

Dry Creek Girl Hurt When Horse Steps On Hand

By G. C. MEEK (Observer Correspondent)

WALLOWA, Ore., (Special) — Margaret, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Weinhard of Dry creek, suffered a painful injury to one of her hands as well as some severe bruises about the head and shoulders, when she was thrown from a horse. The little girl was running races with her sister when the horse she was riding became frightened at a caudate beside the road and threw her. After falling to the ground, the horse passed over her, stepping on her hand and tearing the flesh away quite badly. She was taken to Wallowa and the injured hand dressed and is reported to be getting along nicely.

Jack Horner, returned here during the week from a trip to Bend and other Central Oregon points where he spent several days looking for work in the woods. He reports things moving quite slow in many of the sawmilling sections and many men looking for work.

Oscar Maxwell was busy the early part of the week doing some digging at the U. G. Couch farm in the hills in an effort to get a larger supply of stock water. The drying weather of the past few days has had considerable effect on many of the wells and springs in parts of the county making the supply quite limited in many places.

Part of the county road building crew with a tractor and grader have been busy recently doing some re-grading on a stretch of road leading from the valley north into the hill section. The road being worked is an old road on which no work has been done in the past ten or twelve years.

Mrs. F. H. Weinhard of Dry creek, reports some heavy losses from her band of young turkeys during the past week. Many of the turkeys were early hatched and were getting quite large. In ranging around over much territory she thinks the coyotes have been responsible for the disappearance of the young birds.

H. O. Anderson and wife and children of Payette, Idaho, arrived here by auto Saturday evening for a few days visit with Mrs. Anderson's mother, Mrs. Katie Gastin. Mr. Anderson is employed on a farm near Passaic, and reports crops very good in that section of the country this year and that the first crops of hay were finished there some time ago.

Gay Parker and wife and Mrs. Bertha Taylor of La Grande, were visiting Saturday evening and Sunday at Mrs. Meek's.

Giles Plass, of Leap, has been doing some repair work on his threshing outfit.

The efforts of a number of the range members and other farmers of this community toward interesting enough stock raisers in the proposition of putting in a set of stock scales have been successful. A. W. Johnson, of Lower valley, who has charge of the shipping of stock in this end of the valley for the Wallowa County Stock Marketing association, reports that he has sufficient number of members signed up for putting in the new scales, and that work of installing them at the railroad stock yards will start soon.

J. J. Chapman, of Lostine, was a business visitor in town the last of the week.

Strawberries have been ripening rapidly in this community during the past week or ten days. The crop is said to be quite light on many of the patches with the first crop of berries being quite small. Cherries are also beginning to ripen on many of the orchards here and a good demand for all varieties of cherries.

"Babe" Moore and wife, of Diamond Prairie, were at the Meek ranch in the hills the latter part of the week picking cherries.

A few parties have made trips into the timbered sections here in quest of huckleberries, some have been successful in locating some small patches where some berries were found. At some places it is said that many small green berries are in evidence at this time.

N. C. Donaldson, county agent, was a business visitor in town the latter part of the week.

Eugene Gastin left recently for the mountains south of Lostine where he will herd sheep for L. C. Johnson during the summer months. He returned home a few weeks ago from Snake river, where he worked for Mr. Johnson during lambing season.

New Indian Commissioner Plans To Put Red Men "On Their Feet"

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Charles J. Rhoades, new commissioner of Indian affairs, is charged with the gigantic task of putting 350,000 red men "on their feet." It is the aim of Secretary Wilbur to take them out of government care and make them self supporting.

Not since Franklin K. Lane was secretary of the interior has there been such a drastic change in administration attitude toward the Indians. They were given free rein at that time and many, by unwise business moves, went into bankruptcy.

With the new commissioner on the job, the work of getting the Indian out in the world and "on his own" will be pushed.

Much has already been accomplished in that direction. Last year the Indians of the 200 tribes scattered over the country earned $1,267,816 by the sale of blankets, baskets, beads, wood carvings, paintings and other arts and industries.

To enlarge the market for Indian handicraft further a trade mark design to be registered in the patent office is being considered. It would suggest the craftsmanship of the Indians and would be attached to all articles they make.

Pre-vocational industrial instruction is being given in the Indian schools and the younger generation of Indians now growing up will be fitted to earn their way. The instruction includes farming, carpentry, blacksmithing, engineering, masonry, painting, and home training, cooking, sewing, laundering, and poultry raising for the girls.

Graduates of agricultural colleges are superintending the farming activities of the Indians. The Coolidge dam now under construction in Arizona at a cost of $5,850,000 will supply adequate irrigation for the Pima Indians.

BERBER IS BETTER

MILWAUKEE, July 18, (AP)—Noticeable improvement was reported today in the condition of Victor L. Berger, former socialist congressman, whose skull was fractured Tuesday when he was struck by a street car.

His condition, however, was said to be critical still, and fear was expressed that pneumonia might develop.
