News item: A campmate eats as much a day as will feed an average American family for a week.

"Well," sighed the father of five as he finished reading the item, "that's the good Lord for evolution."

Jack (over the phone): "And please mail my ring back to me."
Marjorie: "You'd better come and get it; glass breaks so easily in the mail."

Dear sir: I am a young man anxious to be an artist and paint a picture. I have prepared the brush and paints. Please tell me, should I name it first and then paint it, or should I paint it and name it later—Youngtown (O) Vindicator.

Same it first, and then don't paint it.

A man never thinks of his home as his castle unless he has more whiskey in it than the law allows.

Mr. Goofus—"I see by the papers that the chain stores are selling more than ever before."

Mrs. Goofus: "I don't see what people want to buy so many chains for, do you?"

Charlie has eaten a good many apples. His mother, thinking he had had enough, said:

"Now, Charlie, only one more, so take your pick."

When the lights are dim and low
That your face is powdered, painted.

How am I, sweetheart, to know?
Twice this month I've had to bundle
Every coat that I possess,
To the cleaners—Won't you darling
Love me more and powder less?
