Bridge Luncheon Held Yesterday At Reynolds Home

One of the most interesting affairs of the summer months was an attractive bridge luncheon yesterday afternoon for which Mrs. Charles H. Reynolds was hostess at her home on Washington avenue. Complimenting Mrs. John M. Lerche, of Kansas City, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reuter of this morning.

Luncheon was served at one o'clock at small tables at which pond lilies were effectively used. Gladfoll was arranged about the room.

Five tables of bridge were at play with Mrs. Norman W. Frow winning high honors. Several honors went to Mrs. Hal Robinson and consolation to Mrs. W. H. Leisner.

Mrs. Lerche has been here with her sister, Mrs. Reuter, since early summer. She has been an important visitor and has been entertained at a number of smaller affairs.

Margaret Arnold And John Warren To Wed Sept. 4

It will be of interest, both to the college folk and to a number of long-time residents of this city to learn of the approaching marriage of Miss Margaret Arnold of Portland and John A. Warren, of Pendleton in Portland, Sept. 4.

Miss Arnold is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Arnold who made their home here about two decades ago. She has attended the University of Oregon where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Mr. Warren is the son of A. P. Warren, of Pendleton and is a member of Sigma Xi at the University of Oregon. Both have friends among the university students here. They will be married at the Grace Memorial church. Miss Ruth Field, of Sheridan, will be Miss Arnold's only attendant and Frank Minnigh will act as best man.

Lodge Welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Ball

Mr. and Mrs. George Ball were welcomed back to Crystal Rebekah lodge No. 10 in its meeting last night at the Odd Fellows' hall. Mr. and Mrs. Ball have been members of the lodge for many years and have the high regard and friendship of the members.

MAMES EMPINGHAM DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., Aug. 15, (AP)—James Empingham, believed to be the national secretary of the church temperance society, and former superintendent of the New York anti-saloon league, obtained a divorce here last June from Ethel M. Empingham on the ground of desertion. He denied that he was "the" Empingham, but names and facts of marriage were identical as given in the divorce complaint with those of Rev. Empingham.

Mrs. Jennie Byers Hostess to Group

Mrs. Jennie Byers was hostess to members of the Loyal Sisters, Division 4, of the Lutheran church yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Harry Sandoe, president of the division, was in charge of the meeting which was devoted mainly to routine business. About 12 members were present.

It was announced that Mrs. George Rochester had won the quilt made by the society. Mrs. Rochester had the most pieces—252—of any of the members in the block she contributed for the quilt. Mrs. Rochester subsequently presented it to Mrs. R. L. Putnam, wife of the minister of the church.

Mrs. Charles Gladwick assisted Mrs. Byers as hostess for the afternoon.

Readings were given by Mrs. Byers and Mrs. C. E. Golden.

At the close of the afternoon the hostesses served light refreshments.

Informal Dance Event of Friday

One of the delightful events on the social calendar of the Eastern Oregon Normal school is to be an informal dance this Friday evening. The student body is arranging for the affair which will be held in the normal school auditorium. Dancing is to begin at nine o'clock. Each student may invite his or her guest. Patrons and patronesses for the event have been announced. They will be President and Mrs. H. E. Tulow, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Stevenson, Frank Helen Moore, Miss Amanda Zaitch, Miss Gertrude Walker, Miss Alice McDonald, and E. G. Macomber.

Announcements

The Women's society of the Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. M. Pflughaupt, 361 O avenue, at two o'clock. Mrs. E. O. Hess will be the leader.

MAY CONDEMN BUILDINGS OF UNSAFE TYPE

The city manager is to notify all persons involved and whenever there is danger to the public, he may take immediate possession of the building and exclude all persons except those with permits, until the danger is corrected. Notice in writing is necessary after which a hearing will be called either before a regular meeting of the city commissioners or before a board of arbitration. The decision of either group is to be final.

Owner to Pay Expenses

Cost for repairs or removal, when not paid by the owner, shall be assessed to the property on which the nuisance existed.

Two sidewalk improvement districts were created last night, one for sidewalks on J avenue Seventh and Eighth streets, and the other for sidewalks on J avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets and the others for sidewalks on the south side of J avenue from Fourth to Sixth streets, and the West side of Sixth street from I to A avenues. Sept. 11 was set as the time for a hearing on the two districts.

A communication was received from W. P. Fuller & Co. of Portland.

land, offering the city five gallons of paint for the purpose of painting "La Grande" on the top of some building as a city marker for air travel. This was referred to the city manager.

It was announced that Orville Wright, street superintendent, is at the forest fire near Beaver creek, lending assistance to the fighters largely through the use of the city truck.

Bills for July, in the amount of $3,572.95, were ordered paid.

crew, and about 50,000 pieces of mail as freight.

Start Before Dawn

The start from Friedrichshafen was made by full moonlight, an hour before the dawn with a few hundred persons gathered near the Zeppelin's hangar who cheered loudly as its ground crew loosed their hold, and it rose gracefully, circling the port before heading northward.

It was 4:45 a. m. when the Graf's motors were first started. Within a few minutes the passengers were aboard, with Lady Grace Drummond Hay, only woman passenger, first. At 4:45 a. m. Dr. Hugo Eckener, master, who had been standing by the side of the gondola with Frau Eckener, entered the ship, and at 4:5 a. m. the order was given which started it from the hangar.

