GENE TUNNEY IS MADE DEFENDANT

Half Million Dollar Breach of Promise Suit Instigated by Woman.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 21 (AP)—Announcement was made here today that papers in a suit for alleged breach of promise of marriage with $500,000 claimed damages, brought by Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty, 36, of New York city, against James (Gene) Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, had been sent to bridgeport to be entered in the superior court of Fairfield county.

The papers were sent by a deputy sheriff for filing this morning, and a member of the law firm of Field, Durant and Levere went to court to arrange for other details of entry of the suit.

The papers had not been filed at noon. It was stated at the office of Colonel Lewis L. Field, who signed the writ as commissioner of the superior court, that the delay was due to details of general delivery all being in Stamford and Greenwich in which there was a possibility that Tunney had a bank account. It was stated that attachment had been entered against Tunney's estate, brought about a year ago in Stamford for a country home and which is assessed for $14,000.

Mrs. Fogarty formerly lived in Port Worth, Tex., where she secured a divorce. Colonel Field said she is not now in Connecticut but declining to say where she was at the time there would be no further information about the case other than contained in the papers which would be on file in the superior court at Bridgeport.

Mrs. Fogarty, it is understood, met Tunney at Hot Springs, Ark., in the early part of 1925. She obtained her divorce from John Fogarty, it is understood, on May 25 of that year. She has a daughter aged about ten years.

SUBMARINE IS RAISED FROM SEA BOTTOM

the sunken submarine.

At 11:27 a bottle with the following message was picked up: "8-11 heading 156 true in 87 feet of water. Mud bottom. Control room abandoned. Listed two degrees southward."

At 11:46 four buoys planted by the Mallard were directly over the submarine and that phase of the experiment was completed by 2:12 in the afternoon.

At 2:27 Diver Obelkevich went down and by 3:55 p. m. a salvage air hose had been hooked up ready to blow out any compartment including the main ballast tank. The diver returned to the surface at 4:41 and eight minutes later the Mallard started to blow the water out of the 8-11. The submarine broke water at 5:05 p. m.

The crew of the 8-11 stayed in the compartments not supposed to be flooded. They received food by means of the submarine signal ejector which was operated from inside the craft. The sea was choppy while the test was in progress.

Those in charge of the operations were Lieutenant Commander Schuyler Mills, commanding submarine division 3 of which the 8-11 is flagship, assisted by Lieutenant Commander D. M. Dalton, commanding the 8-12, Lieutenant R. H. Smith, commanding the 8-20 and Lieutenant J. B. Hupp, commanding the Mallard.

Second Airman Killed in Ohio Army Maneuvers

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio, May 21 (AP)—Killed on a flight of friendly greeting between rival airman in the United States army air and ground war game in Ohio, Second Lieut. Florin W. Shade today was the second victim of the maneuvers. He was killed in a plane crash near here late yesterday.

Second Lieut. Edward Meadow lost his life in a head-on collision with another plane Saturday.

Shade was assigned to the first pursuit group of the air corps at Selfridge Field, Mich. His unit was stationed with the "Blue" army at Norton Field, Columbus, for the maneuvers. Yesterday he and fellow pilots flew to Wright Field, Dayton, to chat with army fliers of the opposing "Red" army there while troops were mobilized for the completion of the maneuvers this week.

Engine trouble developed when he started. He made repairs and followed some distance behind his comrades. After the visit was completed, engine trouble occurred a second time and Lieut. Shade again was left alone.

He was flying at about 200 feet altitude when the engine stopped, according to P. A. Donley, near whose home the plane fell. Shade was dead when taken from the wreckage. It was said that his switches were closed and that the safety belt was loosed, indicating that the officer knew he was to crash.

How many new cooks have had the dismal experience of having part of the meal cold or dried out before the other part is done enough to eat! The girl who has served her apprenticeship in her mother's kitchen has learned the natural rhythm in preparing meals, but the girl who enters a kitchen without this foregathered-cooking lore is at a loss as to how to proceed.

To this end, many time-tables for roasting and baking and boiling and steaming have been worked out. Although they will prove invaluable to the beginner, time-tables do not stop to consider the varying age and ripeness of vegetables and meats.

Young, freshly gathered vegetables will cook in less time than riper ones. Vegetables which have withered will take longer to cook than fresh ones.

The size of the vegetable enters into the problem. Small vegetables of large ones cut in small pieces will cook quicker than those left whole. The more surface exposed, the shorter the cooking period.

