The human brain is a wonderful organ. It starts working the moment we get up in the morning, and doesn't stop until we get to the office.

Boy to Storekeeper: "Have you got four quarters for a one?"
Storekeeper: "Yes, here you are."
Boy: "Thank you."
Storekeeper: "Hey, there, where's the one?"
Boy: "I'm the one."

The human body is the only machine for which there are no spare parts. Learn to use rightily those you have.

Householder (to persistent salesman): "This is the third time you have called about an electric washing machine. How many times do you want me to refuse you?"
Salesman: "Well, Madam, I think twice is enough."

"My girl and I are horticulturally inclined. She is a peach and the apple of my eye, so we make a fine pair."

"Yes, but when I saw you together you acted like a couple of nuts to me."

The owner of a small store whose premises had been burned, met a friend. "A terrible affair! I am ruined. I am ruined! I just stood there helpless, watching it burn. My face got white, white, white—white as your shirt."

Then looking at his friend's shirt, he added, "Whiter."

Grocer (to small boy who has answered his ad for a boy): "You understand, I want a boy to be partly inside and partly outside."

Small Boy: "That's all right, but what becomes of me when the door slams shut?"

Teddy: "What time does the tide come in, Mr. Fisherman?"
Why, you young rascal, I have told you four times already that it comes in at 5:55.

Teddy: "Yes, I know, but I like to see your whiskers wobble when you say 5:55."

First Use of Coal
The value of coal does not seem to have been known to the ancients, nor is it known at what time it began to be used for fuel. Some say that it was used by the ancient Britons; at all events, it was an article of household consumption, to some extent, during the Anglo-Saxon period as early as A. D. 822.

Hard to Win
You can't get acquainted with some people, because they fear they'll bore you. That's the kind you have to organize a regular campaign to win.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

Bathing Beauty Season Opens

NEA Los Angeles Bureau.
The summer bathing girl season is upon us again—and here's the evidence! Plumper bathing girls of the delicious eighties were brought to life for the season's first bathing beauty show just held in Pasadena, Calif. Judges are shown above inspecting Miss Irene Victor of Chicago, "Miss 1929," and below Miss Catherine Dunne, of Stevens Point, Wis., "Miss 1928." There are only fifty years and about seventy yards of goods difference between the two, but the judges awarded the first prize to "Miss 1929." Maybe their wives were there or something.

AT THE THEATERS

"Charge of The Gauchos" At Star Saturday

Proclaiming "Charge of the Gauchos" as the first real picture of these Argentine dare devils of the holo, PHO Pictures Corporation brings this feature to the screen of the Star theatre with a star cast which is decidedly imposing, for Francis X. Bushman, famed as the Messiah of "Ben Hur," Jacqueline Logan, of "The Blood Ship" and "King of Kings," Henry Kolker, Paul Ellis, Charles K. French and other noted players are to be seen in the cast lineup.

"Charge of the Gauchos" depicts the struggle for freedom of the Argentine from the time that Spain maintained her last dying hold on that South American republic.

On thundering steeds, with bolos flying, hordes of the Gauchos, dare devil cowboys of the pampas, charge into the serried ranks of their Spanish foes, sending them flying under the leadership of the gallant Belgrano, portrayed by Francis X. Bushman, noted as "The George Washington of the Argentine."

The romantic story woven around the historic Belgrano, teeming with action, and featuring Jacqueline Logan as the heroine, was given the benefit of real co-operation by the Argentine civil and military officials who threw open their historical archives to the producers and enabled them to picture the great battles for freedom and the Gauchos as they really were.

"Charge of the Gauchos" will be shown at the Star theater Saturday.

Gibson Picture Now Showing At Colonial

"King of the Rodeo." Universal production starring Hoot Gibson opened at the Colonial theater today. This is undoubtedly one of the Western star's best pictures and has a new kind of theme that should prove highly entertaining to the audience at the showing here.

The entire story is based on the recent Chicago Rodeo, and thrilling scenes from the events with Gibson as one of the competitors form the background for the picture. Hoot competed in actual events and it is plain that the determined efforts of the well-trained cowboys were far different from those of movie extras. These sequences alone would make the picture outstanding, but in addition, it has an excellent plot, fine acting and all-around superior treatment.

Universal signed B. M. Bower, noted novelist, to write the story. It puts Hoot in the role of a Montana youth who comes unheralded to the big rodeo. He falls in love with an Eastern girl who doesn't rate cowboys very highly. Nevertheless, she falls in love with him. Hoot wins most of the events at the rodeo and then, captures a thief who had robbed the cashier.

Kathryn Crawford makes a pretty heroine and heads one of the finest casts the star has had. It includes Charles K. French, Rodd Rodin, Harry Todd, Joseph W. Girard, Slim Summerville, Jack Knapp and Monte Montague. Henry MacRae directed.

Popular Dancer In Vaudeville Coming Tomorrow

Davey Jamieson, novelty dancer in the F. & M. Varieties at the Arcade theater Saturday, started his career as a circus clown when the John Robinson Shows played his home town of Bay City, Michigan. From the sawdust ring he graduated to the vaudeville stage, but in 1922 he left the profession to participate in the Signal Hill oil boom at Los Angeles. The grease paint, however, exerted its traditional pull, and Jamieson returned once more to the stage.

Fred La France, who does a blackface comedy act with Jane Garnett in the F. & M. Varieties, comes honestly by his knowledge of the humorously ducky he impersonates. La France was born in Tennessee, and his characterization is drawn from life, and is based on the shiftless, shuffling, carefree southern negroes he saw during his youth.

"Fleasome" the weary-looking dog used by La France and Garnett in the F. & M. Varieties, is really a frisky canine off-stage. But such a well trained trouper is he that recently when a stray cat wandered onto the stage during the act "Fleasome" pretended not to notice her, and the cat was blissfully ignorant of his cat-chasing ability until after the curtain had fallen.

La France and Garnett, featured in the F. & M. Varieties, now playing at the Arcade theater, are newcomers. They were formerly featured on both Keith and Orpheum circuits.
