OFFICE CAT

Small Nephew: "That time you gave me slipped through a hole in my pocket."

Uncle: "Well, here's another." "Wouldn't a quarter be safer, uncle?"

France will pay it Germany does. Try saying to your banker: "I feel no obligation to pay that note unless the fellows who owe me pay up."

She: "There's Gladys. I understand she bought that dress by the installment plan."

He: "I suppose that's the first installment she's wearing."

There had been a blowout, and the father and the family was perishing and profanely cursing the tires.

"I don't see why you have to talk that way," said his wife reproachfully. "You act as if it were a total loss. You never see the good in things."

"Well, what good is there in this?"

"Why, it tickled the baby, so. He laughed right out loud when it went bang."

One La Grande woman, an inveterate bridge player, dreams about the game and permits it to occupy most of her waking hours. Recently, at dinner, when the bread was proffered to her by the maid she eyed it appraisingly for a moment and then said "I pass."

It is estimated that the proposed voyage around the north pole in a saucer-shaped boat will cost $250,000. If we had that much money we would do something besides trying to slide around the north pole on a saucer—and you may lay to that.

Excited Young Wife (looking at monster fish): "Goodness! Someone must have caught that fish that got away from George last Saturday."

Nobody kicks at the price of luxuries.

Floating Shop—Along the west coast of Scotland many of the small islands have no shops, but are kept provided by a floating shop—a sort of barge, whose master is the shopkeeper and sells everything from pencils to potted meats, often taking eggs or lobsters in barter.

Forest trees and woodland are more valuable now than they were a few years ago. Many trees that used to have little value, and even small trees that were counted as trash, to be cut out, now are in good demand.

THEATERS

"Overland Telegraph" Here Saturday

Two great periods of American history, the period of the pioneer West and the period of the Civil War provide the atmosphere for Tim McCoy's latest starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "The Overland Telegraph," which will be at the Star theater Saturday.

The first transcontinental telegraph in order that President Lincoln might know the feeling of the extreme western states and territories in regard to the Civil war, and "The Overland Telegraph" tells the story of the hardships and tribulations encountered by the line men who set the posts and put the news-bearing wires into position.

Realism In "Trail Of '98" At Star

Any "soundproof" who may laugh at the difficulties besetting the screen actor in the making of the "Trail of '98" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's epic of the frozen north directed by Clarence Brown and now being shown at the Star theater would have changed his mind had he been present during the filming of this great picture.

Director Clarence Brown demanded realism from each of the fifty cast members and from each of the fifteen thousand extra players who appeared in the scenes.

It took hours to film some of these scenes and at the end of that time the actors were taken out in a state of exhaustion.

Ralph Forbes, Dolores Del Rio and Harry Carey have the leading roles.

Monty Banks In Picture At Colonial

Monty Banks proves himself to be well up in the list of the screen's greatest comedians by his performance in "A Perfect Gentleman," the new Pathé feature comedy which is now at the Colonial theater.

The tale concerns a young man who has a reputation for being a perfect gentleman, who accidentally and through no fault of his own, gives the impression that he is far from being one. All this happens on the day of his wedding and his attempts to vindicate himself in the eyes of his beloved only get him in deeper and deeper.

"Power of Press" Tells Of Cub Reporter

Amid a realistic background of a busy newspaper office with clicking typewriters, ringing telephones, clamorous presses, bustling reporters and noisy copy boys running back and forth to make an edition, Columbia Pictures has woven a powerful dramatic masterpiece of love and intrigue, entitled "The Power of the Press," which will be shown at the Arcade theater on Saturday.

The screen story relates the adventures of a cub reporter of his first big assignment, and shows how his story incriminates the daughter of a candidate for mayor for the murder of the District Attorney.

Cleveland gas station attendants planted flowers around their pumps when prizes for the most beautiful stations were offered in a citywide contest. The theory probably is that you have to give a fellow something when he pays a four-cent-gallon gas tax.