Green beans cut in diamonds are supposed to cook in 20 minutes. If the beans are young and tender and freshly picked they will be deliciously tender in this length of time. But all vegetables cannot be fresh from the garden, so in order to have the beans cooking a short length of time and retain their color they are cut lengthwise before cutting in short pieces. This takes time, so more time must be allowed for their preparation, although the cooking time is not increased.

Allow 20 minutes for cooking asparagus. The time for preparing this vegetable is short. It's a good vegetable when one is pressed for time.

Green peas should cook in 20 to 25 minutes. The time depends on the maturity of the peas. But it takes time to shell peas longer than preparing beans of paring potatoes, so they are not a good vegetable to choose when dinner must be served in 20 minutes.

New beets should cook in 30 to 40 minutes. If they are smooth, without innumerable tiny hair-like roots and about the size of a small egg, they will cook in just that length of time. They require but a few minutes' preparation for cooking and are easily and quickly prepared for serving. While they won't do for a hurry-up meal, they are excellent for the meal which allows 45 minutes to an hour for its preparation.

New carrots cook tender in 15 to 20 minutes. Since they must be scraped for cooking, a few minutes must be calculated for their preparation.

New potatoes will cook in 20 minutes. Five or 10 minutes must be allowed for scrubbing or paring.

All these things must be reckoned with and each article of food that is to be served must be prepared and cooked with regard to the other dishes in the menu.

YOUTHFUL SLAYER IS NEAR DEATH

that "a half dozen times at least," Pinkie had threatened to kill her if she did not stop going with Beem.

"He threatened to kill Herbert, who he had never seen," the girl continued. "Then he told me he didn't mean it. But every time I saw him he started quarrelling about my friendship for Herbert. I told him that if he felt that way I never wanted to see him again."

"Yesterday afternoon Pinkie went to Jefferson high school and talked with Miss Knott. 'He talked in such a crazy fashion that I ran out into the hallway and up to my yellow room while one of the school secretaries kept him in the office,' the girl said today.

Witnessed Shooting
Pinkie left the office and during the afternoon wandered about in the corridor.

"When I came out of the room at the end of the sixth period I met Herbert in the hall," the girl said. "I did not see Walter until he walked up to us and asked if this was Herbert."

"Then he fired!"

Hundreds of students were rushing through the hallway to and from classes. Prompt action by the principal averted a panic. Girls became hysterical as Pinkie shot and Beem slumped to the floor. As the last shot rang out and Pinkie's boy faded, and the students ran for exit.

The coroner said today no inquest would be held until he could be ascertained whether Pinkie would live.

planned and Miss Morrow's arrival in New York was timed for Colonel Lindbergh's hopoff. The aviator did not use his regular field in a further attempt to throw the would-be kidnapers off the trail.

THE GARDEN

LAST CHANCE FOR GREEN PEAS

The time for the last planting of peas is approaching. Make the most of it. The green pea season is short at best and several plantings are needed to make the season a substantial one. Plant early varieties for the latest crop. Peas do not flourish when hot weather sets in and the time for planting is completed. Their time production by July and then devote the remainder of their career to maturing pods.

The new paper mulch culture is reported to be of great assistance in prolonging the life of peas. If the strips of paper mulch are covered with a dressing of straw or pine needles to prevent the paper from becoming hot, it keeps the pea in vigorous growth longer than in the ordinary exposed and cultivated soil. Many gardeners made the experiment last year and reported favorably upon it.

Many gardeners depend upon a late planting of brush peas for the latest crop. Because of their more vigorous growth there is a theory that they withstand hot weather better than the dwarf types. Whether this is true or not, a sowing of brush peas now will give a fine crop in July and will be well worth the effort of furnishing support. The tall peas are of unexcelled quality, furnish the largest pods and one vine produces more pods than a dwarf vine. Brush peas are much heavier croppers than dwarf peas and have a longer season of bearing. Their tall growth serves to shade the roots and broad the heat of the sun.

There has been a return to growing the taller peas of late years with the development of competitive vegetable growing and greater interest in the garden shows. The tall peas will give the finest exhibition pods.

Late planted peas should be planted about double the depth of the earlier plantings in order to get the roots down where they will have a cool run. They should also be planted much more thickly than is customary. Tall growing peas should be spaced two inches apart in the row, as they make so much heavier growth of stalk and leaf.
