150 Entertained At Tea Given At A. J. Stange Home

With Mrs. A. J. Stange, Mrs. L. H. Bramwell, Mrs. H. E. Coolidge, Mrs. F. L. Meyers and Mrs. Howard Miller of La Grande and Mrs. Fred Fox of Union, as hostesses, about one hundred and fifty ladies enjoyed the afternoon tea given yesterday at the Stange home as a compliment to the ladies who are in La Grande at the present time because of the sessions of the State Bankers association now in convention. On the Stange lawn, which is so beautiful now with the masses of blooms and the pretty greens were bouquets and tables and Chinese lanterns, making it even more attractive. In doors, flowers were used generously—pink roses, soap dragons, gladiolus, and bouquets of yellow roses. Assisting the hostesses about the rooms during the afternoon were Mesdames A. L. Richardson, Harry Zurbriek, C. A. Blugman, J. E. Ravenscroft, Norman Press, Chase Bohnenkamp, G. L. Larson, L. R. Kimmel, Fred Langer and Geo. B. Bouvy. In the dining room, Mrs. Howard Miller had charge, Mrs. L. Richardson, Mrs. George Cochran, Mrs. H. E. Coolidge, Mrs. Jerry Foley and Mrs. F. L. Meyers presided at the tables. Miss Dorothy Klerhard, Mrs. Doyle Zimmerman, Mrs. Francis Greulich, Mrs. Oscar Warneck, Mrs. Warren Gilbert, Miss Margaret Meyers, Miss Anne Stange, Miss Dorothy Meyers and Miss Lois Nelson, assisting with the serving. The Misses Mary Lyman, Lucille Black, Jane Stange, Ruth Bramwell, Edith Swift and Dorothy Hopkins and Mrs. Edna Playle, ushered the guests to the dining room. On the lawn, Miss Marjorie Wilhelm, of Eugene, served punch, the table being very attractively decorated. The outstanding feature was an immense case of ice in which had been frozen a bunch of gorgeous roses. This rested on a base of pine branches.

During the afternoon, the Lindsay three-piece orchestra played at intervals. A program given in the parlors included ten cups of vocal numbers by Mrs. Howard Miller, soprano, of Sheridan, Oregon, accompanied by Mrs. T. H. Maxwell, and two groups by Mrs. Pullman, contralto, of Baker.

Miss Riggs Guest At Social Affairs

In reviewing the social affairs given over the weekend in honor of Miss Margaret Riggs, of Park city, who was guest of the Regatta at Pendleton, the society column of the East Oregonian has the following:

ing to say: Prominent in social events of the weekend were affairs given in honor of Miss Margaret Riggs, of La Grande, queen of the Regatta, and her princesses, Miss Thelma Akoy, Miss Betty Bond and Miss Amy Alrich. The royal party, which included the admiral, Dr. R. C. Lawrence, rode to the regatta each day, the cars being provided through the courtesy of Peterson Brothers and Foster-Richey.

Saturday morning, Mrs. Fred Donert, president of the Pendleton Woman's club, and official chaperon for the royal party, entertained at breakfast for the queen, her attendants, Mrs. E. Riggs, mother of Miss Riggs, Mrs. Victor Martin, president of the Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Larsen, wife of James Larsen, head of the Legion, and Mrs. Smith, wife of Irlton Smith, head of the regatta committee.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. James E. Akoy entertained at a dinner for the queen and her attendants, and later they were guests of honor at a reception at the Fred Donert home. Yesterday morning the Legion Auxiliary entertained at breakfast at the Donert home, an interesting guest being Mrs. W. C. Kelly, of Baker, state president of the Legion Auxiliary.

Luncheon Held In Sacajawea Today

The second of a series of delightful social affairs planned for the pleasure of ladies attending the State Bankers convention in this city is the luncheon being held at the Sacajawea Inn today with visitors who are members in the P. E. O. sisterhood being special guests.

Bible Class Ends Season of Study

The Community Women's Bible class has finished its study for the year and before adjournment for the summer, held a social meeting at the Birney home on Fourth street with Mrs. Bernie and Mrs. Harriet McDonald as hostesses. There was a program given, which all thoroughly enjoyed. The class expressed its appreciation by the presentation of two gifts, the first to Mrs. MacDonald who has been leader of the organization through a long period of years, and the second to Mrs. Dow who has opened her home as the meeting place for the year. Refreshments were served. Those who were present were Misses Johnson, Stanchfield, Logwood, Awek, Hug, Philpott, Muller, Hurley, Wm. Miller, H. H. Coover, Lewis, Ruckland, Hull, Cochran, Smith, Rettig, Green, Seitz, Epling, Dow, French, Hill, Irlton and McDonald.

Party Compliments, Miss Thelma Kitchen

Mrs. R. J. Kitchen entertained Friday evening for her daughter, Miss Thelma at her home 1397 O avenue, a company of eleven young lady friends being guests at a lovely dinner served at six-thirty o'clock. The centerpiece on the table was of sweet peas and roses, with tall pink tapers. During the dinner the betrothal and approaching marriage of Miss Thelma and Mr. Raymond Allen Hall, of Portland, was announced by dainty cards tied to the corsages of pink sweet peas and roses which were at the places of each of the guests. The date for the wedding was announced as August 4. After the dinner, several hours were spent at bridge. Mrs. Doyle Zimmerman winning first prize.

Anniversary Of Daughter Honored

Mrs. Floyd Sherwood entertained about eight or ten little girls yesterday afternoon, observing the fourth birthday of her little daughter, Shirley Ann. Some of the little folks came alone and others were accompanied by their mothers. They had a very happy afternoon playing together and happily finished with some nice refreshments served by Mrs. Sherwood.

