Grasshoppers In Wallowa Delay Fall Seeding

By G. C. Mock
(Observer Correspondent)

WALLOWA, Ore., (Special)—The grasshopper situation is reported to be serious in many parts of this community, while the post specific poison bran mixture does not seem to be as effective as it has been in the past. In a number of places they have eaten the leaves and bark from small pine trees and have claimed everything which is green. It is expected that fall seeding of wheat on the dry farms will be delayed until much of the grasshoppers are killed by frosts.

Kenneth Keeler and wife, who have been vacationing on Hurricane Ridge, left Monday for the east several months. He was working for Dewey Mercell and family at the U. G. Couch ranch in the hills.

John Cosett and Frank Walker farmers of the Lostine section have been hauling their grain direct from the field to the C. E. Elliott warehouse at Rhea in the bulk. The grain is being left in the combine with two wagons which make two trips each day from the field to the warehouse. In this way no handling the grain is necessary with expense to make it economical.

Mrs. Mack and two children and her aunt, Mrs. Lucy Mack, left last week for Portland where they will visit relatives for a few days. Mrs. Mack is a sister of Mrs. L. W. Minor and Glenn E. Cousins with their families. Austin and Cousins report a heavy yield from the grain fields of Imbler where they threshed recently. The oats were averaging 75 bushels per acre.

Charles Neely, who formerly farmed in Middle valley but disposed of his interests there after the tragic death of his wife last winter, has been in this community working during the past few weeks. For the past two weeks he has been employed by A. W. Harmon of Lostine.

George Ware of Lostine has been hauling wheat for Osborn and English of Flora for a few days. They recently finished combining their crops of something like 200 acres of fall wheat and report a yield of from 20 to 25 bushels per acre.

Miss Zelma Plass who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Giles Plass, for the past few weeks, left recently for Chicago to resume her work with a large publicity firm there. Miss Plass has been in Chicago for the past two years and in connection with her work there has traveled extensively over the eastern part of the country.

L. V. Lathrop has been busy combining for John Nelson and some of the other farmers in the Upper Parsnip creek section during the past week or two.

Oscar Maxwell finished combining on a job in the Dry creek community the last of the week and moved his machine to the U. G. Couch place in the hills where he has several hundred acres of grain to harvest.

Gordon McGinnis, who had the misfortune to break his leg when thrown from a horse several weeks ago, is able to be about on crutches at this time.

H. C. Hearing and wife of Evans and L. W. Minor and wife of Leap, left by auto early Saturday morning for Milton where they went to get some fruit and visit the D. H. Hearing family of that place.

Mrs. J. B. Gastin recently purchased 60 head of ewes from L. W. Minor as an addition to their flock of sheep.

George Coleman Jr., of Pondtia accompanied by his mother, were visitors in town the latter part of the week. Mr. Coleman reports harvest work well advanced on the ridges and that crops are quite good considering the extremely dry weather. No threshing has been done there although farmers there expect to start threshing soon.

Wert McGinnis, of Powatka, was a business visitor in town the last of the week.

A number of the sheepmen who have been ranging their sheep in this part of the community during several weeks have been getting their lambs gathered from the ranges and brought in for shipment to market. The ranges in all parts of the county are reported to be very dry, providing poor forage for the flocks. During the past week a special train left this county carrying 23 cars of sheep to market. More than half of the shipment was loaded from the local yards. The principal shippers of this lot were Falconer and Boylon. A number of the other large sheep owners here expect to ship their lambs during the next ten days or two weeks.

L. W. Minor recently purchased several hundred head of ewes from M. J. Sevier who is disposing of a large part of his sheep preparatory to moving away.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Roberts here August 24. The mother and baby are reported to be getting along nicely and are at the home of Mrs. Pullen here.

Giles Plass was a business visitor in town the last of the week. He has been threshing for some of the Dry creek farmers and still has several jobs in that community yet.

Receipts from boxing bouts in Missouri during July were more than double those of the same month last year.

Infinitesimal Soil Elements Have Much To Do With Growth of Plants

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Perhaps 30 elements, some of them little understood even by scientists, exert a tremendous influence on plant life.

They are found in the ash of plants, says Dr. A. L. Blake of the plant physiology department at Iowa State college, and among them are aluminum, copper, boron or borax, manganese, zinc and arsenic.

In small quantities these infinitesimal elements often act as stimulants to plant growth, while in larger quantities they prove fatal, just as some drugs affect the animal body.

A bean plant, Dr. Blake says, uses .05 milligram of boron each week of the three months it lives. The smallness of this amount may be understood when it is realized that a milligram is .000035 ounce. Even in this small amount, which was determined only after exhaustive tests, boron is necessary to several plants.

Paradoxical as it may seem, the copper that often is used in spray solutions and which is decidedly poisonous in effect aids the growth of lettuce and onions in certain muck lands of New York. But when present in soil on which barley is grown, even to the extent of one in 5,000,000 parts, copper slightly retards growth.

Manganese, on the other hand, prods the root and top growth of barley to greater efforts when present in small amounts. When it passes a certain small maximum it retards ripening, works havoc with the cell content, and causes "yellowing."

Some mystery surrounds the part aluminum plays in plant growth. It is found in the ash of many plants but whether it is essential is not determined. In growing hydrangeas, which produce both red and blue flowers, the blue flower can be obtained only when aluminum is in the soil.

Dr. Blake says the presence or absence of these chemical elements, so small they can be detected only by accurate analysis, often cause trouble out of all proportion to their size or apparent importance.

The chemical elements always recognized as necessary to plant growth — phosphorus, potassium, sulphur, calcium, iron and magnesium—are well known and their effects measured. In recent years prospectors in the plant and soil kingdom have been trying to solve the mystery of the smaller elements which may affect plants as much or more than the larger and common elements.

Tribes Arming

The Beersheba tribes were said here to be arming and gathering by the thousands for the northward march which gave rise to fear of a clash with British soldiery at Hebron ,scene Saturday of a massacre in which Arabs literally cut to pieces Jewish men, women, and children. Refugees arriving from Transjordania said the situation there was becoming worse.

Although the Jews thus far have been made the object of the Arab attacks the situation has become such that a few fanatical "holy men" might easily turn the fellahs —Moslem peasants— against the Christians and British rulers. Some idea of the widespread Moslem sympathy with the Palestine Arabs could be gleaned from the demonstration yesterday of 20,000 Moslems in the Jewish quarter of Damascus. Troops finally dispersed the tribesmen.

Haifa seems to have suffered from considerable fighting, with many deaths in the Sephardic quarter near the railway station. The American consul here asked the British authorities for immediate help to prevent any trouble in the children's village there where many refugee children from the Ukraine are being cared for by the Near East relief.

Sniping continued in Jerusalem, but it was expected the arrival today of Sir John Chancellor, high commissioner, and continual arrival of British troops by air from Egypt should result in restoration of complete order here. Foreign consuls have been in frequent conference regarding the seriousness of the situation.

of a game. Because of his obvious wish to abide by the high school association rules, the board was lenient in their actions, allowing him to become eligible again next month. Feeling, however, that his playing under misguidance was in violation of the rules, the last game of the season, which Enterprise high won, was forfeited to Joseph high.

Attending the meeting today, besides the board members, were Mr. Williams, B. A. Wright, W. F. Savage, Sannar and Robert Bowser, all of Enterprise.
