Junior-Senior Banquet Held At La Grande Hotel

Opening the more formal events in connection with the annual commencement exercises, about 300 people were guests Saturday evening at the annual junior-senior banquet served at the La Grande hotel. Keeping in mind the colors of the two classes, blue and gold for the seniors and pink and green for the juniors, and using quantities of beautiful spring flowers—snap dragons, narcissus, tulips, stock and apple blossoms, the setting for the banquet was very pleasing. There were nine prettily appointed tables, one for the speakers and eight for the guests. In addition to the flowers, arranged so tastily, the place favors, dainty corsages for the girls and novelties for the boys, and the nut cups fashioned to represent flowers and of the proper colors added considerably to the attractiveness of the tables. The banquet was of four courses.

A toast program followed the dinner and over this Stanley Zundel, president of the junior class, presided. He announced the speakers in the following order: Wayne Nusbauer, toastmaster; Cleland Wallisinger, responded; Leslie Kerk's toast was to the H. Ds, and he was followed by J. E. Reynolds from the group of men. Henry's toast subject was "The Future" and E. D. Towler acknowledged the toast. "The School Board" by Lawrence Bay called for a very happy response by Dr. J. L. Ingle. A. W. Nelson presented a trophy to the guests of honor, the seniors. Following a tradition, Mr. Zundel presented the mascot to Mr. Wallisinger, president of the graduating class and he in turn presented it to Robert Stoddard, vice president of the student body and president-elect for next year.

While the tables were being cleared away for dancing, Clark Buckman and Russell Nelson gave some instrumental numbers, William Belick sang, with Barbara Pidoock playing the accompaniment and Sally Siegrist gave a feature dance. The Gypsy Hooves furnished the music for a few hours of dancing which concluded the affair.

Committees in charge were:—Invitation:—Virginia McWilliams, Clela Harvey, Jane Ravencroft, Marguerite McGlenning; decoration:—Gilda Ashby, Francis DeLong, Opal Belick, Julia Smith, Margaret Anthony; menu, Lena Duckett; and advisors, Miss Leo, Miss Kirby, Miss Williams, Mrs. Hayes.

W. R. C. Plans For Memorial Sunday

The Women's Relief Corps met Saturday afternoon in regular session at the Knights of Pythias hall. Among other things, arrangements were made for Memorial Sunday will be the next Sunday, May 26. All ex-service men are invited to attend the service which is to be held at eleven o'clock at the Methodist church with Rev. Vernon E. Hall officiating the memorial sermon. At three o'clock in the afternoon, Sunday, members are to meet at the bridge near Riverside park where a service will be held in memory of the sailors who lost their lives in any war.

Children Enjoy Party Saturday

Saturday afternoon was spent in a delightful manner by thirty-five of the children of the beginners' department of the Presbyterian Sunday school, when their superintendent and teachers gave them a party of games and refreshments.

Miss Hanna Will Wed L. A. Berry

The approaching marriage of Miss Genevieve Hanna of La Grande and Lloyd A. Berry, of Walla Walla Washington, was announced Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Herbert R. Hanna entertained a company of 25 ladies at a tea at her home 1002 B avenue, one group from three to four and a second from four to five. All through the Hanna home flowers—lilies, apple blossoms and spring flowers were used in profusion and with great taste, making the setting for the party quite lovely. Met at the door by Miss Jean LaVelle Hanna, the guests were given the betrothal cards, and were then received by Mrs. Hanna, Miss Hanna, Mrs. Robert S. Eakin and Miss Dorothy. In the living room, were assisting Miss H. H. Cleaver, J. C. McPherson, William Miller, O. E. Mora, J. George Watz, J. K. Wright, Miss Kuhl and Miss Bauwain. In the dining room, during the first hour, Miss Stella Ingle and Mrs. E. P. Mossman, and during the second, Mrs. Colon R. Eborard and Mrs. J. T. Longfellow presided at a most attractive table. Here the colors, pink and silver were carried out with taste and charm. In a silver bowl were pink rose buds and sweet peas, making a lovely centerpiece. At either end of the table were pink tapers in silver slivers. All the service was of silver. The Meses Miriam Faye Hanna, Luth Durland and Doris Cade served. During the afternoon there were several musical numbers offered. Mrs. Floyd Sherwood, accompanied by Mrs. Lynn Wright sang vocal numbers, Miss Jennie Nelson gave violin solos, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Hess, Mrs. R. G. McCall and Miss Gladys Miller gave piano solos and Mrs. Leo Reynolds and Mrs. Evans played a pretty piano duet.

The two young people in whose honor the lovely party was given, will wed June 15. Miss Hanna has lived all her life in La Grande, having been away only during her college days, spent at Whitman, Walla Walla. For the last two years she has been a teacher in the La Grande high school. Mr. Berry is also an alumnus of Whitman and is in business at the present time in Walla Walla.