Dresses Are Influenced By Skirt and Blouse

By Diana Morwin (Associated Press Fashion Editor) PARIS (AP)—Skirt and blouse costumes are having their effect on styles in general, even long coats sometimes simulating suit lines in their cut. Afternoon dresses with contrasting skirts and tops are most affected by the vogue for two-piece effects.

Among the afternoon dresses which reflect directly the popularity of separate skirts and blouses are the satin frocks with black skirts and white attached corsages. Some of these black and white dresses are completed by short black satin jackets and that makes them almost indistinguishable from skirt and blouse combinations.

Suits of printed silk are having an even bigger vogue in Paris than was expected. There are many one-piece dresses with matching short jackets, with or without sleeves.

But the newest and more generally favored costume, particularly by small and young women, is the three-piece suit with contrasting tuck-in blouse of white or light color.

Black, navy blue and brown are the outstanding colors among the printed, subtle, printed patterns are small and not conspicuous, the rule being light design on a dark ground.

Club Entertained At the Dodson Home

By Mrs. Charles Spencer (Observer Correspondent) GRANGE HALL, (Special)—Mrs. Alvah Dodson and Mrs. J. E. Anson were joint hostesses Friday afternoon when they entertained the members of the countrywomen's club at the Dodson home in Union. There were 16 club members and three visitors present. For the program a track meet was held on the lawn and the sprinting, broad-jumping, hurdling etc., caused a great deal of fun. Mrs. J. A. Holman's side represent La Grande and Mrs. R. A. Masterton's Union. As one team proved as good as the other, the winning side had to be decided upon by a draw. Mrs. Hol-

MENUS

By Sister Mary Although lemons are available and largely used throughout the year, more usually are consumed during the summer months than at any other time. Every iced fruit drink is improved by a dash of lemon juice and lemon jelly makes an excellent foundation for jellied salads and desserts.

When marketing for lemons, look for those with bright smooth skins. The best quality lemons have a finely textured skin with a distinct sheen to it. Coarseness or roughness bespeak thick skins which are not desirable in lemons. Thin skins, without spots or blemishes of any kind mean well flavored juicy fruit.

Choose Well-Shaped Fruit Cherries come into season in late May but the harvest is not in full swing until late June. Large, perfectly shaped fruit should be selected. Cherries which are developed on one side only are apt to be wormy and of inferior flavor. Over-ripeness must be watched for as well as a brown rot which is often hard to detect. This brown rot often attacks the fruit first around the pit and spreads rapidly if the cherries are kept in a warm place. A low temperature checks the decay, keeps the fruit firm and retards ripening.

Sour cherries are usually chosen for canning for pies and for preserving.

Can Sweet Cherries, Too Large sweet cherries are liked for canning when the canned fruit is to be used as a "sauce" or in a fruit cup or salad.

A firm fleshed cherry with a small pit keeps its shape well when canned and there is less waste from stoning.

It pays to can cherries for winter use for there are many delicious ways to use them aside from the proverbial cherry pie.

Cherry Mousse is a delicious frozen dessert which owes much to the addition of lemon juice.

One cup pitted cherries, 1/2 cups sugar, 4 lemons, 2 oranges, 2 teaspoons granulated gelatine, 3 cups whipping cream, 1/2 cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons cold water.

Add boiling water to sugar and make a syrup. Add cherries and remove at once from the fire. Let stand until cool. Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve over boiling water. Add to cherry mixture with juice of oranges and lemons. When cold add cream whipped until firm. Turn into mold and freeze for three hours or longer. Use eight parts ice to one part ice cream salt.

Of course it was perfectly all right for Colonel Lindbergh to get married, but he certainly did disappoint about 10,000,000 loyal constituents.

DRIVER NEAR DEATH

PORTLAND, June 18 (AP)—A man believed to be Tallman Olson of Portland was near death in a Kelso, Wash., hospital today as the result of an automobile accident. Olson was driving a light coupe registered to Gladys Snider of Portland, when it collided with a North Coast Transportation stage, E. H. Chesley of Portland, passenger in the stage, was cut and bruised.

There is no record of the transfer of the automobile to Olson, and Miss Snider who has moved away, could not be located.

New Snowdrift cans New convenient sizes

New—fresh and inviting in a blue and white can with an interesting modern design that somehow makes you think of the curl of Snowdrift on a spoon.

Convenient—new three and six pound buckets that are just about as wide as they are tall and which permit you to scoop out even the last spoonful without robbing your fingers on the sides of the can.

And airtight of course, with the Snowdrift inside the can always fresh and creamy and ready to mix with flour or sugar with just a few stirs of the spoon.

If you have never tried Snowdrift you'll be delighted with the convenience offered by its creamy consistency—if you've been using Snowdrift you'll welcome the convenience of the new sizes.

man's side was the lucky one. In a second contest Mrs. Masterton's side won the prize in a stunt. Following the track games the women went into the house where a program consisting of a group singing and readings by Mrs. Edith Geleker and Miss Minnie Holman was enjoyed. During the business session the club discussed sponsoring a picnic on the Fourth of July but nothing definite was decided. At the close of the afternoon a one course lunch was served. The club will be entertained by the Parkdale club on June 20, at Lane chapel in La Grande. The Parkdale club will also entertain two other clubs, the Get-together club of Ladd Canyon and the Women's club of Cove at the same time. Each club has been asked to furnish one number for the program.

Serve Like Meat

Tonight, serve PROTOSE, the vegetable meat. It looks like meat, tastes like meat, and even has all the aroma and texture of meat. Serve it hot or cold. Roasted, stewed, broiled or sliced as it comes from the can. It makes wonderful sandwiches and salads. Its richness in food iron and lime recommends it for children.
