MENUS

By Miss Mary
Sometimes it seems that "tem-pus fugit" faster in the kitchen than any other place and although the "watched pot never boils," if one takes one's eyes for a minute from the vegetables on the stove they take it upon themselves to burn.
Any vegetable that has just started to burn can be placed in its cooking pan into a larger pan of cold water. The vegetable should then be shaken out of the burned pan into a fresh pan or bowl. If not cooked until tender, a little boiling water can be added and the cooking finished. Season and serve as usual.
An excellent habit for the new cook to establish in herself is that of shaking the sauce pan in which a vegetable is cooking. Often the smooth-cut, flat surface of a vegetable sticks and burns before the water is cooked away. Potatoes and sliced carrots are examples of vegetables that often scorch before they are cooked.
To much salt often has spoiled the soup. A remedy for this is to add from half a cup to a whole cup of sliced raw potatoes to the sauce pan of soup. Let stand 10 or 15 minutes, remove potatoes and serve. The potatoes absorb the excess salt.
Delicately flavored vegetables such as asparagus and peas require very little salt, particularly when dressed with butter for serving. Use salt sparingly, for it's easy to add salt to suit individual tastes.
If the mayonnaise separates, take another egg yolk in a fresh bowl and slowly beat in the curdled dressing, continuing as usual until all the oil and lemon juice is used. If a custard, sauce, curdles, beat it well with a whisk egg beater. This same egg beater will often beat the lumps out of a white sauce that has been made in too big a hurry. If the sauce is very lumpy it can be rubbed through a fine sieve and reheated.
A gelatin jelly that refuses to stiffen in the time required can be hurried if more gelatin is softened in cold water, dissolved over hot water and added at once to the offending jelly.
The following recipe will turn the tragedy of burned potatoes into a delicious dish that will conceal any hint of overcooking.
Baked Potatoes
Two cups potatoes, sliced or mashed, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup hot milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons grated cheese, 1 egg.
Add butter, salt, pepper, milk and cheese to potatoes and beat well. Add egg well beaten and pile in a well buttered baking dish. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven and serve from baking dish.
All burned or scorched parts of the potatoes must be carefully cut away before mashing.
Dance marathons this year are being jazzed up by the addition of such features as flagpole sitters, chair rockers and handcuffed auto drivers. Now if the program makers could just ring in some coffee drinkers, gum chewers, a couple of Pyle's robots and some peanut pushers, the zoo would be almost complete.
A confederate officers' sword has been presented the Richmond, Va., confederate museum by the widow of the captor, Col. Archibald Hopkins of the 8th Massachusetts volunteers.
The Mayflower, former presidential yacht, is to be sold. It's rather a bad time to be selling pleasure yachts, too.

A Chinaman was worried by a vicious looking dog which barked at him in an angry manner.
"Don't be afraid of him," said a friend, "you know the proverb, 'a barking dog never bites.'"
"Yes," said the Chinaman, "you know the proverb, I know the proverb, but does the dog know the proverb?"
