AT THE THEATERS

Jacqueline Logan Has Character Role at Colonial

Unique in plot, unusual in treatment and simple in presentation, "The Faker," a Columbia production at the Colonial theatre today and Wednesday is one of the best photodramas to be shown here in many months. Those who are looking for mystery, thrills, chills, suspense, and tense drama, interspersed with fitting comedy will do well to witness a showing of "The Faker."
The source sequences are exceptionally well handled and no less awe-inspiring, because the spectator is taken behind the scenes and shown just how they are worked. Jacqueline Logan certainly had a hard job putting her role over, judging from the speed with which she pulled levers, released springs and climbed over roof and walls to make weird noises and produce "spirit" rappings. This sequence should certainly keep any young girl from getting fat. Especially well handled is the materialization scene in which Miss Logan appears as an elderly woman. She is a clever character actress and we hope to see her in more roles of similar character.
Warner Oland is excellent as the faker. He would impress the most skeptical and convince him of the reality of the manifestations that take place in the dimly lit scenes. Charles E. Dudley is the dashing hero, whom we love for the fair assistant of the faker brings about a daring and sensational exposure of the fraud and ends in one of the greatest climaxes we have ever witnessed.

Renee Adoree In Leading Part Of "Spieler"

Charles Richards, casting director at the Pathé Studio, recently made dramatic casts for some two hundred children, when he paid them for attending a circus.
All day long the delighted youngsters rode the merry-go-round, took dizzy trips on a ferris wheel, ate hot dogs, drank pink lemonade, and feasted their eyes on such awe-inspiring sights as the Fat Lady, the Bearded Woman, the Sword Swallower, the Sacred Monkey from India, and other circus curiosities. Getting in without paying admission seemed good enough, but it was almost with unbelief that each tired but happy child received a check at the end of the afternoon.
The occasion was one of the huge carnival scenes in "The Spieler," a fine Pathé picture with Renee Adoree and Alan Hale in the leading roles which will be on view at the Arcade theatre on Wednesday. The cast also includes Clyde Cook, Fred Kohler, Fred Waveren, Jimmy Quinn, Billy Latimer and Kewpie Morgan. The story was written by Hat Conklin and Toy Garnett was the director. It is a Ralph Block production.

Reginald Denny Coming To Star On Wednesday

"His Lucky Day," the latest starring vehicle for Reginald Denny, will be shown at the Star theatre on Wednesday. It rates with his best pictures, such as "Clear the Decks," "The Night Bird," "Skinner's Dress Suit" and others.
Charles Haysden is a young real estate dealer who wants to sell two adjoining mansions to his wealthy father. The father, who thinks himself a great reader of character, has decided that Haysden is a failure. In order to check the affair between Haysden and his daughter, he agrees to rent one of the houses but wishes to buy either until Haysden finds a tenant for the second who is socially equal to the Weavers.
In his efforts to make good, Haysden innocently installs a gang
