Woodell Reunion At Pleasant Grove Is Happy Occasion

Seventy people, including several families from La Grande, attended the reunion of the Woodell family held yesterday all day at the Pleasant Grove grange hall, nine miles from La Grande. This is the first reunion this family has had for six years, but steps were taken yesterday to safeguard any lapse again in the series of gatherings. For years this celebration was held covering a period of three days, when those who could, took their camping equipment to the grove on the farm of one of the relatives near Allev and had the days together. Others went for a shorter stay. Yesterday, according to older members of the clan, seemed like old times with such a large representation of those eligible to attend.

The company had assembled by one o'clock and the dinner, with fried chicken as the outstanding item on the menu, was served at about two o'clock, two tables accommodating the large company, and these spread in the main room of the grange hall. Grace was said by Tom Wallinger Sr. After the dinner the men indulged in barnyard golf and story swapping, while the ladies were being entertained and then the family reassembled for the splendid program, presided over by "Uncle Jim" Woodell, of La Grande, president of the organization. The numbers were given in the following order—

- Song—America

- Closing song—"Auld Lang Syne."

E. Mires Home Damaged By Midnight Blaze

By W. V. CONNOR

UNION, Ore., (Special)—Jake Stills and Marvin Wood were down from Pandora Saturday transacting business in Union.

With cherry picking and packing in full swing Union for the time being is exceptionally busy. Many pickers, packers and box makers have come in from other fruit regions and are camping here for the time the work lasts. The fruit association is doing its packing at the association warehouse in the western part of town. Karl Stackland is using his building here only as a receiving place and is trucking the cherries to Cove for packing or shipping them directly to the canneries. The Earl Fruit company is packing at their warehouse near the fruiting mill. Many of the Royal Ams are going as number ones and bringing the top price of about 9 1/2 cents while the smaller fruit is selling about three cents lower. The packers are paying about the same for Bings and Lamberts as for the number one Ams.

Our local weekly newspaper, The Eastern Oregon Republican, has added a new column called News of Surrounding Communities, and this week has special correspondence from Tolocast Medical Springs, Imbler, High Valley, Halfway and Richland. This news is sent in by special correspondents from the different communities.

A fire of unknown origin about midnight Wednesday badly damaged the E. Mires residence, corner North Union, located just across Main street from the former Tobin Meat market. The fire started in a bedroom and before it was under control had partly burned this room and damaged part of the building. Most of the furniture is practically ruined. At the time Mr. and Mrs. Mires were visiting with relatives near Harris mountain and it was not till noon of the following day that they arrived home as it was difficult to get word to Mr. Mires. It is the general opinion that some unknown parties were in the building and accidentally started the fire. The building and contents were insured.

The Odd Fellows had work in the second degree Friday evening. H. H. Little and C. W. Clark were from the Cove lodge and assisted in the degree work. Friday, July 26, the third degree will be exemplified and invitations are being sent to La Grande and Cove lodges to attend the meeting on that date.

W. D. Heideleman, died at the Hot Lake hospital Thursday morning following an operation and an illness of several weeks. He had been at the hospital for about a month taking treatments and during this time he had a transfusion of blood and an operation. Pneumonia finally set in and this with other complications was the immediate cause of his death. "Dan" Heideleman was one of the pioneers of Union having made this place his home for about fifty-five years. He was for many years engaged in the harness business. During his long residence in Union he won the love and respect of his fellow citizens by his exemplary life and his cheery word and pleasant smile will be missed by many people of this community.

W. D. Heideleman was born November 29, 1854 somewhere in the middle west but the exact place is not known. He died at Hot Lake July 18, 1929 aged 75 years. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the Methodist church and burial was made in the local cemetery, the K. P. lodge conducting a short service at the grave.

The only immediate relatives are a son, Bert Heideleman of Portland and a brother from California, both of whom were here for the funeral. Miss Dorothy Chadwick is here from Boston, Massachusetts for a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Chadwick of Union Junction. Miss Chadwick is employed as a dietitian in Boston.

John Wortman who has been visiting with relatives in the western part of Washington, came back last week and got his daughter and son whom he took back with him Saturday. He will probably leave the children in Washington for the winter. Mr. Wortman will have the principalship of the Island City school this year.

Miss Vertie Fisher, who accompanied by her mother and Miss Dorothy Busick, is touring in Yellowstone park, writes back that they are thoroughly enjoying themselves. The party will be gone two or three weeks.

