OUT OUR WAY

AT THE THEATERS

"Two Weeks Off" Farewell Tour Of Film Team

The finest and perhaps the last of the Dorothy Mackall-Jack Mulhall film remances is playing at the Star theater today. It is the film version of the stage success "Two Weeks Off" by Kenyon Nicholson, author of "The Barker".

The picture will probably be the last First National Vitaphone film in which the popular lovers will play opposite each other, for both Miss Mackall and Mulhall are to become in their own right. Already both of them receive as much "fame" mail as many of the most popular stars. But they made such hits together with "Waterfront", "Subway Sadie", "The Crystal Cup", "Ladies Night in a Turkish Bath", and a large number of other co-featured films, that the public demanded both of them in one offering.

"Two Weeks Off" ends their co-featured pictures, if it really is the last, in a week of glory. It is tender romance with sparkling comedy, on the very human order that appeals. Gertrude Astor, Eddie Gribbon, and half-a-dozen other capable players make up an unusually strong supporting cast.

"Big News" Premier Today At Arcade

The patrons of the Arcade theatre are in for a treat when they see "Big News", a production of the famous Robert Armstrong and Carol Lombard.

Something new and interesting in 100 per cent dialogue pictures will be unfolded in "Big News", which is built around a mysterious killing, and has all the action, thrills and suspense of any picture of its kind released this season.

It is taken from the story by George S. Brooks and produced by George La Chava.
