W. Nusbaum, ervisor of music. The first nums were a group of selections by La Grande high school orstra. Miss Frigaard, a student the summer session, accompanied by Miss Esther Peterson sang songs "Who Is Sylvia?" by ubert and "Sing Me A Song Of Hilltops." The Normal School ls' Glee club, directed by Mr. sbaum sang "The Heart Of The ls" and "Indian Dawn" just ore President Inlow addressed visitors. He spoke very happy and rather informally and at close invited all to the reshments provided. The balance the evening was spent in inecting the building, the students the school ushering the people out the building, meeting inuctors and students. It was all y informal and very delightful.

arties Give Way o Summer Warmth

With most of the clubs having vacation period from regular etings during the hot weather, h vacation seasoff on, social nts in and about La Grande are her few and far between. Pics are the order of the day, with ger or smaller groups taking adtage of the many beautiful l and restful spots in this valley proving to be most enticing. The path to Wallowa lake is becoming more worn each day, the larger or smaller caravans to that resort being familiar figures on the highway. The golf links are full each morning with women who find complete recreational satisfaction there. The lull in the society column does not necessarily indicate inaction but rather a complete change of program, with the formal giving way to the informal and the indoor gatherings being replaced by the out-of-door affairs.

Guard Against Tetanus, Advice Of Dr. Stricker

By Dr. Frederick D. Stricker

The great decrease in the number of cases following Fourth of July wounds is due to the vigorous campaigns that have been carried on against the sale of fireworks. Most cities have gone on record favoring a saner and safer method of celebration. There are, however, cities in this state where the sale of fireworks is still tolerated. Injuries caused by the explosion of fireworks are particularly dangerous for the reason that they are usually received in the street where contamination with dust or other dirt is always a certainty. In case of premature explosions the dirt is blown into the flesh and ideal conditions for the development of disease produced. The wounds of blank cartridges are especially liable to produce tetanus.

The germ of tetanus is found widely distributed in nature. It is a normal inhabitant of the intestinal tract of herbivorous animals, such a sthe horse. Hence it is found in cultivated soils, in roads, streets and about stables. The germs develop from spores, which are frequently found in dust. These spores are able to endure heat, sunlight and various antiseptics a surprising length of time. The germ is able to grow and produce the disease only in the absence of free oxygen. For this reason great care should be taken in the dressing of a wound that every portion of the injured tissue is allowed to remain readily accessible to the air. Tight bandages, adhesive tapes placed directly on the wound, the sealing of dirty wounds with collodion are to be avoided. Punctured wounds should be opened.

The tetanus germ produces a powerful poison called toxin which is absorbed by the body. The toxin causes violent convulsions during which the muscles of the jaw are set so that the jaw can scarcely be pried open, hence the name lockjaw. The patient usually dies although energetic treatment in the earlier stages will often save life.

Since the injury from this disease is due to a poison or toxin the disease is treated with tetanus antitoxin. The serum is of less value in the treatment than in the prevention of the disease. The serum should be given soon after the injury if it is to be fully effective in controlling tetanus. In case of the least doubt give tetanus antitoxin.

A convenient modern package—for a convenient modern shortening
It seems only right that a creamy easy-to-use shortening like Snowdrift should be packed in these new convenient cans.
You'll agree that they are quite an improvement after you've tried one of the new three or six pound cans. Conveniently proportioned—almost as wide as they are tall and as easy to spoon from as an old-fashioned earthenware crock.
And the design of the can is new too—interesting and modern in blue and white—almost as appealing as Snowdrift itself. A convenient modern package for a convenient modern shortening.
The creamy consistency of Snowdrift makes it very, very easy to work with—it mixes in a jiffy with just a few stirs of the spoon and is always ready to use—never too hard when it comes from the refrigerator, never too soft when it has been standing in the kitchen.
Snowdrift makes so many good things to eat—cakes, biscuits, muffins, pie crust. And for delicate fried food there simply isn't any better frying fat than Snowdrift.
