Short Supplies Send Eggs High; Berries Decline

PORTLAND, June 25 (AP)—Short supplies sent eggs higher at the Dairy Exchange today. Standard extras went up one cent to 34 and standard firsts half a cent to 33. Medium extras were more plentiful and declined one cent to 31 1/2. Current receipts were in good demand and went up two cents to 32. Medium firsts were unchanged at 29. No change was made in butter prices.

The Ladies is shipping in some excellent cucumbers, green beans and summer squash. The cucumbers are priced $1.75 in 2 1/2 dozen boxes, the beans and squash 10 cents a pound.

Raspberries supplies have increased and the price has dropped to $2.50 to $3 a crate of 24 boxes. A fine crop is in sight.

Strawberries were lower, not because of demand or increased supplies, but because of poor quality. They ranged from $1 to $1.50 a crate.

Cantaloupes are getting scarcer and with lemons, were expected to undergo several advances in the near future.

Watermelons were half a cent cheaper at four cents. All prices quoted are wholesale.

Wheat Nervous And Lower In Chicago
CHICAGO, June 25 (AP)—Grain values underwent a lively setback today after a show of firmness at the start. Better weather in the harvest region Southwest and some rain in Canada led to heavy profit-taking sales in wheat, and there was much selling of corn owing to warmth and sunshine. Opening unchanged to 1/4 higher, wheat quickly underwent a material drop. Corn started 1/4 off to 1/2 c up, and then sagged. Oats followed corn. Provisions were easy.

Wheat closed nervous 1 1/2 @ 1 3/4 c net lower, corn at 1/2 c decline to 1/2 c advance, oats 1/4 @ 1/2 c to 1/2 c off and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 32 cents.

WALL STREET CLOSE STRONG; MONEY HIGHER

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Stock prices showed a decided inclination to advance today despite the stringency in call money. Early losses of 1 to nearly 5 points were largely wiped out by early afternoon and a long list of issues sold 1 to 11 points higher. New high records were established by at least a score individual stocks.

Call money renewed at 1 per cent and there was a further calling of loans which threatened to send the rate of 12 within the next day or two. The time money market was dull with no change in rates.

LAUNDRY HERE INSTALLS TWO NEW PRESSES

The Standard Laundry company has just completed the installation of two Prosperity garment presses in order to take care of its increasing volume in finished work. According to the management, these presses represent the very latest development in laundry presses and will aid materially in improving the service offered by this company.

Both new presses are pneumatically controlled, a compressed air unit furnishing the power for operation, and with ironing surfaces scientifically shaped to give greatest efficiency. Operators of these presses are able to finish a greater amount of work with less effort and time. Ironing pressure is automatically regulated to give best results on different materials and thermometer gauges assure a knowledge at all times of the most effective temperature for high grade work.

The presses consist of a combination shirt and body press and a utility press for dresses, aprons and similar garments. A one horse-power motor operate the compressor which automatically maintains a pressure of 75 pounds. Other installations recently made by the Standard Laundry are an American curtain stretcher, a Heubach sleeve ironer, a Bishop shirt folding board, and this week will complete the setting of the third washer.

La Grande's Leading Store for Over 30 Years

Pendleton proposes to have a green golf course. A Portland expert has gone over the present club holdings and says they can have a good course for $30,000. If that is true, Pendleton golfers will be getting off cheap. La Grande had about $45,000 in its original goat course and salvaged a few thousand before throwing it in the ash can. Now the new course represents an investment of about the same amount—maybe $50,000—and no club house. But no one will deny that it is a credit to Eastern Oregon and a joy to golf bugs. Golfers will tell you that it is worth the money, we suppose, and there is no doubt that Pendleton will have a similar experience. The Pendleton club now has 46 members and aspires to a hundred. La Grande has at least eighty playing members and nearly a hundred paying members, the increase in the number of those who play as well as pay being due to the excellence of the course. It should be so with our neighbor when a good green course is realized. The golf bug thrives, we would judge, under favorable conditions. And Pendleton has a lot of old men who have nothing better to do than become properly susceptible.

A CALIFORNIAN ADMITS SOMETHING
The dedication of the bridge completing the Redwood Highway was the recent occasion for Governor Young, of the sunny (and warm) state of California, to journey north to the state line and across into Oregon. At Grants Pass the visiting chief executive is quoted as saying "After traveling over the smooth, velvety pavements of Oregon and then riding over the rough, bumpy roads of California, I became a good roads enthusiast and have for the past five years endeavored to have California equal the highways of Oregon."

Read that again. The governor of California is quoted. He admits that Oregon roads are superior to those of his home state. He admits that he has been trying to bring California up to the Oregon standard for the past five years. And he does it publicly.

Can it be possible that Governor Young was misquoted? We think not, but the statement is unusual, very unusual, coming from a Californian. It's one of the most modest things we ever heard of coming from a Californian. Even a goodwill envy, coached to utter sweet nothings and to say a lot of things with his fingers crossed would hesitate to deprecate his Californian heritage by admitting that Oregon highways were now or ever had been better than those of the state to the south.

The only explanation that offers itself is that Governor Young may regard his present term as the climax of his public career, that he plans to retire with the coming of another election and live in quiet seclusion the rest of his days. He couldn't possibly be planning another term of office and be guilty of the admission that California's roads are inferior to those of a sister state. It just isn't done in California, you know. The only thing they admit down there is that everything is bigger, better, boomier than it is any other place under the hot, hot sun. That's the universal religion in California. It is the birthplace of this thing called a "superiority complex."

Well, after all, we admit admiration for Governor Young admitting some things about Oregon. When it comes to being smug and set-up, we can qualify in Oregon when the question of highways is brought up. Not that they are perfect, of course, because we have one or two stretches in mind that could do well with some spending right now, and not that they are greater in mileage than some other states. But when you want to go somewhere in Oregon and propose to get there by automobile, we admit that the experience is just a little bit more ideal than can be found in other states of the country. And we are glad that Governor Young has made that discovery—even if it costs him his job!

Perfect browning... perfect cooking

while you're out of the kitchen

It's amazingly easy to cook delicious meals in the Westinghouse "Flavor Zone" Oven. For it first browns, then cooks to perfection, without the slightest attention from you.

You merely set the clock on the oven and adjust the thermostat when you put the food in the cold oven. Then you're free until time to serve the meal. The heat comes on automatically and is shut off automatically at exactly the right time. You do not have to baste the meat or add water to the vegetables. And since cooking is entirely automatic, there's never any guesswork about results.

They are as savory and as appetizing as the rich juicy roasts, the sugar crusted hams, succulent vegetables and spicy puddings cooked in the famed Dutch ovens of old colonial days.