Last minute effort by an American, Nelson Morris of Chicago, to get aboard the Zeppelin failed. Morris previously had bought a ticket for the trip from the Hamburg-American tourists agent but had been told later there was no room for him and he would not make the trip.

It was believed there would be no stoppage this trip and apparently no attempt was made.

Oil, gasoline, baggage and equipment aboard the Zeppelin weighed about 15 tons. The craft was buoyed by 7,000 cubic meters of hydrogen and was supplied with almost 25,000 cubic meters of blue gas, as fuel.

To Use Only Four Motors

It was intended during most of the trip and particularly when off to sea, to use only four of the Graf's five motors, decreasing its cruising speed to about 58 miles an hour, but increasing its flight radius to about 150 hours, or about 20 hours more than would be needed to reach Tokyo.

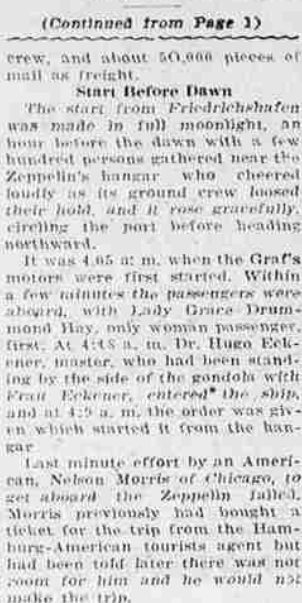

In detail, the course planned by Dr. Eckener, upon leaving subject to change as weather conditions develop, was from Friedrichshafen to Berlin, Berlin to Danzig, to Koenigsberg. It was expected to cross the Soviet border near Dunaburg, Latvia, striking almost due east to Moscow.

Moscow by the course followed, was approximately 1,400 miles from Friedrichshafen, and should be reached about dawn, Friday, from Moscow, the craft, it was expected, would be headed almost due east along the 60th parallel to the Ural mountains, from where it was intended to strike due eastward in Jalutsk.

At Jalutsk the ship expected to turn south and slightly east across the Japan sea to Tokyo, goal of the flight, and starting place for the third lap of the journey to Los Angeles to be begun within four or five days after arrival.

From the Ural mountains to Jalutsk the Zeppelin must cover one of the widest areas known to man. It is peopled largely by nomadic semi-barbaric tribes, few of whom have ever seen an aircraft and many of whom might be inclined to passengers and crew if the Graf should be forced to land.

Much of the country would not sustain life, being at this time of the year an icy barren waste. Dr. Eckener took along firearms and ammunition to enable the voyagers to kill seals, deer, grouse, hare and other arctic game should he be compelled to descend before reaching Tokyo.

Latest Methods Reduce Hazards In Operations

HONOLULU, Aug. 15 (AP)—Up-to-date methods of reducing hazards in surgical operations were described to the Pan-Pacific Surgical congress today by John S. Lundy, M. D., of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn.

With explosive anesthetics such as ethylene, ether and acetylene getting wide use, Dr. Lundy said ground wires from the tanks in the operating room are desirable to avoid electric sparks. Maintaining high humidity in the operating room is another safeguard.

Various expedients have been tried to make cool proof the possibility that the tube supplying the patient might be hooked to the wrong gas tank, giving carbon dioxide when oxygen is wanted, or vice versa.

Colored Tanks Unsafe

Using colored tanks proved unsafe because an occasional attendant was color blind. Complete safety seems now assured by making nipples of different sizes so that the carbon dioxide tube will not fit the oxygen tank.

Fewer is another hazard, affecting patients unfavorably during some stages of operations with local anesthetics. Dr. Lundy said that "by use of a derivative of barbituric acid the fears of the patient may be eliminated to some extent."

Dr. Lundy said that the use of chloroform had been discontinued at the Mayo clinic and at many other institutions.

Give Cancer Facts

Statistics of a cancer survey of Hawaii were presented to the Pan-Pacific congress today by Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician of the Prudential Life Insurance company.

The lowest death rate was among Asiatic Hawaiian males, Chinese, Japanese and Korean men had high rates, twice those of other races.

Among the women, the Porto Ricans led in high death rate with Koreans second. Asiatic Hawaiian women stood at the bottom of the female list.

Mr. Hoffman said he is convinced that rate has "an essential bearing upon the relative cancer frequency."

American Sheep Growers Watch Imported Flock

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Sheep raisers all over the country, according to University of Kentucky agricultural authorities, are showing marked interest in the recent importation of a flock of world famous Ryeland sheep selected from the finest flocks in England.

The king's flock at Sandringham, Lady Ludlow's flock at Luton Hall, the Duke of Devonshire's flock at Goodwood and others contributed to the Kentucky importation of the breed by William H. Holknap, Glasgow, Ky., and Prof. H. C. Miller, University of Kentucky.

Part of the shipment went to the Welkley farm and the remainder to the farm of W. A. Hinton at Sadville. The latter development of the breed in the United States is a national association of Ryeland sheep breeders has been organized by the sale of sheep exports responsible for the first importation of the breed.

The Ryeland sheep, it is said, combines both size and quality of flesh found in other leading breeds, making them superior for the production of spring lambs, a leading Kentucky industry.

Long popular in England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales, the Ryeland has found its way during recent years into Australia, New Zealand, South America, South Africa and with this shipment into the United States.
