SEEK EMPLOYMENT RECORD

CHICAGO, Aug. 15 (AP)—The Chicago Herald-Tribune, Earl Stone and Wilson Heron, took off at 3:12 p. m. today from Municipal airport on their second attempt to break the refueling endurance record of 424 hours, set by the St. Louis Tobin. They were flying the same plane "Chicago Whirl" in which they were forced down yesterday.

Abe Martin

Wouldn't it be fine if people were known for what they are instead of what they belong to? There's so many ways to get away with murder these days that torch and hammer shavers kin hardly decide what to plead.
A doctor says that man will be without toes in 500 centuries. Just what will people do with old safety razor blades, then?

Chaney Tanned Artificially For Picture

"Electric sunburn" is Lon Chaney's latest discovery in makeup. In "Where East is East," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer thriller which is playing at the Star theatre he had to don a heavy coat of sunburn from the waist up. Rather than use paint, with the risk of varying shade, he obtained the services of a physician, and had himself "tanned" naturally by exposure to the rays of a mercury quartz lamp.

Chaney plays "Tiger" Haynes, a grim jungle trapper of wild beasts in the new story, a drama of Slant. Lupo Velez plays his daughter and Estella Taylor a sinister Oriental vamp. Lloyd Hughes and others of note appear in the cast. Ted Browning directed it from his own original story. A setting of unusually large proportions, including a jungle town and a river large enough to sail the captured jungle beasts on was erected for this production.

Piece of Old West To Be Seen At The Star

Photographed against a background of majestic Western scenery and presenting the story of the flight of an outlaw and an orphaned boyhood friend against a gang of counterfeiters, "Idaho Red," an F. F. O. production which stars Tom Tyler and features Frankie Darro, opens at the Star theatre Saturday.

Arriving in the United States from military service in France, Tyler takes Frankie out West to his ranch where he gives him a home. Tom shares ownership and management of the ranch with Mary

Although fresh peaches lack some of the valuable mineral salts found in apples, they have a decided tonic effect and a definite place among the necessary fruits. Use them often while in season.
Small children cannot be allowed to eat uncooked peaches as they are not as digestible as the apple. But when the fruit is stewed and used with rice or tapioca, children five or six years of age may be given the dessert.

"What are most romances but a hunt of a man for a woman, or a woman for a man. And certainly the voice of the city," an all-talking "Conspicuous" production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer which is now playing at the Arcade theatre. "And it is quite apropos that 80 per cent of our screen and stage stories should deal with a hunt in some form."

ed to eat uncooked peaches as they are not as digestible as the apple. But when the fruit is stewed and used with rice or tapioca, children five or six years of age may be given the dessert.
A delicate tartness developed in cooking makes peaches particularly satisfactory with rice or tapioca. A pudding of this sort precludes the use of potatoes in a meal and provides a welcome change. These desserts should finish a light luncheon or dinner.
Peach cobbler is a staple, old-time dessert, economical and "filling."
Six peaches, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter. For batter—One cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg yolk, water to make soft dough. Meringue—One egg white, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon water.
Pure and slice peaches and put into a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar and dot with butter. Add four tablespoons water, cover and simmer while making dough. Mix and stir dry ingredients. Rub in butter with tips of fingers. Beat egg yolk with one-quarter cup water and cut into dry mixture with a knife. Add more water to make as soft a dough as necessary. Spread over peaches and bake 25 minutes in a hot oven. Remove from oven and turn upside-down on a deep pie dish. Cover with meringue. It will take about eight minutes.
To make the meringue, beat white of egg with cold water on a platter with a wire whisk. Beat until stiff. Beat in one tablespoonful of sugar and fold in remaining two.
There is expected to be a deficit in the Postoffice Department again this year, despite proposals of water, mail and postage received by entrance.
