Treating seed potatoes with corrosive sublimate to get rid of surface borne diseases may be done some time before planting without decreasing its effectiveness. In view of the Oregon experiment station, it is necessary that the potatoes be treated whole and that the eyes should not have begun to grow at the time of treatment, as injury to growing points and germination may result.

During the warm days of the spring in Oregon, lice and mites multiply rapidly on the chickens and around the roosting quarters. The best treatment for body lice is to paint the roosts with "Black Leaf Forty" just before the chickens go on for the night. One application will last two days and will rid the fowls of lice. Painting the under side of the roosts and connections with undiluted carbolineum, or sheep dip will eliminate mites, says the experiment station.

The essential points in the prevention of powdery mildew or grapes is to begin early and use repeated applications of fine sulfur dust until the middle of the summer, when the danger of mildew damage is practically over, says the Oregon experiment station.

Egg production in Oregon usually drops the last of May. To help prevent this, successful poultrymen feed a moist mash at noon at the rate of three pounds per 100 birds. The dry mash, moistened with milk and made crumbly, may be fed to the birds for two weeks, with good results, finds the experiment station.

Tim Mix, indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of withholding $100,000 income taxes, says he "don't know much about this income tax affair." Probably he just got mixed up.

Meany!
A fairly good way to tease an estimable neighbor woman, we discovered yesterday, is to remark in an offhand manner, as she settles down to tell about her hospital experience, that in a number of cases, lately surgical operations have been successfully resorted to to cure criminal tendencies. — Ohio State Journal.

AT THE THEATERS

Horse Has Double in Film At Colonial

Animals are just as individual as humans, both in characteristics as well as in appearance, but as two people sometimes bear a startling resemblance to one another, so, too, the Phantom of the Turl, the Phantom has a double—an animal that is a dead ringer for the speediest horse on the track, that is so far as appearance is concerned, for right there the resemblance ceases. The double is as slow as the Phantom is fast, for he picks up his feet and puts them down without getting anywhere. The villain, conspiring to switch horses and keep the Phantom in hiding until after the race. There are many interesting developments in this picture, which opened at the Colonial theatre today. The cast features Helene Costello, Forrest Stiffley and Rex Lease.

Kovno Riflemen Execute Student

KOVNO, Lithuania, May 24 (AP)—A student named Vasylius, sentenced to death yesterday for the recent attempt on the life of Premier Waldemars, was executed by a firing squad at sunrise today. After sentence he confessed a share in the crime and implicated certain of his friends as accomplices, among them a student named Gudelis who he alleged was the prime mover in the plot. The premier and Mrs. Waldemars escaped injury when a fusillade of shots fired at their struck four of their party as they were entering a theater.

"Blockade" Now Showing At the Star

What critics declare to be the most striking and dramatic presentation of the gigantic "run running" industry that the screen has yet offered is in "Blockade," the high seas with Director George Fitz. It has made for PRO, with dashing Anna Q. Nilsson in the featured role.

Combining a high standard of dramatic artistry in its more intimate passages with the clash and battle of armed ships on the high seas, where desperate outlaws war against the government forces for the loot that comes of bootlegging and brigandage, the picture has won quick acclaim throughout the country. It will be seen at the Star theatre today and Saturday.

"Devil's Apple Tree" Coming To the Arcade

Into the life of a bored young man walks a beautiful girl—the one of his dreams! He believes her to be the daughter of a dead friend of his father's, who has come to his plantation on a South Sea island to make her home with them after she has been left an orphan.

But, strangely, the arrival of the girl breeds disaster. Though beautiful and charming, she carries a curse. Evil faces peer at her. The boy imagines he sees an unexplained look of guilt on her face even while she smiles at him for love. In the midst of her visit, the natives on the island rise up in savage warfare. Is she a bad omen?

What is the answer? What position will she take?