Fred Ratz who for many years has been a rancher in this vicinity, has sold his ranch located just north of the city, to Gravelle Massingale of Utah. The new owner will take immediate possession and Mrs. Ratz will move into Union where he has purchased a residence from Amos Davis.

MENUS

By Sister Mary
Whether one lives in the country and raises one's own vegetables and chickens or in the city where one is dependent on the markets the easiest and most healthful way to keep house is to use the seasonable products.

Seasons mean so much less these days when food is shipped so far and in such excellent condition than it did in the days of our grandmothers that we are apt to forget that each vegetable and fruit has a certain period of perfection and abundance. At these times the food is usually at its lowest price.

Many of the by-products of foods have a sort of "season" when they are particularly plentiful and of superior quality. Cottage cheese is an example of this. During the summer months when milk will become thick or "clabbered" within 24 hours if not kept on ice, cottage cheese is at its very best. There is a delicacy of flavor not found at other seasons of the year.

Smoked and salted meats and fish are often more popular during hot weather than the fresh products. Ham, cured, is a summer standby but fresh ham is relished only during the winter months. There are many varieties of smoked sausages that are particularly liked when the thermometer mounts.

The housewife who markets with this idea in mind will save money and supply her family with the best the market affords this year around.

The accompanying recipe for cottage cheese pie is a reasonable and ideal for summer meals. Served with a vegetable dinner no meat is necessary. A vegetable salad, glass of lemonade and piece of pie would make an adequate and well balanced luncheon.

Cottage Cheese Pie
Three eggs, 1 1/2 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup cottage cheese, 1-3 cup dried currants or small seedless raisins, 1 lemon, 1-2 cups milk, 6 tablespoons powdered sugar.

Separate whites from yolks of two eggs in ice box for meringue. Beat yolks of 2 eggs and 1 whole egg slightly with sugar, grated rind and juice of lemon. Add cottage, salt and currants. Slowly add milk, stirring gently. Turn into a pie pan lined with plain pastry and bake in a moderate oven until firm to the touch, about 40 minutes. Beat whites of eggs until stiff on a platter with a wire whisk. Beat in half the sugar and fold in remaining sugar. Pile on top of the pie and bake eight minutes in a moderate oven. Serve cold.

Cosmetic Poison Found as Menace To French Women

PARIS (AP)—Beauty—the kind that comes in bottles and boxes—is becoming too dangerous to suit the government, and the Ministry of Hygiene is going after the irresponsible "Beauty Institutes."

Face, hair and body of woman, says Dr. Frederic Bordas, eminent physician and the government's expert in the matter, all are being abused. He asserts the threat to health is serious, and the damage already done proves there must be immediate action. New York with its unlicensed beauty shops is held up as a horrible example.

Poison, says Dr. Bordas, is in many cosmetics, and his solution is the plain labelling of all lotions, creams and pastes so that strict enforcement of the law and public opinion can weed out the bad.

"French cosmetic products," says Dr. Bordas, "have a reputation of the first order in the world market, and in the interest of the French industry of perfumes and cosmetics frauds which discredit honest goods must be denounced."

Woman's hair, he says, is being ruined by ignorant treatment and washes that kill it. Lip rouge made of white lead has been found.

Physical abuse of the body, he asserted is common practice in many beauty shops where surplus flesh is pounded and bruised to make it disappear in the eternal search for "that girlish figure."

He cites long lists of poisons used in cosmetics and thinks the mere mention of them on labels, under a proposed law, would drive them from the market.

You certainly have to be alarmed to ride in a rumble seat.

Gluten Flour is RICH

IN FACT, it's richer than all other in lime, iron and food salt content and far richer in vitamins. At the same time, Sanitarium Gluten Flour contains only half as much starch as ordinary flour. And for these reasons it excels in body building qualities.

For the Diabetic
Because the carbohydrate intake of the diabetic must be carefully measured, Sanitarium Gluten Flour is recommended by many physicians.

For the Stout
Because a pound of Sanitarium Gluten Flour replacing ordinary flour saves them more than a pound of weight. The stout may eat Gluten Flour bread when other bread is forbidden.

For the Anemic
Because Sanitarium Gluten Flour has such marvelous blood-building and strength-building properties—the very elements which thin-blooded people must have.
