SENATE ACTION FELT IN MARKET

Wheat Drops Five Cents a Bushel but Recovers Some Before Close.

(CHICAGO, June 12 (AP))—Strained by a huge load of orders to sell, the wheat market broke nearly 5 cents a bushel early today. Action of the senate last night in reflecting at least temporarily the farm relief bill was greatly at variance with yesterday's expectations among wheat traders, and efforts today to adjust the market to the new condition caused wild fluctuations in the early dealings. Opening 2 1/2c to 4 1/2c down, wheat later dropped still further, but later rallied strongly. Corn, oats and provisions tumbled also with corn starting 1 1/2c to 2 1/2c off, but afterward recovering to a substantial extent.

Wheat closed nervous, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3/4c to 2c down, oats unchanged 3/4c to 1c off, and provisions varying from a 2 to 5c decline to a rise of 1/8c.

Berry Price Is Lower Today In Oregon Markets

(PORTLAND, Ore., June 12 (AP))—Strawberry prices were still on the downgrade today. The best fruit was bringing $1.50 a crate. Lower grades ranged considerably below this. One buyer for a large produce house declared he expected one more day of sunshine would bring the season to a peak with a consequent plentiful supply. If this happens the canning season should be at its height three days of this week and two or three next week. Vines are reported to be heavy with berries. Only a little more warmth is needed to ripen them and give them the necessary sweetness.

Green peas were more abundant. Prices ranged from 6 to 7 cents Wednesday. This was the wholesale price. All vegetable supplies are increasing as the season advances. These include beets, turnips, carrots, onions and radishes. Asparagus was less plentiful than it was a short time ago. Eggs, butter, poultry and fresh meat prices were unchanged.

Urges Measures To Secure Water For Hong Kong
HONG KONG, China, June 12 (AP)—Prominent measures to alleviate the serious drought and water famine which are facing Hong Kong's population of about a million persons were advocated today by the colonial secretary presiding over a representative committee convened to consider the problem. All vessels belonging to the navy and military authorities are cooperating in this urgent work and the Standard Oil and Asiatic Petroleum companies are lending their tankers for the transportation of water.

The population has been placed on a strict water dole. The streets are daily lined with queues waiting for their share of water. The island's rainfall thus far has been ten inches under a normal fifty inches. The non-Chinese civil population of Hong Kong is about 15,500 with a total Chinese population of 861,300.

ORDER 4000 TONS WATER

About 25 cents gold a ton will be paid. The Dollar steamship management said four of their steamers weekly will discharge 250 tons of water at Hong Kong, bringing it from Manila and Shanghai. The Canadian Pacific will do likewise. Both companies regard the measure as an emergency, and will make no charge.

Community Spirit Increases Land Values, According to Bill Dollar

Story, it will also increase the happiness and well-being of our greatest crop—the boys and girls. "A great opportunity offers in this community," said "Bill," "to trader that the growth and prosperity of La Grande is contingent on the attitude of a majority of the people in its trading zone. If the people who live outside of the city persist in sending their money away to some other city, they are weakening their investment at home and making money scarce in the community. "Every dollar we keep in our trade territory is the equivalent of about $2.00 in credit. We need all of our capital to finance our agricultural, manufacturing and business interests. Each dollar sent away by a business man or a farmer to some other city for goods that can be bought in Union county means $2.00 in credit taken from the community. Every farmer or rancher who buys merchandise, clothes or his farm requirements from other cities is sending cash and also credit from his own community. Every merchant who buys goods from distant markets which they can be bought near at home is reducing the trading capital of this territory," said "Bill."

"If a giant hand were to take this city and set it down 25 miles away from here," said "Bill" Dollar, "the price of land around the city would immediately depreciate in value to such an extent that a dire condition would result. "Many people who live within the natural trading area of a city lose sight of the fact that their property enhances in value as the city prospers. Too often, however, there is friction between the outside dwellers and the city folk. The city votes for improvements and the county dwellers resent it for fear that their taxes will be raised without any immediate benefit. "It is one of the most beautiful compensations in life to know that you cannot help the other fellow without helping yourself. When the people of a community own this and put it into practice, a more enjoyable condition will result. "Whoever heard of community spirit increasing land values?" continued "Bill" Dollar. "It will. A story is told of two farmers who conversed thus: 'Pete I wish my farm was in Clay county; it would be worth $25 an acre more.' 'Why. Hans how can that be? Your land is better than ours; it is never in ours and a deeper soil.' "Well, Pete, the difference in value is not altogether in the soil. Part of the increased value is the community spirit you have. You people are always doing something. You know your neighbors and the young folks seem satisfied. I have children nearly grown and they don't want to stay on the farm or even in the country. They are always wanting to go to the city and they often say, 'Why can't we have a good time and have things going like they do in Clay county?' "Is that not one secret of contentment?" asked "Bill" Dollar. "Why not let us develop our vast resources for neighborliness, for friendship and cooperation right here in our own community. If community spirit will increase land values, as it did for Pete of the happiness and well-being of our greatest crop—the boys and girls. A REAL THRILL

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—What thrill for honest Lauretta Olson, clerk for a piano company. She found a diamond ring in the lobby of the company's building, notified the elevator man that she had found it, put it on and dazzled friends displaying it. Then she took it to a jeweler for appraisal. He valued it at $10,000. The thrill was bigger than ever. But Lauretta was afraid of such wealth. She left it in the jeweler's safe. Now she is to get a reward from the owner.

Dangerous Cargo
Rice has to be elaborately stored on shipboard, placed by hand on the deck, and under all circumstances kept water tight, even though the ship is alight with heavy seas on every deck. What is going to happen to 2,500 tons of rice in a closed compartment once it gets wet is fairly obvious?
