner served at their home after the play Wednesday evening.
Glen Roberts, who has been a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Roberts for the last week, returned Thursday morning to his home in Salem. During his visit here, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts and Glen and Clara Roberts made a number of pleasant trips, visiting at Island City, Elgin, Enterprise, Wallowa and several other places.

A DELIGHTFUL PARTY
She had a lovely party, and the afternoon was a success, and a pleasure to all her guests. The crowning event of the whole afternoon was when the ladies were called to the table for refreshments and there they were most delighted in the wonderful table setting of sparkling Fostoria Glassware. Dozens were the comments on the daintiness of design and coloring.