Helomala Club Is Entertained

The Helomala club were guests Saturday afternoon of Mrs. Sherell Ewin, who had her home beautifully decorated with baskets of tulips following a pretty color scheme of red and white. There were three tables for bridge, Mrs. Clyde Charlton making the high score and Mrs. Della Harnden the second. Mrs. Ewin served a delicious two course luncheon.

Pretty Wedding Is Solemnized at Courtney Home

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Courtney on Palmer street, when their daughter, Mildred, was united in marriage to William Snodgrass. Accompanying the bride and groom were close friends of the bride and groom which took place at two-thirty o'clock. The wedding march was played by Miss Judith Snodgrass and the bridal party, consisting of the bride and her bridesmaid, Miss Thelma Smith, the groom and his best man, John Snodgrass, took their places before the officiating clergyman, Rev. Putman who read the single ring service. The bride wore a gown of yellow georgette and carried orchid sweet peas and pink rosebuds, while the bridesmaid was attired in a lace gown over orchid silk.

Mr. and Mrs. Snodgrass have already gone to house-keeping in their newly furnished home on North Birch street. Both are quite well known young people of La Grande, having been members of the graduating class of the high school in 1927, when the romance had its beginning which reached its consummation yesterday.

THE PETERSON REVOLVER

The bullet was flattened, but whether it had snuffed out a human life as MacNair suggested I had no means of knowing. "See here, Henry," I cried suddenly, "have you had Jerry's clothing checked over?" He nodded. "Jerry's khaki hiking clothing is missing." "He couldn't have been wearing both khaki and flannel," I burst forth triumphantly. I felt I had gained a point.

Henry got up. "I'm going into town," he announced briefly. I watched him pass out with a feeling of apprehension. I was desperately afraid of his leniency of purpose. Turning to MacNair, I said: "You know Jerry's innocence is everything in the world to me. You know my niece is breaking her heart over him. If you have got on to anything—one way or the other—tell me what it is. I don't believe there's an ounce of pity in you! I don't believe it matters to you whether young Jerry is guilty or not!"

"Frankly," he said coolly, "it doesn't. So long as I hang the man or woman—who killed Orden I don't care whether it's your Jerry, Furlie, the woman in black, Hubbard, Deacon John Peebles, or his cat, Polyandria." "Turning his back on me, he opened the left-hand top drawer of the desk and began to systematically examine its contents. If my role was to be that of Watson I was determined that it should be an active one. And so I began a close inspection of the library. I proceeded to the little raised balcony outside. Here I came upon something that moved me deeply. It was a dusting of gray white powder in size and form vaguely suggestive of the sole of a man's shoe. I knew the powder might have been deposited the night before. Dipping the tip of my finger into the powder, I put it to my tongue.

"Cement," I muttered. "MacNair!" I called. When I pointed to the powder, he dropped on to his knees and tasted it. "Cement," he mused. "Hm! Looks as if some one who had stepped in cement had stood here."

"Remarkable What Can Be Done With A Small Income"

There is no established, irriducible income necessary for a living. A local man was heard to say, "It's remarkable what can be done with a small income when a family sets out to do it."

The remarkable thing is in saving a little as long as earning power keeps up. The difference between the family that has a good savings account for an emergency and the family who hasn't—when both have but small incomes—is merely in doing without the unnecessary things.

This money put in a savings account becomes a 4 per cent investment, as dependable as government bonds and ready for an emergency caused by sickness or enforced idleness.

Start a saving account with that purpose in mind. Even a dollar a week is a beginning. It strengthens your credit—gives you greater confidence in the future.

Let's have a look at the motor in this new BUICK

Smart, modern in appearance and such comfort inside! One of the new Buick models on the 121-inch chassis

... what would hard carbon from burned oil do to it?

READ the motor car advertisements. They talk of speed and power and efficiency. Truthfully, too, because modern engines are marvelously built. Buicks are not only new in body style—they have bettered their motors as well. But today's motors have no room for carbon deposits. The car makers have thrown the responsibility where it belongs—squarely on the refiner of motor oils! No more big inefficient engines with space for a quarter inch layer of coke-carbon. No more expensive carbon scraping for owners to worry about—provided they choose their oil wisely.

Not all oils can qualify. Many of them are good enough lubricants but have a tendency to form large quantities of hard carbon. However, there is one oil that actually forms only 1/3 to 1/5 as much carbon as even the costliest oils you can buy. It is Shell Motor Oil. The little carbon it does form is only a soft soot that blows easily away through the exhaust. It saves you the knocking, engine strain and valve trouble which carbon forming oils cause. No gritty particles of carbon are left to chafe bearings and cylinder walls. Shell Motor Oil forms no hard, gritty carbon.

It is a finer lubricant, too. The special process by which it is refined assures that. High-vacuum stills refine it gently, keeping its "body" intact and giving it a wonderful resistance to heat. So in Shell Motor Oil you get two unique features—things most essential in a modern oil. First no clogging, gritty carbon; secondly a lubricant able to stand the strain of present day speeds. Let no other oil go into the crankcase!
