Largest Water Bird
The albatross is the largest of the water birds, its wings measuring sometimes more than ten feet from tip to tip. It lives mostly on the wing, following a ship for days, feeding on the water only to snatch a bit of food.

AT THE THEATERS

"Little Wildcat" Is Feature At The Arcade

"The Little Wildcat," Warner Bros. latest Vitaphone picture for the Arcade Theatre.

The all star cast includes Audrey Ferris, James Murray, Robert Elson, George Kawcett, Hallam Conley and Doris Dawson. Gene Wright did the original story from which E. T. Lowe, Jr. wrote the scenario. Ray Erhardt directed and the fine camera work is by Ben Reynolds.

Although made to the meritment of the whimsical comedy of youth and age, by a symphonic accompaniment perfectly suited to the ever-changing moods of the piece, the trained voices of the actors are effectively heard at high points of the story—and sound effects are present.

The story is that of the good-natured battle between a peppery Southern judge and his two pretty daughters, together with their granddaughters. The judge abhors progress, especially aviation. He imagines his daughters when a youth arrives with a heavy determination to establish an airport within sight of the old plantation. Imagine his further irritation when the two girls start a free-for-all in their eagerness to capture the heart of "Don't miss seeing and hearing "The Little Wildcat."

Difficulties In Filming "Wild Orchids"

Those persons who see "Wild Orchids," the new Greta Garbo starring picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer from the comparative comfort of a seat in the Star Theater, where it is now playing, can have no realization of the difficulties of filming certain sequences in this unusual picture.

At a guess the average person will say that the most difficult scene in the photoplay to film would be the three hour, during the course of which an enormous Bengal tiger leaps at Nile Astor, the Japanese prince of this photoplay, and hurls him to the ground.

The average person would be wrong. For this scene, although not filmed in any way, was carried out before the camera without a hitch, whereas the most trifling detail in the whole photoplay was the hardest to film.

Unfortunately for motion picture directors, ocean liners pitch at sea, and Sidney Franklin, the director, found that this slow pitch and toss of a liner on the high seas was the most difficult detail to film. The first sequences of "Wild Orchids"

"Royal Rider" Has Unusual Plot For a Western

A two fisted, hard-riding Texas cowpuncher presented at the court of a European king and the resulting actions form the theme of "The Royal Rider," Ken Maynard's latest starring vehicle now showing at the Colonial theater.

Alvania, a mythical kingdom somewhere in Central Europe, forms the background for one of the fastest, cleverest and the most thrilling motion pictures Ken has ever appeared in.

"The Royal Rider" is strictly a Western picture but with different settings and theme. There are lavish sets, costumes and much opportunity for concentrated action.

The story tells of a troupe of American cowpunchers traveling through Europe with a Wild West show. They give a performance in Alvania, a small kingdom overrun with politics and anarchy. A boy king and an American girl are the central figures upon which the plot revolves and with a kingdom at stake there is plenty of fighting and action to be seen.

Danzig, "Free City"

Danzig on the Baltic sea is a "free city" under the protection of the League of Nations. It is governed by a diet and a senate, the president of the senate being the highest executive officer.

Once Roman City

Esoter, now famous for its cathedral, was, in the days of Claudius and Nero, a flourishing Roman city; the name of the Roman-British city was then Ica Emmoniorum.

Distilling Salt Water

In a ship salt water is boiled in evaporators. The steam rises through a pipe to a distiller, which consists of coils with cold water running over them. This condenses the steam, forming fresh water.

A speaker says it is a wife's duty to make over the man who marries, but perhaps it will be just as well if she doesn't make too much over him.

Clerk thoughtfully: "you know, Tom, there's one question has puzzled me since childhood."

Salesman: "What's that?" T. C.: "Can a shortsighted man have a far-away look in his eyes?"

The husband and wife were having dinner and for a while there had been silence between them. At last he said: "Well, my dear, I'm sorry to hear of the failure of your brother's business. However, I expect he took it like a man, didn't he?"

"Yes," said she, "he did—exactly like a man. He blushed it all on his wife."

Sergeant—Hey! You can't go in there—that's the colonel's tent!

Bookie—Then what have they got "Private" over the entrance for?

He glanced at the beautiful woman beside him, his look heavy with anxiety and humble pleading. But she was unconscious of his appeal. For long moments he watched her, struggling with his emotion, desiring yet afraid to ask the question that trembled in his lips.

At last he pulled himself together and spoke, wistfully and yearningly: "Mummie, may I please have a little more chocolate layer cake?"

"I understand Jane eloped with one of the boarders."

"You're wrong; it was only a rumor."

Colors in Foxes
Silver and black foxes will occur in reds. Such occurrences, however, are very rare. In the wild state it is very doubtful if there is 1 per cent of production of silver or black foxes from red foxes.

A Thought
V. S. philosophizes as follows: Thrift makes you save your cake until you are too old to enjoy it. The installment plan cuts a slice of the cake you still have an appetite.

You'll lose control as you beat, and the oil and vinegar would separate. It is also hard to control the flavor when coffee is roasted in bulk. So Hills Bros. roast their coffee a few pounds at a time by their patented, continuous process, and what a difference it makes in flavor.
